"WHY WEEPEST THOU?" Does gloomy fate, with sullen frown Consume thy soul w to care? Hast thou the draught of misery known Whose dregs are dark despair! Art thou opprest with sorrows' doom,

Thy heart with anguish torn-Oh, soon that sad and cheerless gloom Shall wake a brighter morn! Then why should sorrow, wrng the brow-Say, mourner, say-" why weepest thou?"

Does tender love bedeck the bier, Is dust -with dust murn'd ? Has one-affection priz'd so dear To Heaven, and Gon-return'd! The beauteous flower, that charms the eye, and decks the smiling plain-With winter's blust, does faile, and die,

But dies-to bloom again! Then why should sorrow, wring thy brow-Say mourner, say-"why weepest thou !"
