RALEIGH REGISTER.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1825.

We are favored with the following extract of a letter from a Member of Congress, at Washington, to his friend in this City, dated the 24th instant:

"The Rubicon has been passed, and Mr.
Crawford and Gen. Jackson are both beaten.
I have no pleasure in making the communication; but have, notwithstanding, with the view of putting to rest your solicitude on the subject, availed myself of the earliest opportunity to give you information of a definite, I may almost say of an official character.

In my last, I believe, I told you, that Gen.
Jackson was certainly beaten, and that the party who held in their hands the issues of the election, were balancing between Mr.
Crawford and Mr. Adams.

That information I derived from an unquestionable source, with the accompanying declaration, that Mr. Clay's friends had come to the determination of making a frank disclosure to the friends of Mr. Crawford of their course, should they ultimately take up Mr. Adams; & that this information should be given in due time for Mr. Crawford's friends to act with their eyes open. Yesterday evening the gentlemen of the mess in which I live, were waited upon by Mr. Adams of Kentucky, and formally notified of the ultimate determination of his delegation to support Mr. Adams.
At the same time, informing us, that he was not authorized to speak for any other state, but that they had been consulted, and that they would each through their own organ, communicate the fact to us. This event, though confidently expected by some, and feared by all, has produced great sensation here, and there exists, as far as I know, but one opinion touching the result. Clay will carry 5 western States to Adams: Louisiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Missouri and Illinois. Clay's interest will also carry Maryland; to which, it is generally believed here, New-York may be added. Thus, with the six New-England States, will settle the contest. In the last struggle, I do not entertain a doubt, but that Virginia would vote for Mr. Adams, rather than either Gen. Jackson should succeed or Mr. Calhoun come in through the Vice Presidency."

General LAFAYETTE arrived at Richmond on Saturday the 22d inst. in compliance with the request of the General Assembly of that State, now in session, and on Monday, he was introduced into both branches of that body. Immediately after his introduction, in each house, he was addressed by the respective Speakers, to which he replied, and both houses adjourned, that the members might pay their salutations to him.
The General was received on his landing at Rockett's by the military of the city, and his arrival was announced by a discharge of artillery. From Rockett's, he was escorted by the troops to his lodgings, where he reviewed them uncovered, notwithstanding the pel-tings of the pitiless storm, the snow at the time falling rapidly on the veteran's head. The General is represented as being in excellent health and spirits, diffusing, as usual, unmixed pleasure to all who have an opportunity of taking him by the hand. While in Richmond, the members of the Legislatre gave him a splendid dinner and ball.

He left Richmond on Wednesday morning last, for Harrisburg, in Pennsylvania, where he wished to be on Sunday last. He will return from thence to Washington, to be present on the anniversary of Washington's birthday, and will immediately leave there on his southern trip.

From papers brought by the last arrival at New-York, from Liverpool, we make such extracts, as our limits will allow.

The execution of Mr. Fauntleroy, the banker, for forgery took place on the 30th November. No case of the kind, has occasioned half the degree of sensation, since that of the ill-fated, eloquent Dr. Dodd. The magnitude of this unfortunate man's depredations is beyond parallel, for it required annually £16,000 to pay the interest on the amount of his forgeries. We say unfortunate, for miserable must have passed his days, in efforts to escape detection and to raise the necessary funds to prevent enquiries. Had this man been pardoned, the whole Banking System, and the whole commercial interest would have been for a time, paralyzed, from the fears of the community. How could his friends expect a pardon, when hundreds under the penal code of Britain, have been condemned to an ignominious death, the aggregate of whose depredations would not exceed the interest on Mr. Fauntleroy's Forgeries. An account of the execution, &c. occupies several columns of the London papers. One of them says, that the multitude surpassed in extent and intensity, any crowd we have ever seen in a space so limited.

During the preceding day, hundreds of individuals collected, remaining all night to witness the preparations, for the awful execution of the law. The rain fell in torrents, but such is the restless curiosity of man, that the multitude continued to increase as the fatal moment arrived.

