al force under the command o General La Serna, which had taken possession of the cities of Sulta and Jupuy, was put to flight on the 8th of May, and fell back shamefully on Potosi .-The evacuation of a province which is the only magazine of Peru, has been at cted by the constant and bloody attals of the guerillas and militia of - patriot Governor Guemes, assisted by Col. La Madrid, who, with his flying division, got into the rear of the roval army, occupied Tarifa, made its gavrison prisoners, consisting of four but dred veteran soldiers, and immedi tely besieged Chuquisaca. What disappointment must La Serna have experienced, who intended, by a diversion, to arrest the expedition on Clilil

The army of Gen. Belgrano, quartered in Tucuman, was to be put in motion, for the purpose of acting in concert with Col. La Madrid and Gov. Gnemes. It was expected that the result of the campaign would be the entire evacuation of Peru by the Royalists.

On the eastern shore of the river Flate, the brave Patriot General Artigas performs prodigies of valor. In fl.e month of November, 1816, ten thousand Portuguese troops invaded that part of the territory of the river Plate, assisted by a considerable body of cavalry, and now they are only masters of the city of Montevideo, the garrison of which does not amount to five thousand men. The Marquis of Allegrete and Col. Curado have been defeated by the troops of Artigas in three different engagements, and compelled to take shelter in the Portuguese pessessions, where it is probable they will not be able to obtain any reinforcements, as the native Brazilians of that part of the country are ripe for independence, many of them having joined Artigas, who has formed them into separate corps. The indefatigable Col. Ribeiro, second in command in the army of Artigas, very closely besieges the city of Montevidro, and with great bravery repulses the Portuguese in all their sallies. It is probable that Montevideo would have fallen, if Director Puerreydon, instead of turning all his views and means to prescribe and destroy the most deserving Patriets, those who had been most conspicuous in liberating their country, had furnished Ribeiro with artillery to batter dows that important place -or if this modern Sylla had not allowed the free exportation of all kinds of provisions to Montevideo. It is rather surprizing to observe, by these papers, that the chief magistrate of that republic was suspected of being himself concerned in these scandalous speculations. In a manifesto he has published, he does not contradict that provisions were sent from Buenos Avres to Montevideo, but denies having hunself had any interest in those operations. He continues Ms persecutions against those who raise their voices against his perfidy, and his good understanding with the Portuguese. Among the victims, is the worthy General Roudeau, who is confined in Ensenada de Barragan. On the 28th of June, a vessel of war of Buenus Avres captured a vessel be-Ionging to General Artigas, near Soriano. Her cargo consisted of four hundred markets, three guns, and twentytwo thousand cartridges, which Paerrevion monght to make a prize of ---Fifty Portuguese prisoners, found on heard, were presented with great pomp by Fuerrevison to the Portuguese General Lecor, commander of Montevidec. We confess that we do not know how to account for such conduct in the · * magistrate of a republic, whose policy and interest ought to be, and certainly are, to adopt such measures as would be most popular; one of which would be, the breaking off all intercourse with the Portuguese. We should be gratified to hear some explanation from Mr. Auguirre on the Patriot. subject.

M. de Humboldt has discovered the existence of a curious analogy between the distribution of the magnetic influence, and that of heat, so that he is able to trace upon the chart of the globe, the courses of each, by the lines which indicate their relation and interests. These lines a ew that by the influence of these great geological causes the temperature varies in points situated under the same parallel, and that it is the same in points differing in latitude. M. Humboldt has illustrated the laws of this diversity in a most lucanous mapper.

The question, on which there has been so much difference, or rather so little agreement in opinion, between our principal Naval Officers, respecting the proper scite for a Naval Depot on the Chesapeake, is yet undecided. We perceive, a meeting of the inhabitants of the counties in Virginia bordering on York river, is invited by advertisement in the Enquirer, to be held at Williamsburg, on the second Monday in December, to consider the subject, with reference to the interests of that particular country, to the security of the Metropolis of Virginia, and of the valuable of interce of the Chesapeake. If such meetings could be expected to control the decision of this question, we should expect to see the peakle of the western shore of Maryland on the alert in behalf of their own interests, which are so materially concerned, that the Uspot should be established at St. Mary's. Neither would those of Norfolk slumber at their posts, if their activity could influence the selection. But, we presume, the question is one to be decided by its own merits, with reference to the general interests of the Navy and not by the wishes of any particular part of the numerous population of the shores of Chesapeake Bay. It is probable, we think, that, so long delaved, the decision will now be deferred until the PRESIDENT shall, as it has been understood he, intended make the tour of the Chesapeake. with a view to examining the prominent. points of the coast, and determining on the best means of defending the entrance of this important estuary.
