RALEIGH REGISTER.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1823

A writer in the last STAR, under the signature of a "Native Carolinian," whom we have no doubt we know, after complaining, in terms not very courtly, of some person having informed the Editor of the Richmond Enquirer, that the election of Public Printer here turned on the Presidential Question, is pleased to say, "that the friends of Mr. Gales have cause to complain of his course in this business. He promised to contradict the report, if it should get out, that the election turned on this point. Has he done so?"

In reply to this charge, we say that we are unconscious of having made any such promise. Before the election, we expressed a wish that the choice of Public Printer might not be identified with the Presidential Question, knowing, as we did, that though the great body of those who would vote for us, thought with us on this subject, we had a few old tried friends who were in favor of three out of the four of the other Candidates, who, if the Presidential Question was not brought into view, would still support us; and when, after the election, we were cautioned by these friends against making the issue of a triumph for Mr. Crawford, we declared that we had no thought of doing so, confident, as we were, that our friends were not all the friends of Mr. Crawford, and that we felt particularly grateful to such as had made a sacrifice of political to personal feeling on the occasion. More than this, we think, ought not to have been expected from us.

By a reference to the Legislative proceeding of Saturday last, it will be seen that another preamble and resolution was introduced into the House of Commons, on that day, by Mr. Iredell, disapproving and protesting in the name of the Legislature, against a caucus nomination for President and Vice President of the U. States. The same fate however awaited this Preamble and resolution, which was experienced by its precursor. It was indefinitely postponed, 73 votes to 52.

We presume it may now be clearly inferred, from the decisions which have been made by the House of Commons, that our Legislature will neither interfere with the course heretofore pursued at Washington, in relation to a nomination of a candidate for the Presidency nor with our present Electoral Law. And to us, it as clearly appears that a majority of the Legislature are in favor of Mr. Crawford's election to the Presidency.

The President of the Board of Agriculture of the State has appointed, on the Committee of Correspondence, Messrs. Franklin, Brevard, Solomon Graves, Thos. G. Polk, Thos. Kenan and Rob't. Moore; and on the Committee of Selection and Publication, Messrs. Charles Fisher, Daniel M. Fowey, John Muchat, James W. Clark and Denison Olmsted.

The following extract is from the late message of Gov. CLARKE to the Legislature of Georgia.

I am constrained to inform you that I have not, during my administration, been able to select a suitable character, who would accept the appointment of Civil and Topographical Engineer. There have been, notwithstanding, several applications made for the appointment by gentlemen of respectable character and standing, but not of experienced knowledge, which I deem an indispensable requisite in the person on whom it is conferred. I am still of the opinion which I had the honor of suggesting to the last Legislature, that it would be advisable to unite with the state of North Carolina in procuring the services of Mr. Fulton.

The Editors of the National Intelligencer, as an unequivocal mark of increasing public confidence, state, that within the last thirty days, they have added to their subscription list, two hundred and fifty new names, exclusive of papers ordered on public account by members of Congress, &c.

18TH CONGRESS.

SENATE.

FRIDAY, DEC. 12.

Mr. Lowrie, presented the memorial of the City and County of Philadelphia, praying a revision of the present tariff.

The joint resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Benton, proposing an amendment of the Constitution, so as to give the election of President and Vice President to the people, in primary assemblies, received its second reading.

On motion of Mr. Macon, it was ordered that, hereafter, when the Senate adjourns on Fridays, it will adjourn till the ensuing Monday, unless otherwise ordered; and

The Senate then adjourned till Monday next, at twelve o'clock.

Monday, Dec. 15.

Mr. Parrott offered the following resolution, which was read, and laid over for consideration.

Resolved, That the Committee on Naval Affairs be instructed to inquire into the expediency of authorizing an additional number of sloop of war to be built and equipped for the service of the United States.

In pursuance of notice given on Friday last, Mr. Hayne rose to ask leave to offer a resolution to propose, to the Legislatures of the several States, an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, so as to provide for the election of President & Vice-President by the Electors, & to prevent the election from devolving, in any event, upon the House of Representatives. Mr. Hayne briefly stated in introducing this resolution, his views on the subject.

Leave was then granted to Mr. Hayne to introduce the following resolution, which was read, passed to a second reading, and ordered to be printed.

