THE SPEECH OF BRITISH KING, On the opening of his Imperial Parliament of Great-Britain and Ireland.

My Lords and Gentlemen, As a crisis is important to the interests of my people, I have great satisfaction from being enabled, for the first time, to avail myself of the advice and assistance of the Parliament of my united Kingdom of Great-Britain and Ireland.

This memorable era, distinguished by the accomplishment of a measure calculated to augment and consolidate the strength of the Empire, and to cement more closely the interests and affections of my subjects, will, I trust, be equally marked by that vigour, energy, and firmness, which the circumstances of our present situation peculiarly require.

The unfortunate course of events on the continent, and the consequences which must be expected to result from it, cannot fail to be matter of anxiety and concern to all those who have a just feeling for the security and independence of Europe.

Your astonishment as well as your regret must be excited by the conduct of those powers whose attention, at such a period, appears to be more engaged in endeavours to weaken the naval force of the British empire, which hitherto opposed to powerful an obstacle to the inordinate ambition of France, than in concerting the means of mutual defence against their common and increasing danger.

The representations which I directed to be made to the court of Petersburg, in consequence of the outrages committed against the ships, property, and persons of my subjects, have been treated with the utmost disrespect; and the proceedings of which I complained have been aggravated by subsequent acts of injustice and violence.

Under these circumstances a convention has been concluded by that court with those of Copenhagen and Stockholm, the object of which, as avowed by one of the contracting parties, is to renew their former engagements for establishing by force a new code of Maritime Law, inconsistent with the rights and hostile to the interests of this country.

In this situation, I could not hesitate as to the conduct it became me to pursue. I have taken the earliest measures to repel the aggressions of this hostile confederacy, and to support those principles which are essential to the maintenance of our naval strength, and which are grounded on the system of public law, so long established and recognized in Europe.

I have at the same time, given such assurances, as manifest my disposition to renew my ancient relations with those powers, whenever it can be done consistently with the honor of my crown, and with a just regard for the safety of my subjects. You will, I am persuaded, omit nothing on your part, that can afford me the most vigorous and effectual support in my firm determination to maintain to the utmost, against every attack, the naval rights and the interests of my Empire.

I have directed the estimates for the several branches of the public service to be laid before you. Deeply as I lament the continued necessity of adding to the burdens of my people, I am persuaded you will feel with me the importance of providing effectual means for those exertions which are indispensably requisite for the honour and security of the country.

I am confident that your deliberations will be uniformly directed to the great object of improving the benefits of that happy Union which, by the blessings of Providence has now been effected; and of promoting to the utmost, the prosperity of every part of my dominions.

You will, I doubt not, refine the enquiries which were so diligently prosecuted in the last Session of Parliament, as to the best means of relieving my subjects from the pressure of the present high price of provisions; and of preventing, as far as it can be done by human foresight, the recurrence of similar difficulties. In these endeavours, and in every measure that can contribute to the happiness of my people, the great end of all my wishes, you may be assured of my cordial concurrence.

You may rely on my availing myself of the earliest opportunity which shall afford a prospect of terminating the present contest, on grounds consistent with our security and honour, and with the maintenance of those essential rights on which our naval strength must always principally depend.

It will afford me the truest and most heartfelt satisfaction, whenever the disposition of our enemies shall enable me, thus to restore to the subjects of my United Kingdom the blessing of peace, and thereby confirm and augment those advantages which result from our internal situation, and which, even under all the difficulties of war, have carried to so great an extent the agriculture, manufactures, commerce, and revenue of the country.

Talkin's famous imported Running Mare Selma; got by Lord Godolphin's Arabian, out of Snap Dragon (Sister to Angeline) bred by Mr. Shuttle, got by Snap, Regulus, Gentles, Childers, Honeywood's Arabian, dam of the True Blues. Medley was got by Gimerack out of Arminia, got by snap out of Miss Cleveland, by Regular; his Dam Milly by Bay Bolton; Yorick was got by Morton's Traveller, out of Blacilla, got by Black in England, bred by Mr. Thomas Fenwick, and by the Devonshire Childers, out of a moderate filly, by Gray Gantham, Duke of Rutland's Black Barb, out of Chrichton's Roan; Yorick's Grandam was Jenny Cameron, got by Cuddy, by Old Fox, out of Miss Bellvoir, the dam of Lord Charlott's, by Gray Gantham; her Dam by the Pop Lark, out of Betty Perivall, by Lord's Arabian, by Spanker, &c. Miss Bellvoir was one of the very best running Mares in England in her Year.
BELL-AIR won the Jockey Club Purse at Annapolis and Bladenburgh, in Maryland, in the Year 1790, 1791, beating Triumper, Chafeyake, Shakspere, and several other of the best Horses in Maryland; he won the Jockey Club Purse in the Spring meeting of 1792, beating Mr. Butler's famous running Mare Camilla, with the three above Maryland Horses; he won the Jockey Club Purse at the Bowling Green, in the fall of 1793, beating at three Years Mr. Robert Page's Horse Lamplighter, Mr. Thomas Alexander's Horse Snap, Mr. John Thornton's Horse White Jacket; he was beaten only three times; first, at a match in Richmond, in the year 1791, against Mr. Randolph's Roan Horse Gimerack, when in extreme bad order, after having travelled at least two hundred Miles prior to the race, and winning the Purse in Maryland the month only before the Match was run a secondly, in a Sweepstakes at Leeds, in the year 1792, by Camilla, and Grey Diomed, then called Enterprise, when the Horse I intended to run fell lame, and I chose to have Bell-Air, though not prepared, rather than have no horse to run, and although a beaten horse, he almost distanced Mr. Randolph's roan Horse Gimerack; and lastly, at the Bowling Green, in the Fall Meeting of 1793, by Lamplighter, at three heats, and then, though a beaten horse, he beat Mr. Butler's mare Camilla easily; it must have been evident to all conversant with the turf, he must have won this Purse had not his rider tumbled, who had been sick previous to the race; his last performance was at Petersburg, on New-Market, in the fall of 1794, when after running twice miles at the Bowling Green only a fortnight before, he distanced Dr. Dixon's noted ransiny Horse Nap-cracker, Mr. Richard Bland's running Horse Phoenix, Mr. Albe's famous running Horse Rockback, with some other good Horses.

The above is a true Copy of his Pedigree and Performances.

THE great Applause which this excellent Book has received, is a sure Proof of its Merit. The vast Sale which it has had for several Years, is a fair Criterion by which the public Opinion of its worth can be known. The Plan of the Work is copious, but by a happy Arrangement, the Reader is at once presented with the contemporary History of every Part of Europe. The Book now offered to the Public is from the last and most correct Copy, to which there shall be no way inferior—it contains an Account of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire.
