

MEETING TODAY OF DAIRYMEN

Adopt Petition Asking For Appointment of Competent Milk Inspector

The dairymen of the city met this morning at 10:30 at the Woman's Club in joint session with the milk committee of the Woman's Club. About eleven dairymen were present and a number of others telephoned that they were unable to attend but were in hearty favor of any measures that should be adopted for a more sanitary milk supply.

The following were present at the meeting: John W. Harden, E. W. Worth, proprietor Oakhurst dairy; Mrs. N. C. Gattis, Mrs. L. D. Harris, James N. Jeffrey, R. N. Wynne, Jr., L. M. Oden, of the Raleigh Creamery; A. T. Bradley, S. N. Seymour, Mrs. D. H. Allen and S. D. Mitchell.

The following petition which was signed by every dairy owner at the meeting, will be presented to the city officials. Not only the public but the dairymen feel the need of a competent inspector:

"We the undersigned dairymen and producer of milk in and about Raleigh, realizing that the present system of milk inspection is inefficient, misleading and practically worthless, do hereby petition the honorable mayor and board of aldermen of the city of Raleigh that an efficient system of milk inspection be secured by the appointment of a competent inspector, familiar with the practical questions of dairying, as well as possessing knowledge of the diseases of animals and the sanitary requirements for producing clean and wholesome milk."

Mr. S. N. Seymour was elected temporary president, Mr. J. N. Jeffrey, vice-president, and Mr. L. Oden, secretary.

Another meeting will be held at the Woman's Club a week from today, April 17, at 10:30, when permanent officers will be elected.

CAPTAIN DOUGHERTY TO PHILIPPINES

Capt. Andrew Jackson Dougherty, who for several months has been stationed in Raleigh, has received notice from the war department that he has been transferred from the 30th infantry, with which he is now serving, to the 8th infantry, which will carry him to Zamboanga, Philippine Islands. He will leave Raleigh September 1. Captain Dougherty has certainly been well received by the North Carolina National Guard and all others with whom he has come in contact, and he will leave many friends and well-wishers in the old North State.

A. AND M. AND SOUTH CAROLINA PLAY TOMORROW

The University of South Carolina will meet the A. and M. team on the local grounds here tomorrow for the deciding game of a series. During the past two seasons each team has won a game and this is to decide the rubber. Judging by comparative scores this will be a hotly contested game and one well worth seeing.

Turner Art Exhibit

For the benefit of the city schools, a Turner Art Exhibit is being held in the auditorium of the High School, the money made to be invested in beautiful pictures for the schools. Copies of the world's famous masterpieces may be seen in this exhibit, which is open all day and in the evening for the rest of the week.

It is expected that Raleigh art lovers will avail themselves of the pleasure and privilege.

The admission fee is ten cents for adults and five cents for children. Catalogues are on sale at ten cents each.

Commissioners Return

Chairman Franklin McNeill and Clerk A. J. Maxwell, of the corporation commission, returned today from High Point, where they attended the hearing before a special examiner for the interstate commerce commission of evidence introduced by the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' Association, which has entered suits against railroads for equitable freight rates to the west. Mr. Travis will return later.

Mrs. Farabee Improving

Mrs. Samuel H. Farabee, who was operated on at Rex Hospital about a month ago, and has been steadily improving since, is so far recovered as to be able to return to her home today. This will be good news to her many friends in the city.

Fayetteville All Right

Captain A. J. Dougherty returned today from Fayetteville where he inspected the military company there. Fayetteville has the finest army in the state and has a splendid organization.

wants to down President Taft. Here is where he and Mr. Morehead cannot keep close together, and may be the rock on which they both will fall.

In Wake County.

There is much activity between the two factions in Wake county over the selection of delegates to the state convention. A primary has been called for Saturday night, April 20, to select delegates to the county convention. The primary hours in the county will be from 2 p. m. until night.

Nothing was said about the primary when the executive committee met here Saturday and republicans began learning about it today. Col. J. C. L. Harris, who is rather independent so far as factions are concerned, said it looked to him like the Butler organization in this county was trying to take advantage of its opponents and sneak over a delegation pledged to its men. "It looks like," he said, "they are trying to perpetrate a fraud in order to send delegates to the state convention for Roosevelt, Marion Butler and Morehead."

Col. Harris said he did not care who was chosen for the honors, but he would like to see an honest effort made to build up the party in Wake county. The majority should rule, but it seems, he declared, that the Butler forces wanted a small minority to rule. Colonel Harris thought the primary and convention might have been called a few days before the state convention so that all the republicans in the county might have a voice in the selection of delegates.

Mr. Lester F. Butler was asked about the primary and he said that the committee had not only complied with the party's plan of organization, but had gone it three days better. The committee is compelled to give fifteen days' notice between a call and a convention.

For County Chairman.

