PRESIDENT AT SERVICE

The President, Cabinet and Justices of Supreme Court at Thanksgiving Mass

TWENTY NATIONS JOIN

Pan-American Thanksgiving Mass at St. Patrick's Church in Which Twenty Nations of Latin America Join With the United States in Giving Thanks for Providential Favors During the Past Year and Beseeching Permanent Peace for the World's Family—The President's Thanksgiving at the White House.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Beneath entwined flags of the republics of the western hemisphere, President Taft, the members of his cabinet, justices of the supreme court and members of the diplomatic corps attended the Pan-American Thanksgiving Mass at St. Patrick's Catholic church here today. The twenty nations of Latin America joined with the United States in giving thanks for providential favors, during the past year, and in beseeching peace for the world's family. The ceremony was a blend of religious and patriotic fervor.

After mass the guests were entertained at luncheon in St. Patrick's rectory. The President, however, did not attend the function, returning directly to the white house to spend the remainder of the day with his family.

Thanksgiving at White House.

Washington, Nov. 30.—President and Mrs. Taft celebrated Thanksgiving quietly at the white house. They attended divine services at eleven o'clock at St. Patrick's church, where the Pan-American mass was celebrated by Cardinal Gibbons and other high prelates of the Catholic church. At one o'clock the President returned to the white house for his turkey dinner. Miss Helen Taft is entertaining a house party. Tonight a dance will be given after which the party will attend the theatre.

Robert and Charlie Taft did not return to the white house from their respective schools.

PASTOR RETURNED

People Pleased at Return of Rev. J. H. Bowman, Pastor Methodist Protestant Church.

(Special to The Times.)

Siler City, N. C., Nov. 30.—It is a source of much pleasure to his many friends that Rev. J. H. Bowman has been returned as pastor of the M. P. church at this place by the recent Methodist Protestant conference held in Henderson. Mr. Bowman has been pastor of Siler City circuit for two years, and has during this time, endeared himself to this people. He has four churches on his charge, all of which are in a prosperous condition. His friends are pleased with his return.

Dr. G. Edgar Matthews who attended the Henderson conference as a delegate from the church at this place has returned. He was elected a delegate to the general conference of the M. P. church, which meets in Baltimore.

SECRETARY NAGEL TO EXTEND HELPING HAND

Washington, Nov. 30.—With a view of promoting American commerce by lending a helping hand to small manufacturers of the United States, as well as to big concerns Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel will urge congress to enlarge the powers of the bureau of manufacturers. While the export trade in manufacturers is large, it is in the hands of comparatively few manufacturers. Secretary Nagel believes if detailed information of the needs of all foreign lands could be distributed indiscriminately throughout the country, it would result in the development of "infant" manufacturers and greatly enhance the nation's productive wealth.

The secretary consequently will ask that great means be given the bureau for the development of additional agencies abroad and the distribution of data in this country.

CHAMP CLARK

HON. CHAMP CLARK SPEAKS TONIGHT TO ALL IN RALEIGH

Hon. Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives, will deliver an address before the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly tonight. President Chas. L. Coon will deliver his annual address also tonight. The meeting will be open to the public. The hour is 8:30.

Unheralded and unsung for about five minutes, Hon. Champ Clark, who is to deliver the address tonight to the teachers, arrived in the city at 10:40 today from Washington, made the journey from the depot alone and registered at the Yarrow-house. Then his identity became known, and he was surrounded by Raleigh friends. With Mr. R. D. W. Connor and Mrs. Kitchen, he walked from the hotel to the capitol, where he greeted the governor most cordially. It was "Champ" and "Bill" between these old friends.

Mr. Clark was not expected until this evening at 6 o'clock, though he had written that he would come today he said. The letters never arrived. But his arrival this morning was all the more welcome because it was unexpected.

Mr. Clark said he had no politics to talk. "I've said about all I have to say," he told the reporter when seen as he was ushered into Governor Kitchen's office. He will speak to the teachers tonight, and the public is invited.

As a platform speaker, Mr. Clark has few superiors and he has been in great demand in every section of the country. His record as speaker of the Democratic house has been such as to command the attention and admiration of men in all parties. He has made good all along the line. He will be heard tonight by a tremendous audience.

