Raleigh Register.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1825.

From the number of letters and papers which have reached the Post Office in this city, addressed to the Hon. J. C. CALHOUN, it is probable, that the Vice-President will pass through Raleigh, on his way to the seat of Government of the United States.

Mr. Gaillard, of S. Carolina, President of the Senate of the U. States, pro tem, has arrived at Washington.

M. Salazar, Minister of the Republic of Columbia, and M. Obregon, Minister of Mexico, have also arrived at that city.

The friends of Richard D. Speight, Esq. of Craven county, have determined to support him as a candidate for a seat in the Senate of the next General Assembly.

It is said, that Hugh L. White of Knoxville, will probably, be elected to the United States Senate without opposition, in the place of Gen. Jackson. He has consented to serve if chosen.

We have inserted in the preceding page, Gen. Jackson's address to the Legislature of Tennessee, in which he gives the reasons which influenced him in resigning his seat. The principal one he assigns, is, that having been nominated by the Legislature of his State, as a candidate for the Presidency, he deems it improper to retain a place where he might be suspected of exercising an influence tending to his own aggrandisement. We are at a loss to know, how the General can reconcile this premature annunciation of himself as a candidate, to the maxim by which he professes to be guided, viz. "neither to seek after or decline office."

The tables turned.—The Great Race at New-York has been run, and the Southern mare Flirtilla has beaten the Northern mare Ariel, and taken the purse of $20,000. The first heat was won by Ariel, beating half a length—the second, though closely contested, was carried by Flirtilla, and the last heat was won with ease by the same, she coming out sixty or seventy yards ahead. Time—1st heat, 5 minutes, 58 seconds—2d, 5 m. 54 s.—3d, 5 m. 58 s. It is stated in the New-York papers, that upwards of $100,000 were lost in side bets. The knowing ones of the South have proved the best calculators this time, and we trust, have got back the money which they have heretofore lost on the Northern course.

"Upon the burden'd stream, he floating lies,
Stretches his quivering fins and gasping dies."

A pike was caught last week, in Mr. Boylan's mill-pond, which measured twenty-seven inches in length, and weighed upwards of ten pounds. The flesh is reported to have been as firm and palatable, as a fresh Cod. The Pike is said by Sir Francis Bacon, in his history of life and death, to be the longest liver of any fresh water fish, and yet he computes it to be, not usually, above forty years. Lucius ex piscibus, aquae dulcis longissime vivere reperitur; ad annum quandoque quadragenisimum; piscis vorax, et carnibus siccioribus, et firmioribus. But Isaac Walton mentions a pike taken in Sweden, with a ring round his neck, declaring he was put into that pond, two hundred years before. The same worthy writer gives an elaborate receipt for cooking a pike, which he introduces thus, "but if this direction to catch a pike do you no good, yet I am certain that this direction how to roast him when he is caught, is choicely good, for I have tried it, and it is somewhat better for not being common." He concludes thus, "this dish of meat is too good for any but anglers, or very honest men; and I trust you will prove both, and therefore I have trusted you with this secret."

As honest Isaac Walton's work, the complete Angler, is scarce, we might transcribe this prescription, for the edification of gastronomists, since neither Mrs. Glass, nor even our own Mrs. Randolph, contains any thing like it; but as we poor wights of printers, are shut out by universal consent, from the privileged class of high feeders, and know nothing of its practice, we ought to shun, as much as possible, its tempting luscious theories, lest we lose the "lean and sallow abstinence" that has been the recorded mark of our confraternity, from Doctor Faustus, down in unbroken succession to the Judge of Israel, who, when we saw him last, was not "more fat than barb-beseems."

We mean to confine this remark to the real men of the Pearl and Nonpareil, who have been raised from before the mast, and not to extend it to those who have come in at the cabin windows, and taken rank by purchase. Amongst the latter class, who buy in upon speculation, and who have never undergone the sweating process of setting types and working at press, in a Fahrenheit of 98, there may be men of "continual dissolution and thaw," but to the honest bona fide aggregate of the craft, Shakspeare's remark strictly applies—

"Lean raw-bon'd rascals! who would'er suppose
"They had such virtus and audacity!"