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled, two thirds of both Houses concurring, That the following amendment to the Constitution of the United States, be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States, which, when ratified by the Legislatures of three fourths of the States, shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of the said Constitution: "If no person voted for, according to the Constitution, as President of the United States, shall have a majority of the votes of the whole number of Electors, then the President of the United States shall forthwith issue his proclamation calling upon the Electors to convene at —, on the — day of —, thereafter, for the purpose of choosing a President; that the Electors, when so convened, shall choose, immediately, by ballot, a President of the United States, and a majority of the whole number of Electors, shall be necessary to a choice.

"And should no person voted for, according to the Constitution, as Vice-President of the United States, have a majority of the votes of the whole number of Electors, then the President of the United States shall forthwith issue his proclamation, calling upon the Electors to convene at —, on the — day of —, thereafter, for the purpose of choosing a Vice-President; that the Electors, when so convened, shall choose, immediately, by ballot, a Vice-President of the United States, and a majority of the whole number of Electors shall be necessary to a choice.

After the resolution of Mr. Hayne was read, Mr. Macon moved that all the resolutions proposing amendments to the Constitution, as well those offered at the last session as at the present, should be printed in a pamphlet; in order that the Senate might have one view of the whole. Mr. Dickerson then gave notice that he should, to-morrow, call up the proposition to amend the Constitution, which he proposed the last session. Mr. Holmes, of Maine, gave similar notice in regard to a resolve which he had offered; and Mr. Loyd, of Massachusetts, in relation to an amendment, which he said was proposed by the honored and venerable gentleman from Virginia, (Mr. Taylor), who had not taken his seat the present session. The motion for printing, proposed by Mr. Macon, was thereupon postponed till to-morrow.

House of Representatives.

Monday, Dec. 15.

Mr. Poinsett submitted the following: Resolved, That the Committee on Naval Affairs be instructed to inquire into the expediency of authorising the construction of ten additional sloop of war.

Mr. Poinsett said, he was induced to offer this resolution to the consideration of the House, from an earnest desire to see our Navy rendered efficient and capable of maintaining the high reputation which it has so gallantly and nobly won. If we would have fleets of line of battle ships, and frigates in readiness to be poured forth against an enemy, at the commencement of a war, we must rear up officers capable of commanding them. As our Navy is now constituted, we shall be compelled, in the event of war, to confide the command of our ships, the safety of our gallant seamen, and the honor of our flag, to inexperienced officers; to men, who have been, for years, on shore, forgetting what they formerly had learned. We have now five sloops of war and thirty masters commandant, so that an officer cannot hope to be employed oftener than once in six years. To have an efficient Navy, the proportion between sloop of war and line of battle ships and frigates must be preserved; and, I trust, said Mr. P. that the subject will receive from the committee the consideration its importance deserves.

The resolution was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Mercer, it was Resolved, That the Committee on Naval Affairs be instructed to inquire into the expediency of associating with the Military Academy at West Point, a school of instruction for the Midshipmen of the Navy of the United States.

Resolved, That the Committee on Naval Affairs be instructed to inquire into the expediency of securing in the medical department of the Navy the benefits of professional skill and experience, by a due apportionment of the pay of the surgeons and their mates to the time of their actual service, and by requiring an examination, by a Board of Physicians, of all persons applying for admission therein.

On motion of Mr. Wayne, it was Resolved, That the Committee on Commerce be directed to inquire into the expediency of imposing a duty on wheat, imported from any foreign country, or its dependencies.

STOP THE VILLAIN!!!

TAKEN from my stables by John Colson, on the 12th inst. a bay horse about five feet an inch or two high, he paces remarkably fast, has very large legs and was four years old last spring. Colson is about 28 or 30 years old, remarkably round shouldered, has light hair, and a very fine voice. He came to my house about two months ago, under the pretence of improving his health, where after I had lent him money and stodd his security, he absconded in the night of the above mentioned date with my horse. He goes under the cloak of religion which together with his artful and insinuating manners, he may yet delude many a person. He pretends to have large possessions in Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee, whither I expect he is now bending his course, says he has no wife, no parents, and but few relations. However, I have since seen his wife, she is living in Wake county, and was deceived by the same pretensions, that he made to me. I will give $25 to any person who will have him confined in any Jail, and $25 to any person who will procure me the horse. Letters addressed to Alanson Williams, Warrenton, N. C. will be duly attended to.