Friday Evening. Mrs. Lida B. Earheart, of the public schools of New York city; Miss Nan L. Mildren, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Carroll G. Pearce, superintendent of the public schools of Milwaukee, will deliver addresses tomorrow evening. The public is invited to attend.

Allied Organizations. The meetings of the various allied organizations of the general assembly will hold forth in separate halls today and tomorrow. Interesting discussions of subjects of importance to teachers in every branch of the work will be had.

May Visit Schools. The visiting teachers have been given invitations to visit the various schools and colleges in the city to see the classes at work. The same privilege has been extended by the authorities at Shaw University and St. Agnes School.

Thanksgiving in Raleigh. Raleigh people and their visitors, the teachers, had a real thanksgiving day today; Raleigh was glad to welcome the teachers, and the teachers were glad to receive such good cheer. A splendid sermon in the auditorium at 10 o'clock this morning was the first public gathering to honor the day; but all through the early afternoon the spirit of the day was in the hearts of all. Those college men among the teachers commented on the weather and remarked that it was a fine day for football. Many anxious inquiries were made later at drug stores and telegraph offices with regard to the games in Richmond and Norfolk.

AT 62 HE WALKS 5,000 MILES

But One of Eight Completes Journey Begun in April.

Annapolis, Nov. 30.—After walking 5,000 miles through all sections of the country east of Denver as far as Maine, as shown by officials of cities through which he passed, William H. Chapman, a 62-year-old ranchman, arrived here today, completing a "hike" that wins a wager for his employer.

He stated that a party of eight started out at the same time, and that every one of the party but himself had dropped out. Mr. Chapman is expecting an automobile, which is following him, but which broke down near Hagerstown. Mr. Chapman started from Denver April 15, last.

31-POUND EAGLE KILLED

Bear Hunters in Dismal Swamp Bring Down King Bird.

Suffolk, Va., Nov. 30.—One of the largest bald eagles ever seen hereabouts was killed today in the Dismal swamps by W. B. Shugart and W. L. Barnhart, both of Pottsville, Pa. The men were hunting bear and took a long shot at the king bird, which weighs 31 pounds and measures 7 feet from tip to tip.

It was presented to the home of the local Eagles, who will have it mounted. The eagle, supposed to be the largest in the swamp, had carried off many hogs from the pens of nearby farmers.

Dinner at Country Club.

As a compliment to Mrs. W. E. Manor, of Harrisonburg, Va., the following guests were entertained at dinner at the Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Sunderland. Mrs. Manor, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eagley, Mrs. James O. Litchford, Mr. Cyrus Cole, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Parrish, of Philadelphia.

CLARK ON HARMONY

Urges Democrats to Stay Together

"Get Together and Stay Together," is the Advice He Gives the Democrats—Tariff Will Be the Chief Issue, Though the Enemy Would Like to Side-track It.

Washington, Nov. 30.—"Get together and stay together!" This is the advice Speaker Champ Clark told me he would give to the Democrats of every community in the land if he had the opportunity. He added that such had been the policy of the Democratic majority of the house since its organization, and that it would be necessary for the rank and file of Democracy to follow to insure a great victory in 1912.

"Of course," said Mr. Clark, "I am taking it for granted that the tariff is to be the chief issue. No doubt the enemy would like to side-track that issue, but we must not permit for an instant."

Mr. Clark had just arrived at the capitol city preparatory to opening the first regular session of the sixty-second congress, and discussed the political situation optimistically and at considerable length.

"Looking back at the recent elections," said Mr. Clark, "they demonstrated two things: one, that the people endorse our tariff record without doubt; two, that wherever we are united, we can win."

"The tariff was the overshadowing question in Massachusetts; also in the second congressional district of Kansas and the third district of Nebraska. In all these places we won. In Massachusetts the high protective Democrats bolted and fought Governor Foss tooth and nail, but he won nevertheless.

In Kentucky, where every Democratic stump speaker forced the tariff to the front we won by forty thousand majority notwithstanding the Republicans swept the state four years ago, and where the present state administration is Republican. The Democrats, under the joint leadership of Governor McCreary and Ollie James were united and aggressive. We carried Maryland for everything except governor, and lost the governorship by reason of a factional fight, just as we lost the New York assembly—all of which clearly shows the vital importance of our friends not only getting together, but staying together and pulling together, now and henceforth."

