TIMOTHY F. LEE DEAD

Was Reconstruction Sheriff of Wake County

Came to Raleigh With Sherman's Army in 1865, and Became Leader of Republican Party After War—Had Been in Feeble Health For Years—Two Children Buried Here.

Timothy F. Lee, the only reconstruction sheriff Wake county ever had, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Maide Fosgate, at Quincey, Ill., today, the telegram announcing his death being received by Col. J. C. L. Harris.

Jolly and humorous, Captain Lee was a typical Irishman and despite the fact that he was an interloper, was popular with the people of Wake county.

For many years Captain Lee was immigration agent at Ellis Island, N. Y. While in Washington on one occasion, he stepped on a lead pencil, the thing caused him to fall and he sustained a permanent injury to his left hip.

The body will be taken to Kenesaw, N. Y., for burial. Captain Lee was a devout Catholic.
