Address of Bonaparte to his Army.
From my Imperial camp at Schoenbrunn, December 27.

Soldiers! For ten years I have done all I could to save the king of Naples; he has done all in his power to destroy himself.

After the battles of Deago, of Mon-tovi, and of Lodi, he could give me no effectual opposition. I placed confidence in the word of this prince, and I behaved with generosity to him.

When the second coalition was dissolved at Marengo, the King of Naples, who was the first to commence that unjust war, abandoned at Lunéville by his allies, remained alone, and without protection.

A few weeks ago, you were at the siege of Naples. I had sufficient reason to suspect the treachery which was intended, and to avenge the injuries which I had received. Still I was generous. I acknowledged the fidelity of Naples; I ordered you to evacuate that kingdom, and for the third time the house of Naples was confirmed and saved.

Shall we grant pardon for a fourth time? Shall we, for a fourth time, place any confidence in a court without truth, honor or common sense?
No! no! The Neapolitan dynasty has ceased to reign; its existence is incompatible with the repose of Europe, and the honour of our crown.

Soldiers! March, drive into the sea, if they will wait your attack, these feeble battalions of the sea.
Show to the world the manner in which we punish the perjured.
Leave no time in informing me, that the whole of Italy is subject to my law, or those of my allies; that the finest country of the world is emancipated from the yoke of the most perfidious of men; that the sacredness of treaties is avenged, and that the marks of my brave soldiers, massacred in the ports of Sicily, on their return from the dangers of the sea, the deserts, and a hundred battles, are at length appeared.

Soldiers! my brother will lead you on; he is acquainted with all my plans; he is the full depositary of my authority; he is in full possession of my confidence; let him have yours.

SCHOENBRUNN, DEC. 29.
Before the Emperor Napoleon left this place he published the following.

PROCLAMATION TO THE ARMY.
SOLDIERS,
Peace between me and the Emperor of Austria is signed.
You have in this late season of the year made two campaigns, you have performed every thing I expected from you. I am setting out to return to my capital. I have promoted and distributed rewards to those who have distinguished themselves most; I will perform to you every thing that I have promised. You have seen that your Emperor has shared with you all dangers and fatigues; you shall likewise see him surrounded with all that grandeur and splendour which becomes the sovereign of the first nation of the world. In the beginning of the month of May I will give you a grand festival at Paris; you shall all be there; and we shall there see whether we are called by the happiness of our country, and the interests of our glory.

Soldiers, during the three months which are necessary for your return to France, be the example of all armies. You have now to give examples not of your courage and intrepidity, but of strict discipline—may my allies no more have to complain of your behaviour! Conduct yourselves on your arrival in that sacred territory, like children in the bosom of their family. My people will conduct themselves towards you, as they must ever do towards their heroes and their defenders.

"Soldiers, the thought that I shall see you all in less than half a year assembled round my Palace, is pleasing to my heart; and I feel before hand the most delightful emotions. We will celebrate the memory of those, who in these two campaigns have fallen in the field of honor. The world shall see that we are ready to follow their example, and, if necessary, to do still more than we have done against those who attack our honor; or suffer themselves to be misled by the gold of the eternal enemy of the Continent."

NAPOLEON,
By order of the Emperor.
Maj. Gen. Marshall BERTHIER.

high, and for bone, sinew, symmetry and action, is scarcely to be equalled. His running entitles him to be ranked among the first horses in this country. His excellence has been distinguished in running four mile heats, and in no instance where the contest was great but he proved successful, having frequently run four heats to decide the race.

Chariot now exhibits the greatest health and vigour, and will stand the ensuing season at

James Lyne's House, Within one mile of the Subscriber's former Chariot is a fine Fag-getter. His colts are equal if not superior to those of any Horse on the Continent. His colts in England are on the British Turf. They are considered the favorites of the present day, having in every instance proved successful.

His running performances have been equal to those of most Horses on the continent, reference being had to the racing calendars for the years 1792, 1793, 1794, on the Turf entitles him to be ranked among the best Horses that have been imported, having won twelve races out of nineteen, eight of which were four Mile Heats, never having been beaten that distance were there were heats, although he has contended with the best Horses in
