RURAL ECONOMY.

Worthy of imitation.—The Duke of Athol is now enjoying the benefit which provident ancestors sometimes confer upon their heirs.

In reading the above article, we could not suppress a feeling of regret at the evident contrast presented in the conduct of the Duke of Athol's provident ancestors, to the improvidence of landholders generally in this country.

Your body cannot be in better hands than in those of your physician, nor your mind in better than in your own.

I dislike extremely that gloomy theology, which would make the Supreme Being more inexorable than a man; the whole tenor of Scripture speaks a contrary language; and we know nothing from reason of his divine attributes, except from their bearing some analogy to our own.

Repentance is a change of principle, accompanied by a change of conduct; we may be snatched away, and have no opportunity of proving the sincerity of our principle by our practice; but God, who knows things that would be, as if they were, will judge of the sincerity or insincerity of our principle, by what would happen, and if our repentance be, at any time of life, even after repeated lapses, in his judgment, sincere, I see no ground in reason or Scripture for despairing of his forgiveness.

BY AUTHORITY.

Act to provide for the Publication of the Laws of the United States, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That at and during the session of each Congress of the United States, the Secretary for the Department of State shall cause the acts and resolutions passed by Congress at such session to be published, currently as they are enacted, and as soon as practicable, in not more than one newspaper in the District of Columbia, and in not more than three newspapers in each of the several States, and in not more than three newspapers in each of the territories of the United States.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That whenever official notice shall have been received, at the Department of State, that any amendment which heretofore has been, or hereafter may be, proposed to the constitution of the United States, has been adopted, according to the provisions of the constitution, it shall be the duty of the said Secretary of State forthwith to cause the said amendment to be published in the said newspapers authorized to promulgate the laws, with his certificate, specifying the states by which the same may have been adopted, and that the same has become valid, to all intents and purposes, as a part of the constitution of the United States.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the proprietor of every newspaper in which the laws, resolutions, treaties, or amendments, shall be so published, shall receive, as full compensation therefor, at the rate of one dollar for each printed page of the laws, resolutions, and treaties, as published in the pamphlet form in the manner hereinafter directed.

ION REPENTANCE. The following extract is from a letter of the Bishop of London, to the Duke of Grafton, who had sent the Bishop rather a despairing account of himself.

shall be paid out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

All the land that is not improved is well timbered. The Plantation is in good repair and laid out into five separate lots; on each lot is good never failing Spring water, also an extensive marsh Pasture separately inclosed with good never failing springs in said pasture. The pasture is remarkably valuable, and noted for being the place where George Browning raised the excellent horses Collected, Ratler, Treasurer, with a number of other good horses.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of State shall cause to be published, at the close of every session of Congress, and as soon as practicable, eleven thousand copies of the acts of Congress at large, including all resolutions passed by Congress, amendments to the constitution adopted, and all public treaties made and ratified since the then last publication of the laws; which copies shall be printed on paper, and in the size of the sheet and type, in a manner to correspond with the late revised edition of the laws, published by Boren and Co. which copies shall be distributed in the following manner: To every person who has been President of the United States, one copy to each, during their respective lives; to the present and every future President and Vice-President, one copy to each, during their lives; one copy to the actual President and Vice-President, to be deemed an apprentice to their offices respectively; to each member of the Senate and House of Representatives, and to each delegate in Congress from any Territory, one copy each; twenty copies to the Secretary of the Senate, and fifty copies to the Clerk of the House of Representatives, for the general use of the Committees, and Members of the respective Houses; to the Judges and Clerks of the Supreme and District Courts, and to the Marshal and Attorney of each District or section of a District, one copy to each; to the Secretaries of State, of the Treasury, of War, and of the Navy, and to each of their Chief Clerks, one copy each; one copy to the Attorney General, to each of the Comptrollers and Auditors, and to the Register and Treasurer of the United States, and to the Commissioner of the Revenue, and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and to the Paymaster General, & the Assistant and Inspector General, and to the Comptroller General of supplies, and the Director of the Mint; one copy to each Collector, Naval Officer, Surveyor, and Inspector of the Customs; to the Governors, Judges, Secretaries, and Clerks, of the Territories of the United States, one copy each; to the Postmaster General, and each Assistant, one copy; and one copy to each of the Surveyors General of the lands of the United States, and to each register of a land office, and in every copy of a public newspaper authorized to promulgate the laws, the delivery of the said copies shall be under the direction of the Secretary of State, or such officer as he shall, for that purpose, authorize.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That three hundred of the said copies shall be annually placed in the library of Congress; and every member of Congress, and every Delegate, shall be entitled to the use of a copy during the Session, and the same shall be returned and accounted for, as may be prescribed by the rules of the library. And one hundred of the said copies, authorized by this act to be printed, shall be delivered to the Secretary of War, and fifty copies to the Secretary of the Navy, to be by them respectively distributed among such officers of the army and navy as the public service may require. Four hundred copies shall be reserved by the Secretary of State, to be distributed by him, at his discretion, among the public and foreign ministers and consuls and other public agents.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That the residue of the said number of copies, authorized to be printed, shall be distributed among the several States and Territories, in proportion to the number of Representatives and Delegates to which each State and Territory may be entitled in Congress, at the time of such distribution.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That, whenever the Secretary of State shall enter into any contract with any person for the publication of the laws, in the pamphlet form, as aforesaid, he shall require at least two good and sufficient sureties for the faithful performance of the contract; and, in every such agreement, it shall always be stipulated that the number of copies hereby authorized to be printed, shall be delivered at the office of the Secretary of State within thirty days after the adjournment of each session of Congress, and that, for every day's delay in such delivery, the person so contracting shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars, to be deducted from the compensation to which he otherwise would have been entitled.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That all acts, or parts of acts heretofore passed, which in any manner contravene the provisions of this act, or which may be inconsistent with the same; & all acts or parts of acts, in which are contained any provisions for the publication of the laws, either in a pamphlet form or in newspapers, be, & the same are hereby repealed: Provided, That such repeal shall not be construed to prevent the payment of any compensation that may be due, for the publication of the laws, previous to the promulgation of this act.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That whatever sum of money may be necessary to carry into effect this act, besides any specific appropriations, for the same objects, that have been, or may be, made,