Democrats Must Stand United.

"After the Democrats in congress have gotten together and made such a splendid record in solidarity it would be a shame and a calamity to lose in 1912 by reason of petty, factional fights of a local nature," said Speaker Clark.

"I believe as firmly as that I must die some day, that we can win in 1912, but to do so there must be no factional fighting anywhere among Democrats. Consequently, I hope that Democrats will forget their local differences, and present a united front. Now is the time for them to get together and stay together. The moral of the bundle of sticks is as forcible today as when Aesop first wrote it—"In unity there is strength," and in this case, victory."

Arrested for Forgery.

Dallas B. Ball, a white man, was carried to Princeton today to answer to a charge of forgery. He was arrested here Tuesday night by Policemen Harbour and Wyatt.

THE MOONSHINER IS EXPANDING BUSINESS

Washington, Nov. 30.—Illicit distilling is steadily increasing in the United States, especially in the states having prohibition laws, according to Commissioner of Internal Revenue Cabel.

During the fiscal year 2,488 illicit distilleries were seized by internal revenue agents, compared with 1911 for the previous years. There are only 923 registered distilleries in the country. Illicit distilling is engaged in most extensively in Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas and Tennessee and Virginia.

REV. JOHN E. WHITE.

The feature of the Teachers' Assembly today was the Thanksgiving sermon preached this morning by Rev. John E. White, D. D., of Atlanta. Dr. White is a former North Carolinian.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE HELD BY STATE TEACHERS ASSEMBLY

"A Little Child Shall Lead Them." This was the morning text of the Rev. Dr. John E. White, of Atlanta, before the Teachers' Assembly. Behind him sat three hundred children, before him were hundreds of North Carolina teachers, and before and around him were hundreds of Raleigh citizens. He came out on this beautiful Thanksgiving Day to worship God and to give thanks unto Him for all His goodness during the past year.

The teachers of North Carolina and many citizens assembled in the auditorium to hear the Thanksgiving sermon by Rev. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga., and a native of North Carolina. President C. L. Coon, of the assembly presided and announced the song and introduced the preacher of the morning. The opening song "Carolina" was sung by 300 school children and at the conclusion of the song President Coon stated that he wanted it announced in the papers that the school children of Raleigh knew how to sing "Carolina."

Rev. W. McC. White, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Raleigh, read the scripture lesson of the morning, the 35th chapter of Isaiah. Rev. A. D. Wilcox, pastor of the Central Methodist church, led in the opening prayer.

Dr. White began his sermon by uttering a personal word of Thanksgiving, saying that in the heart of every man there were two sensitive centers of rejoicing on a day like this—the ordinary rejoicing because of success wherever found. Then there is that inner shrine—holy of holies—that place where there is rejoicing because of one's own success and that of one's friends. The speaker said that he was profoundly grateful to be back home and among the friends of his childhood. He reverted to the fact that his father was a teacher, and that he could have made the same request as did another North Carolina teacher, who had been a Confederate soldier, and who requested just before his death that his sword be placed on his coffin, because all his life he had been a soldier—a soldier of light against ignorance.

Dr. White then read the 11th chapter of Isaiah, and selected the 6th verse, "A Little Child Shall Lead Them." This chapter is the story of the time when all the heasts shall become so that a child may lead them. The prophets had always been pictured as men of sombre aspect—men who were expected to look on the dark side of life—a gloomy brotherhood ever ready to be critical. But the speaker said this picture was misleading. Before the appearance of the prophets men had referred to the golden age as being in the past, but with the advent of the prophets the golden age was prophesied that the time would come when the evil passions of men would be overcome, and peace will reign supreme. Then the little child would lead.

The dream of Isaiah is coming true and we are entering on the era when the child shall lead. In pagan times the child was not as highly considered as now, and the world is growing more and more to appreciate the value of the children. The little child shall be the leader, the captain, the master of men.

