Classical and Mathematical

SCHOOL.

HILLSBOROUGH, N. C.

THE exercises of the Caldwell Institute having been discontinued, the subscribers will open a School on the 14th day of January, 1851, in the building lately used by that institution, under their own control and direction.

The course of instruction will be such as to prepare young men thoroughly for the Sophomore class in College, or when a College course is not intended, for the business transactions of life.

The strictest attention will be given to the moral department of the students, and if long-experience in the education of youth be a ground of confidence to those who may patronize the School, we promise to use that experience to promote the best interests of those who may be committed to our charge.

Terms in the Classical and Mathematical department, $20; and in English $15 a session in advance.

COMMUNICATION.

FOR THE REGISTER.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

Course of studies in Normal Schools—A knowledge of the Mathematics necessary for Mechanics, &c.

No. 2.

The following is the course of study usually adopted in Normal schools. It varies in different states, but the one I subjoin is nearly the New York Course, and I think it by far the best:

First year, or Freshman class, Reading, Spelling, Elementary sounds of the letters, Writing, Geography and out line maps, Intellectual Arithmetic, Elementary Arithmetic, English Grammar, History, Elementary Algebra begun.

Second year, Sophomore, Intellectual Arithmetic, Elementary Arithmetic, High Arithmetic begun, Geography and Map drawing, Writing, Elementary sounds of letters, Reading, History, English Grammar, Elementary Algebra begun.

Third year, or Junior, Spelling, Book-keeping, English Grammar reviewed, High Arithmetic reviewed, Geometry five or six books, Constitutional Law with parts of the Statutes of any particular State, Drawing, Elementary Algebra reviewed, Natural Philosophy, Mathematical Geography, Use of Globes.

Fourth year, Senior class, Higher Algebra, Plane Trigonometry, Land surveying, Rhetoric, Aids to English composition, Human Physiology, Astronomy, Intellectual Philosophy, Chemistry, Agricultural Chemistry, Moral Philosophy, Art of Teaching.

A thorough acquaintance with the whole of the above course on the part of the male pupils, should be made a condition for graduating. In these schools there is commonly a department for females. And they are also required to sustain an approved examination upon the same branches, before graduating, with the exception perhaps, of Algebra, Plane Trigonometry and Surveying. If it suited the views of the State, the selection of pupils for a state school, might be left to the board of superintendants of the different counties, and each county entitled to a number, equal to that of its Representatives in the House of Commons. The pupils, on entering the school, should be subjected to a thorough examination by the Faculty upon such preparatory branches, as the State might think proper to direct. Reading, Writing, Geography and Arithmetic, as far as fractions, would perhaps be sufficient. Of course, those who might fail to pass an examination, should receive nothing from the State, but their mile age. The time required to accomplish the course, should depend upon the talents and attainments of the pupils. I think, that the males selected for such a school, should be between sixteen and eighteen years of age, and females, provided there is a department for them, between fourteen and sixteen. In making the selection of pupils, strict attention should be given to their abilities and moral character. Those should be chosen, and those only, who in the judgment of the superintendants, will make the most efficient teachers. And furthermore, other things being equal, those should be preferred, who have a good knowledge of the common English branches. All pupils on entering the school, should be made to sign a contract, or declaration, that they intend to follow the business of teaching district schools, and that they have no other object in entering the Normal school, but to prepare themselves for this employment.

Such is the course of studies in which the children of the North are instructed.— And it sufficiently accounts in my opinion for our dependence on that country, for all those articles of domestic use for which we annually pay millions of dollars. We can have the same course in our district schools by the power of one single word, by simply saying, yes, to something, like the following:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That there shall be appropriated the sum of fifteen thousand dollars from the Common School revenue, to be expended in the erection of suitable buildings for the use of a State Normal School for the education and practice of teachers of the Common Schools of this State. And that these buildings shall be erected at such time and place and by such executive means as the State shall think proper to direct.

2. Be it further enacted, That this institution shall be known by the name and style
