MR. C. HINES PURCHASER

Business Trip to Middlesex, Gave His Check for $50, Sobered Up a Bit and Decided He Did Not Want the Pet-Mr. Stewart Has Money for Bear and Supply Company and Bank Are Worrying Over Question of Who Shall Lose.

Mr. C. Hines, an insurance man of Wendell, bought a bear, a real live bear, and paid $50 for it. The seller was A. L. Stewart, of Middlesex. Mr. Stewart has the money and the hear, the Middlesex Supply Company is trying to collect Mr. Hines' check from the bank of Wendell, and Mr. Hines is taking the Keeley cure. All of these facts came out at Wendell last night when a little civil suit, involving $50, was tried at Wendell beefore Justices of the Peace J. A. Wall and J. E. Owens.

On January 26, Mr. Hines wentn to Middlesex on business and while there became fondly attached to a bear belonging to Mr. A. L. Stewart, a liveryman. Mr. Hines' admiration for Bruin increased during the day and he offered Mr. Stewart $50 for the animal. Mr. Stewart accented the offer, took the Wendell man's check for $50 and Mr. Hines took the bear.

Didn't Want the Bear.

Later, however, Mr. Hines decided that he had little use for the bear. What could an insurance man do with a bear?" he argued to himself, and most of it, the state board says, and the answer was, "Nothing." So he demanded of Mr. Stewart the return of his check, and on being refused notified the bear-seller that the check would not be cashed. Mr. Stewart then got the Middlesex Supply Company to cash the check. An officer of this company called up the Wendell Bank at 9 p. m. the day of sends on the charges of bribery and the transaction and was informed corruption made in connection with that Mr. Hines' check was good for Satt.

Mr. Hines went home, gave his wife an order for his money, she withdrew it from the bank early next morning and he left Wendell to take the Keeley cure. About 10 a. m. the check for $50 reached the bank and was not cashed because Mr. Hines no longer had any money on deposit.

The Issue Tried.

The issue came to trial last night and the justices of the peace held that the Middlesex Supply Company and not the bank must lose the money. An appeal was taken. Mr. J. W. Bunn, of Raleigh, represented the bank and Mr. Braswell represented the company.

The Court Room Crowded.

Practically all of Wendell's male population was present at the trial. The mayor's office was crowded, the windows were clogged with men and the doors were filled. A large number stayed outside. The rules of the court were temporarily relaxed in honor of the bear (which was not present, however), and the men filled the room with cigar smoke. The only fact that was definitely determined last night-since an appreal was taken-is that Mr. Stewart still has his bear and $50. that Mr. Hines has gone away for a few weeks and that either the Bank of Wendell or the Middlesex Supply Company must lose $50.