The contest for county chairman is going merrily on. The friends of Messrs. Butler and Andrews are raking the county. There will not be a republican in the county, it was said today, who will not be asked to pledge himself for one of the two aspirants. Mr. Butler is the present chairman.

HARNEY DIES OF WOUNDS.

Young Elfrida Seaman Who Was Shot by Robinson.

Elizabeth City, April 10.—Raymond Harney, the young seaman who was shot here last Thursday night on board the cruiser Elfrida by Hugh Robinson, died at the naval hospital in Norfolk Sunday afternoon where he had been carried for treatment after being shot. Robinson, who was out under bond, has been reinstated and placed in jail and will have to answer to the charge of murder at the next term of court. Harney's home is in Baltimore. He was serving as seaman on the Elfrida. Robinson is a son of the chief of police at Edenton and was a member of the party accompanying Fish Commissioner Vann to help enforce the fish laws in the sounds of the eastern part of this state.

But Little Change in Flood Situation.

Washington, D. C., April 10.—The weather bureau announced that with the exception of a break in the levee yesterday at Wilson's, Ark., eleven miles below Osceola, there has been no change in the flood situation along the Mississippi.

SENATOR ON ROOSEVELT

Senator Jones of Washington Replies to Roosevelt Strictures

Washington, April 10.—Col. Roosevelt was portrayed in the senate today as the counterpart of Pontius Pilate.

The picture was drawn by Senator Jones of Washington, who sketched as the ground-work the recent Detroit speech of the former president condemning the votes of the majority members of the Lorimer committee, favorable to the Illinois senator, as not being responsive to the sentiment of their constituencies.

"This is the latest rule for judicial action suggested by this self-proclaimed leader of progress," said Senator Jones. "Because we have not followed it we are not progressive, but reactionary. This was the rule of action followed by Pilate nearly nineteen hundred years ago. This is the first time, I venture to say, in our history or in the history of any civilized people, that Pilate's rule of judicial action has met the approval of any man save those who would crucify Jesus, and only despise him for following it."

"If former President Roosevelt had been standing on one side when Pilate delivered Jesus to the Jews, after having examined into the charges and found no fault in him but, at the demand of the people, turned him over to them for crucifixion, he would have clapped his hands and exclaimed 'Most Righteous, Most Honorable, Most Just Judge.' At least he would have done this if he had been as progressive then as he is now. I am charitable enough to believe, however, that he would have been a reactionary."

Senator Jones prefaced his speech by saying that those who expected to hear the sensational would be disappointed and that those expecting a discussion of the presidential campaign need not listen. He said he would not discuss politics. He recited rapidly conditions which made the present time prosperous, but said that with everything to make us happy "we are engaged in a saturnalia of political vituperation."

Justice and fair dealing are thrown to the winds," he added. "Appeals to passion and prejudice displace reason and logic. Vileness and corruption are sought for eagerly and we rejoice if we are successful in our search. Sinister motives prompt those who disagree with us and none is good save ourselves. Under the banner of progression, anarchy is preached in honeyed phrase and fulsome flattery. Our sense of justice and fairness is deadened by our declamation and insidious suggestion. Until a short time ago supposedly new ideas, as old as governments among men, were advocated with some show of reason and prudence.

"A new Richmond, however, has rushed upon the political field. The real, consistent, faithful, leader of radical political thought, whose courage, consistency and faithfulness we all admired, even if we did not accept the doctrines advocated, became ill and exhausted. The banner he was faithfully and bravely carrying was dropping.

"This new Richmond rushed upon the political scene, threw his hat into the ring, and shouted to the wavering hosts to follow him in the high ways of progress and victory. Hoping to reap where others had sown, he sought to pluck the fruit of victory to his own bosom. Having worked and won the despised standpaters, and not being practiced in the principles of modern political progress, he, with the recklessness of ignorance, and the rashness of the new convert, is appealing to all that is base, selfish and unjust in the apparent hope of gratifying an insatiable ambition.

"In his campaign for place and power he seems to have forgotten the honors bestowed upon him by his party and by the people of his country. He seems to be unmindful of the dignity and deportment of one who has filled the most exalted position in the gift of men. We expect and tolerate the actions and utterances of the ordinary politician but it is a shock to our people to see their idol seeking place and power by appealing passions, prejudices and hatreds and whose most powerful argument is denunciation of the motives and honesty of those who oppose him. He would substitute the biased, warped and inflated opinions of the multitude for the judgment of those acting in a judicial capacity based on sworn evidence, weighed and balanced by those rules and principles which have been brought forth from the crucible of time to insure justice to the poor and the rich; the weak and the strong."