FRANCE.—The new King is becoming very popular, and has been visiting the disaffected quarters of the city of Paris, but still his monarchical dignity, must not be trifled with. A poor but unfortunate journalist had the audacity to call the King, a MAN! for which he was condemned to suffer two months imprisonment and pay a fine of 2,000 pounds. His offence was couched in the following terms—"at length a free man mounts the throne." Learn disrespectful Editors, since you have to learn, said the Attorney General addressing the Jury, that by his exalted and holy station, the monarch of France, is MORE THAN MAN. The counsel for the prisoner, attempted to show that the King was a man. "Every year," said he, on Ash Wednesday, when the King prostrates himself before the altar, the minister sprinkles dust upon him, saying at the same time, "Remember MAN that dust thou art, and unto dust, thou must return."

PERSLA.—In April 1824, an Earthquake, which lasted six days & nights, without intermission, had swallowed up one half of the city of SCHIRAZ, and overthrew the other half, as was the case at Aleppo. Only a few hundred persons escaped. RAZOON was also swallowed up by the same calamity, and the mountains around the city, levelled, so that not a trace remained.

SPAIN.—The King has recovered from his fit of the Gout.

An ordinance has been published at Madrid, which requires all persons to deliver all their books, prints, &c. to their Curates, within 30 hours after the proclamation, to be examined, when such as they were permitted to keep, would be returned. All papers printed in Spain since 1820, have been subject to the same injunction.

By an arrival one day later, accounts are received of a dreadful storm which lately occurred at Plymouth, England.
Not only a vast amount of shipping was destroyed, but hundreds of houses were blown down, and many lives lost.

The Supreme Court will probably adjourn during the next week. The following persons have obtained licences to practice Law, during the last week:

Superior Court.—Charles Hunt, Anson.
County Court.—Abraham Rencher, Wake.

A man named James W. Edwards from North-Carolina, was committed to the Jail of Charleston, S. C. for circulating counterfeit bills of the Planters' Bank of Savannah, and Bank of Nashville, Tennessee. Two hundred and fifty dollars in counterfeit bills, were found on him.

WHAT NEXT?—Indian Rubber shoes alias Gumm elastic, are recommended to Ladies, as impenetrable to wet. They are manufactured in South America.

The editor of the New England Galaxy has given his readers a Newspaper Sermon on the following text: "ONE GENERATION COMETH AND ANOTHER GO-ETH," "the subject" says he "naturally divides itself into two parts."

1. One generation cometh. Within the short period of a few months, or weeks, we have beheld a new generation of newspapers springing into existence, full of sprightliness, hope and promise. The Chelmsford Courier, at Chelmsford, Mass. the Eastern Star, at Alfred, the Maine Inquirer, at Bath, the Eastern Chronicle, at Gardiner, the Oxford Observer, at Paris, all in the state of Maine; the Rockingham Gazette, at Exeter, and the Weekly Visitor, at Sanburton, in N. Hampshire. A number of others whose names not being now before us, are forgotten, have appeared in other states—no less prolific in productions of this sort, than those of New England.

The second general head "AND ANO-THER GOETH," he illustrates by the sudden departure of the Clermont Spectator; the Taunton Free Press, the National Union of New-York, the N.
Y. Patriot, &c. &c.

A premium of $500 has been offered by the Commissioner of Public Buildings at Washington City, for a design which shall be approved, for ornamenting the Tympanum of the Pediment of the East Portico of the Capitol.

DISTRESSING CASUALTY.—On Wednesday morning (says the Warrenton Reporter) the corpse of Mr. Samuel Paschall, an old inhabitant of this county, was found within half a mile of his own house. On Friday night, during the falling of the snow, he started from a neighbor's house to go home, but in the dark, it is supposed that he mistook his way (being found on a different path) and finding himself bewildered, laid down, where he died from the intense cold. A search for him, we understand, was commenced on Saturday morning, but being completely covered by the snow, he could not be found. He was accidentally discovered by a Negro.
A Jury of Inquest was immediately held over his body, whose decision was, that he came to his death in the way above stated.

We learn from the Intelligencer, that two deaths from the same cause occurred in Petersburg; one, a woman, was found on Monday morning; the other, a man, found on Sunday morning—both were persons of color.

As one of the workmen at the Iron Forge works in Taunton, Mass. was endeavoring to raise the gate, which required considerable exertion, he was, in consequence of its rising suddenly, thrown back with violence upon the part of the works called the wild cat, attached to the shaft of the water wheel.
This carried him under an arm of the wild cat, and forced the middle of his body through a space of not more than two or three inches in diameter. He expired instantly.

Although a number of workmen were present at the time to witness this agonizing spectacle, among whom was his father, no one could afford him any relief.—Prov. Pat.