TENNESSEE.—A bill is before the Legislature of this state, to compel the State Bank to discount notes as low as 10 dollars. Also, a resolution to hasten the resumption of Specie payments.

A vessel has arrived at Philadelphia, which brought letters from the U. S. Ship Decoy, from which it appears, that the Yellow Fever has been raging on board, and the following persons have fallen victims to it:

Lieut. Com. Dulany Forrest died Oct. 1st.
Lieut. G. F. Weaver died 5th.
Wm. J. Scheffelin, ord. seaman, died 1st.
John Malcolm, do. died 7th.

Desha the Murderer.—A letter to one of the Editors of the Lynchburg Virginian, from Lexington, Kentucky, says, "that petitions were in circulation in that state, signed by the two Juries which had convicted Desha, & others, praying his release—on the grounds, 1st, that it is impossible to procure another Jury in the State; and 2dly, that his trial would consume so much time as very much to clog and retard business. We should not be surprised if justice should be at last defeated of a victim, who has not a single claim on the compassion of mankind."

Isaac H. Williamson has been re-elected Governor of the State of New Jersey for the year ensuing, and Daniel Coleman Secretary of State. In addition to the ordinary duties of an Executive Magistrate, the Constitution of New-Jersey devolves on the Governor of that State the responsible duties of Chancellor of the State, making a judicious selection of a person for the office very important. Gov. W. is said to possess in a high degree the qualifications for the station, which he has filled for several years with great respect.

Fires at the East.—A letter from a commercial house in Halifax to a house in New-York, speaking of the late fire in the woods in the Province of New-Brunswick says—"It is most melancholy to think that some thousands of persons have perished in the flames in different parts of the woods. Seven bodies were found dead in one ruin and twenty-six in another. Many commercial houses have lost every thing. One house is said to be losers to the amount of 40,000 pounds. Messrs. H. & G. Barclay of New-York offer their services in receiving and transmitting donations to the unfortunate sufferers.

The inhabitants of the city of New-York, according to the returns already made under the law authorizing a new census, have increased to 170,000.

The editor of the Cheraw Intelligencer was not correctly informed by "a gentleman from Fayetteville," that cotton was selling here last week "chiefly at 12 cents." We understand that none of the new crop had sold here at as low a price as 12 cents, until this week, and that is the lowest now given. The accounts from Europe are not cheering, the northern manufacturers are probably supplied, & the low state of the river prevents the shipment of what is purchased here. These circumstances combine to depress the market, and have occasioned a fall from fourteen cents, with which it opened, to 12 cents. We hope this will be the minimum.—Fayette. Obs.

It is said that the Cape-Fear river has not been so low, at this season of the year, for seven years past. The Steam Boat North-Carolina, Captain Tawes, (the only one in operation during the summer) has not been able to come up to town for some months, and her cargoes are brought up nearly half the distance from Wilmington in lighters. The inconvenience and expense which this circumstance occasions to merchants, is cause of deep regret, and induces a wish that the present delightful weather were superseeded by clouds and rain; of which, however, if we have any pretension to weather wisdom, there is little prospect for some days to come.—ib.

On Wednesday last the trial of Manuel Antoine, charged with the murder of William Johnson, came on before his Honor Judge Norwood. The counsel in behalf of the prisoner, on account of his being an alien, moved the Court to grant him a jury de medietate linguæ; but the Judge overruled the motion. Much difficulty occurred in procuring a jury, but after a challenge for cause of sixty-eight persons & fifteen peremptory challenges on the part of the prisoner, a jury was impanelled and the Court proceeded at 12 o'clock to investigate the testimony.