Senator Jones said he did not propose to discuss the judicial recall, but would notice only the latest suggestion advanced for the guidance recent floods in this county. The four bridges contracted for by the commissioners make a total of seven bridges authorized since the flood, the total cost of erecting the seven being between $8,000 and $9,000. It is probable that contracts for other steel bridges to span other important streams in the county will be let during the spring and summer.

Alleged retailers fell into the meshes of the law one after another Monday night and Tuesday morning and when the final suspect had been locked the police blotter showed an even half dozen occupying prison cells. The police have been quietly working on evidence tending to incriminate the men for several days and believe they have strong cases. Four of the accused retailers are negroes and two white.

THEGARDEN PESTS

Means for Freeing the Gardens of Them—Good Road Mileage.

Washington, April 10.—Tomatoes, cabbage, sweet potatoes and other vegetables and garden plants, and especially those which are started under glass and transplanted, are subject to serious injury by cut-worms. They appear sometimes in great numbers in spring and early summer and frequently do severe injury before their ravages are noticed. The method of attack is to cut off the young plants at about the surface of the ground, and as these insects are of large size the voracious feeders they are capable of destroying many plants in a single night, frequently more than they can devour. During the past two years these insects, working generally throughout the United States, destroyed hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of crops. By the timely application of remedies, however, it was demonstrated by the department of agriculture through field agents and others of the bureau of entomology engaged in the investigation of insects injurious to truck crops and sugar beets in some of the principal trucking regions, notably in Tidewater Virginia, in southern Texas, in the vicinity of Rocky Forge, Colo., in southern California, in the vicinity of Sacramento, Cal., in Stak county, Ind., and in some other regions, that these insects can be readily controlled, large areas being successfully treated. The usual method of control is by the use of poisoned baits.

Take a bushel of dry bran, add 1 pound of arsenic or Paris Green, and mix it thoroughly into a wash with 8 gallons of water, in which has been stirred half a gallon of sorghum, or other cheap molasses. After the mash has stood several hours, scatter it in lumps the size of a marble over the fields where the injury is beginning to appear and about the bases of the plants set out. Apply late in the day so as to place the poison about the plants over night, which is the time when the cut-worms are active. Apply a second time if necessary.

When cut-worms occur in unusual abundance which happens locally, and sometimes, in some seasons, they exhaust their food supply and are driven to migrate to other fields. This they do, literally in armies, assuming what is called the army-worm habit. At such times it is necessary to treat them as we do army worms. While the methods which have been advised are valuable in such cases, these remedies may be too slow to destroy all the cut-worms and we, therefore, have to employ other methods. These include trenching, ditching, the plowing of deep furrows in advance of the traveling cut-worms to trap them, and the dragging of logs or brush through the furrows. If the trenches can be filled with water, the addition of a small quantity of kerosene so as to form a thin seal on the surface will prove fatal. In extreme cases barriers of fence boards are erected and the tops smeared with tar or other sticky substances to stop the cutworms as they attempt to crawl over.

Clean cultured methods and rotation of crops are advisable, as also fall plowing and diking. Many cut-worms can be destroyed where it is possible to overflow the fields. This is particularly applicable where irrigation is practiced.

Under the direction of Secretary Wilson, a comprehensive statistical investigation of the mileage and cost of public roads in the United States has recently been completed by the office of public roads. The investigations show that there are 2,199,645 miles of public roads in continental United States. Of this vast mileage, only 190,476, or 8.66 per cent, are classed as improved.

Rhode Island leads with 49.14 per cent of improved roads, while Massachusetts is second with 49 per cent. Indiana follows with 36.7 per cent. Ohio, Connecticut, New Jersey, Vermont, and California follow in a descending order, the latter having 17.87 per cent of improved roads. The states of Wisconsin, New York, Maryland, Utah, Tennessee, South Carolina, Maine, and Michigan range in the order managers. This morning they are bowed in grief, nursing the remnants of what was once a presidential boom. The day of the nomination of candidates by direct expression of the voters has come."

McKinley Says He Expected It.

Washington, April 10.—Representative William B. McKinley, director of the Taft national headquarters, issued the first official statement from the Taft side upon the presidential primary in Illinois. "The result in Illinois was not unexpected to those familiar with the situation," said McKinley. "The issues were so peculiarly local as to cause the presidential fight to be lost sight of so far as Taft was concerned. The participation of eight candidates for the republican nomination for governor resulted in a complete breaking down of all party organization," says the statement.

McKinley continued: "I have never claimed a single delegate from Illinois. I have never included it in my calculations when I have said, repeatedly Taft will have more votes in the Chicago convention than in 1908, when he received 702 votes. I repeat that prediction now and am absolutely confident of its vindication."

Slugged Them Over the Ropes.

Greensburg, Pa., April 10.—"We slugged them over the ropes." This was Col. Roosevelt's comment upon his victory in the Illinois primaries yesterday. The Colonel was in high spirits. Roosevelt's first speech of a two days' tour through Pennsylvania was at Jeannette. "I want to see Pennsylvania do on Saturday what Illinois did yesterday and declare for the people against the politicians," he said.