shall be paid out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

A PETITION.

I SHALL present a Petition to the next General Assembly of North Carolina, the purport of which will be, to get a law passed which may empower Commissioners appointed for the purpose (or myself) to lay out a part of the lands at the foot of the Great Falls of Roanoke in the county of Halifax, N. C. belonging to the orphans of Daniel Weldon, into Lots, and to sell them in the manner which may be prescribed. SAM'L BLUNT, Guardian. July 20 7315

ATTACHMENT.

North Carolina, Wake County. AT the suit of John Pair, of said County, against the estate of Nathan Smiley, late of said County, to secure the payment of Forty-two Dollars owing to the said John, which Attachment was on the 1st instant levied on Josiah Dillard as Garnishee. Further proceedings are stayed for thirty days; of which notice is hereby given—and if the defendant do not appear in the mean time and reply, Judgment final will be entered in behalf of the Plaintiff. Given under my hand, this 2d day of September, 1818. J. GALES, J. P.

MEDICAL STUDENTS.

DR. BILLINGS, Late of Philadelphia, NOW OF EDENTON NORTH-CAROLINA.

EGGS leave to inform Parents and Guardians of this and the adjoining States, that he proposes taking a few Young Gentlemen under his charge, who wish to devote themselves to the study of Medicine; and, with a view to their improvement he proposes delivering to them (as far as it may be found practicable) an elementary Course of Lectures on Anatomy, Surgery, Midwifery, Materia Medica, Chemistry, and the Practice of Medicine.

The importance of such a course must appear evident to every Tyro in Medicine; without which even in Osteology the young Student will find himself encompassed in a labyrinth, while reading the works of a Monro, a Cheselden, or a Fie.—But if on the jejunous subject of Bones insurmountable difficulties arise, what must be the perplexity of the scholar, when consulting the physiological pages of an Haller, a Blumenbach, or a Richond? Who but under existing circumstances, even an outline of Anatomy by demonstration can be attempted, is a matter of speculation; but certain it is, that we can have no correct views on Physiology without an accurate knowledge of Anatomy, and with the celebrated Wistar we must be convinced "that the structure of the human body cannot be properly understood without studying the real subject."

The bye-law of the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania require, that every Student prior to his matriculating in that institution, shall have studied 2 years with some regular Practitioner, and attended two whole Courses of Lectures. But the most assiduous graduate will confess, how very limited were his views on the various medical sciences, after the expiration of the above period. But it is a well known fact, that not above a fourth or a fifth of the whole number of Students ever graduate, contenting themselves with a simple course, and some, may hundreds there are, who profess to be Physicians, who never darkened the door of an University. To the latter class, such a course of lectures as those contemplated, will be all important.—To the middle class, the Student, having attended to such a course of private lectures for two years would, it is believed, be better prepared to commence practice after attending the University one year, than hundreds are after two years with out previous correct improvement.—But these lectures are not intended to supersede the necessity of graduating at an University, far otherwise—like as the Grammar School is necessary for the instruction of our youth prior to their entering College, equally so, will it be found beneficial to the Student in Medicine, to be acquainted with the first principles of the healing art, before he finishes his studies in an University.

The Lectures will commence on the first Tuesday in November, and continue at least twice a week till the latter end of May. Every Student must subject himself to regular examination, both public and private. Premium for each Student. If for one year, $150 two years - - - 250 Ordained Ministers, gratis Obedient Ministers, gratis TICKETS for attendance on the Lectures only, 1 course, $100 2 courses, 150 N. B. Each Student must provide himself with his own books. For further particulars, a line addressed Dr. Thomas Billings, post paid, will be duly attend d to. Edenton, August 27, 1818. 91 4t.