The speaker discussed the leadership of the child from a three-fold standpoint—economic leadership—moral leadership, and leadership from the standpoint of religion. In the past children had been considered an economic burden rather than an economic asset. Irving Fisher was quoted as proving by a mathematical proposition that every 8 pound baby is worth $362. The corn crop of the United States is worth $1,200,000,000 and the annual baby crop $6,340,000,000. All the child waste should be saved from a mere economic standpoint.

When babies die because of bad milk there is a great economic loss. The speaker then spoke of the death of children from overwork. A plea was made that the children be saved from an economic standpoint.

Again the leadership of the child from a moral viewpoint was discussed. A mother in placing a value on her child would speak in terms of millions. It is impossible to calculate the mothers value of a child—all her prayers—all her hopes—all her aspirations are centered about the little child as she looks into its face. The world needs the little children as a great moral force. The oxygen of the air is used, and a new supply must come. So the civilization of this age eats up men, and the coming generations come and take the place of those who have gone before.

A story of how husband and wife are kept together by the little child of the home. The meeting was at the court house, where divorce proceedings were in progress. The little girl, as her parents struggled over her, got her arms around the necks of both the father and mother, and they were led to become reconciled. The speaker pointed out that divorces were more frequent in homes where there were no children. The little child helps to heal all the differences in the home, and to cause husband and wife to bear with each other.

Religion begins with the home and even before the Bible is introduced, and not from the Bible but from the child. The ministry of the child was here emphasized. The story of Silas (Continued From Page Two.)

TEACHERS ARE GETTING BUSY

Various Organizations Met This Morning and Heard Papers Read and Discussed

ARE TAUGHT BY EXPERTS

Various Subjects Treated in Entertaining and Thoughtful Manner by Teachers—All Will Hold Sessions This Afternoon and Will Hear Hon. Champ Clark Tonight—County Superintendents Discuss Sanitation.

The allied organizations of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly held interesting meetings today, though the teachers were late in getting together.

The county superintendents met in the hall of the house of representatives and discussed sanitation and medical inspection of school children, Dr. John A. Ferrell and Dr. W. S. Rankin of the state board of health assisting in the discussion. Other subjects were presented.

The association of city superintendents and principals met in the auditorium of the high school building. The subject discussed was the educational qualification of principals and superintendents. Superintendent R. H. Latham read a paper on this subject and discussion, led by President Coon, followed. Another paper was by Superintendent R. J. Tighe, of Asheville.

School Principals.

The state association of school principals held forth in the auditorium building and discussed practical ways of developing and encouraging school spirit. Mr. A. Vermont, of Smithfield, reading a paper. Principal C. H. Jenkins, of Durham, read a paper on practical hygiene teaching and study of pupils' physical condition.

Primary Teachers.

An address by Miss Mildren, of Maryland, featured today's session of the state association of primary teachers. Miss Etta Spier, of the State Normal College, read a paper on certification of primary teachers, and discussion followed this.

Each of these associations will meet this afternoon for sessions and tonight the members will attend the lecture of Hon. Champ Clark.

THE NEW CARDINALS

Great Public Consistory at the Vatican—Concluding and Most Impressive Ceremonies.

Rome, Nov. 30.—The concluding and most impressive ceremony connected with the creating of the new cardinals occurring this morning at a great public consistory, at the vatican when fourteen princes of the church, including three American prelates, Cardinals Falconio, Farley, and O'Connell, were invested with a red hat indicating their rank.

A further evidence of the possibilities on aviation is noted by Consul General Griffiths, of London, who calls attention to the proposed inauguration of an aerial parcels post, to deliver boots and shoes from Northampton (65 miles from London) to Hendon (7 miles from London), where they will be taken charge of by the postoffice for distribution.

NO OPINION YET IN M'CALLERS CASE

Judge R. B. Peebles, who took under advisement the matter of the election of Dr. J. J. L. McCullers as county health officer, has not yet rendered his opinion, the press of business at Wayne superior court being responsible for the delay. It is expected that the opinion will be made Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Judge Peebles passed through Raleigh today enroute to Hillsboro, where he will spend Thanksgiving, and Solicitor Herbert E. Norrh arrived in Raleigh to spend the day with his family.

At Sidney, Me., this season, with only one hired man to help him, G. B. Reynolds, who is now in his eightieth year, has packed 125 barrels of apples.