A woman is very sure she is almost in society when her best friends are too mean to admit it.

To every person suffering with an old sore or chronic ulcer, the very best news in this paper is contained in the present article. It is good news because it is true; it tells of a way to get rid of these plague spots which so often sap the strength and vitality, and best of all, this permanent cure is in reach of every one.

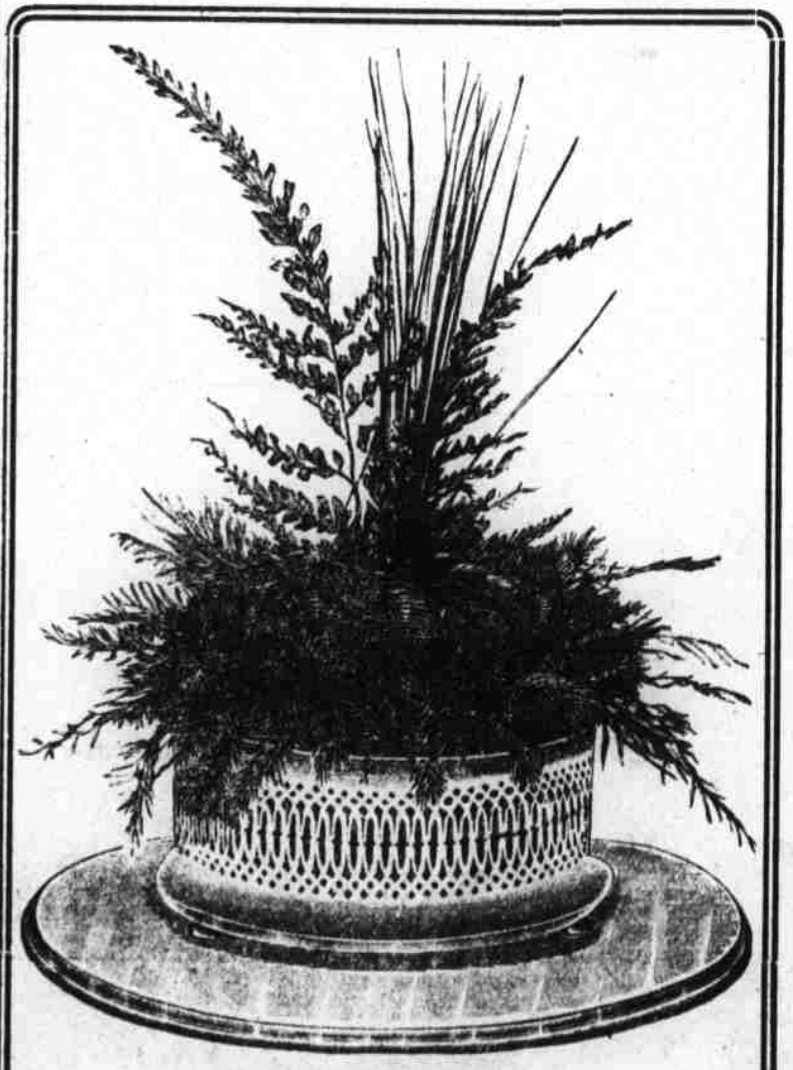

It is an absolutely true statement to say that every old sore or chronic ulcer exists solely because of bad blood. Outside contaminations or influences may increase the local inflammation, but such things have nothing to do with keeping the place open. It is the infected blood discharging its impurities through a weak spot on the flesh that does this, and the sore will continue, gradually growing worse, until the blood is purified of the exciting cause.

See how nature points to the cause through the symptoms. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh, and the fact that external applications never have any curative effect on the sore, show that deep down in the circulation there is a morbid cause which prevents place from healing. But more convincing proof that bad blood is responsible for old sores, is furnished by the fact that even removing any visible trace of the ulcer by surgical operation does not cure; the sore always returns.

S. S. S. heals old sores because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers; it goes into the circulation and removes the cause from the blood. When the blood has been purified there is no longer any inflammatory or infectious matter to irritate the place and nature causes a natural and certain healing of the ulcer. When S. S. S. has cleansed the circulation and the place is well, it is not a surface cure, not simply a smoothing over of the outward evidence, but it is a perfect and permanent cure, because every vestige of the old cause has been driven out. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, cleansing and invigorating in their nature, and of great tonic value. It is a medicine adapted to persons of any age, and is just as effective with the old as with the young or middle aged. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is greatly strengthened and benefited. To hear of S. S. S. has been good news to thousands, it is good news for you.

If you wish any special advice about an old sore or ulcer write for our free book, and ask our medical department to give you instructions you may feel the need of. No charge for the book or advice. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.
