From London rapers, received at Norfolk, by the abip Hercules, Capt. Braiford.

LONDON, JUNE 20:

The Funds sustained themselves vesterday at the prices of the preceding day, and the rumour of a negeciation received additional confirma. tion from the certainty of Lord Yarmouth's baving returned to France. His Lordship, we understand, sailed from Ramsgate on Monday, in a cutter belonging to Lord Keith's squadron, and was landed the same evening at Calais. A messenger in a flag of truce for Boulogne, it is said, preceded him, with dispatches, on Sunday. It is possible that overtures for pacification might have been renewed by the French government, and that the dispatches transmitted by the messenger might have related to that subject ; but it is not very likely that Lord Yarmouth is the bearer of any proposition of that nature. His Lordship is qualified neither by habits nor experience for conducting even the preliminary arrangements connected with so important un object, and it is not very likely that he should be employed as a common courier. A negociation between the two governments may be going on ; but we have reason to believe that its object is rather the establishment of a cartel of exchange for prisoner of war, than any discussion of terms of Peace. No pacific proposition can be safely entertained, except in conjunction with Russia; and we do not find that M. D'Oubril has arrived at Paris, or that there is any British negociator in that capital, either qualified or authorised to co-operate with him.

American papers to the 24th ult. arrived yesterday. Great pains seem to be taken to keep up that political ferment into which the United States were thrown by the recent occurrence off New-York. The visit and search of another American vessel Cleopatra English trigate, have furnished the press of that country with an opportunity of pouring fresh poison into the public mind. Fortunately, however, in this instance, the violation of American jurisdic. tion is not quite so clear as we fear it was in the former instance, for the vessel is admitted to have been above two leagues from land. These papers contain rumours respecting Miranda's expedition, but they are in general inconsistent with each other, and some of them, we are persuaded, are wholly unfounded. We do not believe that he has been joined by a B. itish force.

day. Lord Grenville left town on turned last night. Earl Spencer also left town on Saturday, for Wimbledon, where he had a party to dinner yesterday. We had, in the course of last week, good reason to believe. that the basis of preliminaries thad been agreed to by our government, and that a messenger was expected to bring arrangements, and passports for the purpose of formally signing and settling the preliminaries. In the present state of his power, some || probity and intelligence. may consider Bonaparte as having amuition. With a King of Holland, and a King of Naples, in the persons of his two brothers; and fiefs and principalities to reward his favorite generals and ministers, of whom I two deputies, and so on in proporsome have already entered into possession, it may be conceived that he has performed his task, and has no further occasion far war. Others may think, that this is only the first their place of residence, to the Seor second stage of his progress to feretary of cur Minister of the Inteuniversal dominion, and aware of the Frior, who shall inform them of the insatiable spirit of his ambition, conclude, that he meditates nothing short of the conquest of the world. In either case, peace must be desirable. In the former, he has nothing to atchieve by war; and in the latter, a peace is necessary to the accomplishment of his plan, because a fleet is essential to its execution, and a fleet he can only acquire by a peace. He may send out squadrons, and lay down new ones upon the stocks of Genoa, Toulon and Brest ; but as long as the war convinces, he can only be considered as a shipbuilder for England, supplying spirit and strength to the British navy. It may be further observed, that if the revolution of ministers was as rapid and great as that of the French rulers which preceded the government of Bonaparte, a man of more pacific character than Mr. Fox, could not at the mouth of the Delaware, by the be expected to appear at the helm. Looking, then, at the state and interest of Bonaparte, the character of the British ministers, and correcting them with the activity of the correspondence between the two governments, of which the dispatches arrived on Saturday, furnish a new and incontrovertible proof, we think we [TO BE SOLD to the lighest Bidder for should be justified, even though we had no private information upon the subject, in attributing the great rise in the funds to an expectation of peace. Stock jobing fonds always act by surprise, and the bubble soon bursts. Those who consider the progressive rise in the funds the effect of such a cause, pay a poor compliment to the sagacity of the public.

The feudal system, the abolition of which was one of the first objects of the constituent assembly, is now rising again in France from its ashes. PROPOSALS For publishing by Subscription, THE WORKS DR. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Philosophical, Political and Literary Hominum rerumque repertor.

THE Publication of the writings of Dr. Franklin in a complete Edition, new and very detailed account of the !! was long contemplated by the late Benj. population, the three towns of Neuf- Franklin Bache, his grandson, who transcribed the copy which was devised to Mr. W. Temple Franklin for the purpose. It was originally designed that the corrected Edition should appear in three languages, and in England, Germany, France and America, at the same time; this design was frustrated by, the devisee (W. Temple || ing to the Subscriber living on the pre-Franklin) who, it is now believed, sacrifixed the work and honourable trust reposed in him, for money, to the mortal hatred of the English Ministry against the deceased sage. As soon as this fact was known, the present Editor of the Aurora turned his attention to the collection of every paper and circumstance which could tend to preserve and do honour to the memory of a man to whom America is so much indebted; and who; as he was the first that from his genius and talents reflected back fustre on his native country, must continue to be ranked to the latest posterity, among its greatest benefactors and orianients. This edition will be published from the copies revised and corrected by Dr. Franklin, the corrections of which are in the hand writing of the auchor, and may be seen by any geatleman in the possession of the Editor of the Aurora. Early admiration of Dr. Franklin ; educated in veneration and reverence of his character-combined with other incidental circumstances not necessary to be pointed out, have concurred to favor the collection by the present Editor, of the best materials that could be obtained, after the sacrifice of the work by the devisee. With some mdustry, and some expence, he has possessed himself not only of the copy, with the corrections and additions in Dr. Franklin's hand writing, but also of several articles which have never appeared in any former collection, and of several which have never appeared in print. Proposals would have appeared long since in this city, had not an advertisement of an intended edition been published in the English prints; the present Editor thought it might be yet possible that the edition advertised, was that which Mr. Temple Franklin was entrusied with ; but it now appears, that the English edition is only a republication of the former compilation, with some small additions : but still very deficient, on a comparison with the corrected papers in the bands of the Editor. The whole will now be carefully collated, and the work executed in a style worthy of the great Patriarch of American Liberty, and Apostle of the American Press. The additional papers will form at least a volume, perhaps more-the authentic papers already printed form three-and it is intended to begin with the second volume, which will be put to press immediately; and to publish the Biography last, so that such addictional particulars as may throw any useful light on the life of this great man, may be engratted on his memoirs-