For the Register.
Messrs. Editors: The gentleman who furnished the extract which appeared in the Register of Tuesday last, under the signature of Abner, having travelled to a distant part of the state, may not, perchance, for many weeks, have an opportunity of casting his eye on the animadversions of Bishop Ravenscroft, published in your paper of yesterday.
But be that as it may, the dispute, it seems, to us does not lie between Abner and the Bishop, but between the Bishop and a writer in the Family Visitor: and if we may be allowed to form an opinion, Abner may very safely permit that writer to adjust differences in his own way.

For our own part, we were pleased with the piece extracted from the Visitor, as it appeared to us to reflect honor on the Episcopal Church, and was well calculated to allay the feelings of indignant regret which had been so extensively excited by the late, and very unexpected expression of hostility to Bible Societies as generally constituted in this, and other countries.

From the extract we were happy to learn that, whatever might be the views and feelings of a few individuals, the great body of Protestant Bishops, in England and America, was sincerely attached to Bible Societies in their present form; and that, therefore, the Episcopal Church as such ought not to be stigmatised as inimical to these favorite institutions of Christian philanthropy.
For the credit of a valuable branch of Christ's visible Church, we were much inclined, we confess, to give full credit to the extract—to believe that things were even so as there represented.

We were, moreover, confirmed in our belief from certain expressions which were dropped by the Bishop, in his anniversary sermon, as preached before the Bible Society of North-Carolina.

But on examination, the Bishop, it see-is now able to prove that he is not alone "in the gap;" and that he has, on his side of the question, a host of "mired heads" both in Great Britain, and in America.

What an accession of strength this, to a "nameless individual!"—What matter of exultation to "one conscious of throwing himself in the face of high authority!"
"Clamorem immensum tollit—"

"At genus e sylvis Cycloppum et montibus altis
"Excitum ruit ad portus, et littora complent."

But admitting the case to be as the Bishop has stated it, namely that the great majority of protestant Bishops, at home and abroad, is opposed to the British and Foreign Bible Society, instead of rejoicing in the fact, we must be permitted to say in the language of the Prophet "this is a lamentation, and shall be for a lamentation."

The Bible then must not be trusted alone!
"Our excellent, our apostolical church, (the natural, and only legitimate guardian of the Sacred Records), must accompany it at every step, expounding its meaning, and directing its energies.

What alas! has become of our protestant principles?—And what, after all, is the value of our boasted Reformation? Has the shadow of our dial of Abaz gone backward, until we are again plunged into the dark ages of papal superstition and Ecclesiastical domination?"

"The Diotrephean" game in all the ramifications of its exclusive pretensions, has been so long, and so often played, by the brethren of the Hierarchy, and with so little success, that it is truly astonishing to us that they are not, by this time, like the good Vicar of Wakefield "tired of being always wise."

The public mind it would appear is in danger of being "misled on a subject of vital importance!"—The Bible is circulated without note or comment, and even without the church and protestant Bishops are represented by Abner as countenancing, extensively, the mischief. "The poison" is deadly, and the "antidote must be applied as speedily as possible."

And does the Bishop really think all this poisonous? "Gentle shepherd tell us why?" The manner and spirit of the Bishop's remarks, Messrs. Editors, are of a piece with all that pertains to his ecclesiastical administration.

Quere, would it do any harm to him, or to the general cause which he espouses, to bear in mind more constantly the Apostolic exhortation—"Let your moderation be known unto all men." A. D.

Select Classical School.

THE subscriber proposes to open a select School for instruction in the Classics and the usual Elementary Branches of Education. He hopes, by confining his attention to a few, to give parents a greater security for the industry and thorough improvement of those whom they may entrust to his care, than is practicable at larger schools.
It must be obvious, that as those belonging to a school of the kind proposed, will enjoy superior advantages, so they must expect to make a somewhat higher compensation.— On no other condition, would the plan offer any adequate remuneration. The subscriber having been for several years engaged in the task of education in the University of the State,atters himself that he will be able to qualify his pupils well for entering that institution. His terms will be $50 per annum to be paid semi-annually in advance. There will be a vacation of two months in summer.
Those who intend to send their sons, will be pleased to give the subscriber immediate information, as he wishes to open the school on the 1st of January next. Care will be taken to obtain Boarding in eligible houses and on reasonable terms.