The facts of the case, upon examination, appeared to be, that a number of the citizens had repaired to the outskirts of the town to shoot for beef, and while there assembled, Johnson in passing by, was solicited "to take a chance in the shooting match," to which he assented. After the completion of the evening's sport, the party repaired to Antonio's house, in whose yard the beef was butchered, to divide the prizes; but some altercation having taken place, and some dissatisfaction evinced by the prisoner respecting the division, a dispute arose between him and one of the party, during which he made use of some words which elicited from the deceased the remark,—"You cannot whip every body on the ground." Upon which the prisoner turned from the gentleman with whom he was in dispute, asked the deceased if he wanted to fight, to which he replied, "I will fight before I will be cheated or imposed upon." The prisoner immediately entered his house, took a gun, came out and presented it to the deceased; but by the intervention of a third person, he was turned aside, upon which he again repaired to his house and afterwards came up to the deceased who was standing quietly without doors, and struck him with his left fist; they immediately closed, and after scuffling for a short time the deceased, who had got the better of him, arose, and the prisoner being released, ran off several paces, crying out that he was gouged. The deceased a few moments after, is said to have uttered some expression significant of his situation, and upon investigation, it was found that the prisoner had inflicted seven wounds, two of which were mortal.

An unusual number of witnesses were introduced, whose testimony coincided in the most material points, and tended to confirm the fact. After a long and tedious trial, in which the prosecuting officer in behalf of the State, was assisted by Mr. Bryan, and

Messrs. Stanly and Gaston appeared as counsel for the prisoner, the jury returned on the subsequent morning and rendered in a verdict "guilty of murder."

At 10 o'clock this morning the prisoner was again brought into Court, when the awful sentence of the law directed that he be executed on Friday the 25th of November next. The prisoner's counsel, then prayed an appeal to the Supreme Court, because the motion for a jury of half foreigners was refused. The appeal was accordingly granted.—Newbern Sentinel.

Cotton Crops.—The prospects of the planter, which in the early part of the season were fair and flattering, have more lately been sadly and lamentably reversed. The ravages of the worm or caterpillar on the staple commodity of our State, have been great and extensive. In sundry parts of the State they made their appearance in July, when the crop was in the height and luxuriance of vegetation, and in such instances the destruction was nearly complete: in other situations, the injury sustained has been less, though upon the whole, the loss and damage from this cause and the rot, have been very considerable and general.

A YARD OF FLANNEL.

The following lines were found in a bale of Flannel lately imported from England.

What, when rheumatic I complain,
Gives sweet oblivion to my pain,
And makes me feel half young again—
A yard of Flannel!

What, when my tooth begins to ache,
And keeps my anxious eye awake,
Bids me refreshing sleep to take?—
A yard of Flannel!

What, when my ear is chill'd with colds,
And her accusom'd sounds withhold,
So kindly lends her feecey folds?—
A yard of Flannel!

What, when the throat is stiff and sore,
Does respiration's reign restore,
And save from quinsy's threaten'g power?
A yard of Flannel!

Do you desire to find a friend,
Where warmth and softness gently blend,
Then I would beg to recommend
A yard of Flannel.

MARRIED.

In Orange county, on the 27th ult. Mr. Wm. Patton to Miss Margaret Johnson.
In Lincoln county, on the 20th ultimo, Dr. James S. Harris to Miss Jane J. Hayes.
In Moore county, Mr. Green Womack, of Pitsborough, to Mrs. Ann Melver.

DIED.

In Fayetteville, on the 26th ult. after a short but painful illness, in the 62d year of her age, Mrs. Katharine Isabella, wife of Mr. Marshall R. Wilkins.

Departed this life in Granville county, on the 23d of October, Miss Wood. He was a native of Maryland, but had been a resident of this state near forty years. He was in the 87th year of his age and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and left the world in the triumph of faith in full assurance of immortality and eternal life.

On the 28th of October, in Randolph county, after a short illness, Abigail Gardner, aged 77 years, consort of Stephen Gardner. She was a native of the Island of Nantucket, she has left an aged and disconsolate husband to deplore her loss, whose mild, amiable and affectionate companion she has been for 69 years. She was a member of the Society of Friends, and was a regular and constant attendant of their meetings for worship. Her general conduct through life evidenced great christian piety. Though wealthy, she never seemed to have forgotten the distresses of the poor and afflicted. Her hand was ever open to their wants, and extended to administer in kindness to the relief of their necessities. With her, the cottage and palace were the same. She was a woman who shared the esteem, the regard & the friendship of all who knew her; and her memory will long be cherished by her numerous friends and acquaintances.
