LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

New York, May 24.

The ship Cincinnati, arrived here brings London papers to the 20th of April.

ITALY.

The affairs of Naples have settled into a perfect calm. The leaders of the revolution have all fled, or meekly submitted to put on the yoke fitted for their necks by the Holy Alliance.

Gen. Pepe has arrived, with several others, at Barcelona, in Spain, and immediately sent despatches to the Neapolitan Minister at Madrid, informing him of what had taken place.

From the London Courier of April 20.

We have received from a Paris correspondent a document of rather a curious description. It is a letter addressed to the Neapolitan nation by Gen. Pepe, anterior to his departure from the Neapolitan territory.

"Neapolitans, I am almost ashamed to call you countrymen, after all you have done and all I have suffered. I have no language to express the detestation in which I hold the conduct of those who have guided your councils in the late eventful period, or the disgust I feel at the baseness of your conduct on every occasion when the enemy made his appearance.

He dwells for some time on this subject, entering into particular details of the disasters in the Abruzzi; and, after alluding to what might have been performed there, proceeds thus:

"Had you made a stand when resistance was so possible, & victory so probable, how different would have been your situation and mine; how different the situation of the civilized world? The flame of liberty would have spread from the peninsula of Italy into the north, and those very governments that were the means of your subjugation, might themselves have been compelled to grant a constitution to their subjects."

With regard to himself, he observes: "That I am an exile, is nothing. I am content to suffer, and would gladly suffer much more, could I benefit the land in which I was born."

A letter inserted in the Milan Gazette, states that the total loss of the Austrians, in the campaign against Naples, was seven killed and fifty wounded! Not an Austrian was taken prisoner.

One of the first acts after the restoration was to muzzle the press.—On the 30th of March, the General Board of Police announced that the printing or publication of journals, pamphlets, &c. would only henceforth be allowed under virtue of special authority.

The allied sovereigns had broken up their Congress at Laybach, and with their suites were preparing to return home. Numerous arrests are said to have taken place in Prussia, and the apprehensions of its government have led to an augmentation of the standing army.

It is said that Austria does not wish to oppose a representative constitution in the kingdom of Sardinia, provided it will be conceded by the legitimate King; but at all events she will not recognize the constitution of Spain, even with modifications.

TURKEY.

From an Augsburg article of April 6, we learn that the revolution which has just broke out in Moldavia and Wallachia, has assumed a very serious character, that Russia and Austria have determined to take such precautionary measures as circumstances require.—It seems those powers will content themselves with assembling troops to observe what will be the issue of an insurrection which seems to have been long in preparation.

Prince Ypsilanti has marched with a well equipped corps, stated to amount to 20,000 Greeks, Moldavians, and Arnauts, with 16 pieces of cannon, and has issued a proclamation of great length. The military preparations are continued with all diligence by Prince Suzzo, who remains behind—and if money may be considered as a chief requisite, this was in abundance. Tranquillity is fully restored. The number of Turks killed in the first commotion is said to be 40, mostly of the poorest class.

44 days from Rio Janeiro.—Officers and crew generally in good health, the latter, with the exception of 10 or 12, having recovered from their indisposition.

Thomas Sumpter, Esq. Minister of the United States to the Court of Brazil, his lady and family, came passengers in the Congress.

Of the distressing mortality on board the Congress during the latter part of her cruise, we have already had her accounts; to which we have now to add the melancholy intelligence of the death of Capt. Wm. Nicoll, of the Marine, who departed this life at Rio Janeiro on the 21st March, after being some time indisposed. Capt. Nicoll was well known in the society of our town, where he was highly esteemed, and where his death will be deeply regretted.

The Congress sailed from Rio on the 15th April, at which time no political news of moment was current. King John was making preparations to return home; and for conveying himself, and the nobility who belong to his retinue, a line of battle ship, several frigates, and a number of other ships, were in waiting; the most of the latter class were Americans chartered for the purpose.—It was expected the fleet would sail about the 15th of May.

LATEST FROM BRAZIL.

We learn, by Capt. Wallis, from Rio de Janeiro, that after the constitution was adopted, the Bank was strictly examined, and a deficiency of several millions discovered. The Judge of the Custom-House, the President of the Bank, and several other persons, were committed to prison. But it was said just before Capt. W. sailed, that the King had deposited diamonds in the bank to cover the loss. His Majesty was making preparations to depart for Lisbon.

By the brig Bordeaux, Capt. Putnam, which left St. Salvador on the 16th April, we learn that the Constitutional Government had gone peaceably into effect, and that the country was in a quiet state, all classes appeared satisfied with the present government. A Portuguese 74 was at Rio Janeiro, which was to take out to Portugal the King and part of the royal family. It was understood they were to embark in a few days.

LATE FROM ANGOSTURA.

The fast sailing schr. Swan, Capt. Skinner, arrived yesterday morning, bringing accounts and letters as late as the 6th inst.

A report reached Angostura about the middle of April, that the people of the city of Lima had revolted, and were about to open their gates to the Patriots.

We have Angostura papers of the 14th and 21st of April. That of the former date contains the substance of a correspondence between Gen. Bolivar, dated at Truxillo, and the royal general La Torres, on the subject of the Armistice, and the renewal of hostilities. La Torres states that the cattle had been driven from the districts which his army occupied, and it had become necessary for him to recommence hostilities, in order to obtain supplies for his army.

All officers belonging to the different corps of the republican army were ordered to repair forthwith to their respective commands.

The letters speak with much confidence of the expected triumph of the armies of the republic. Caracas, they say, "will be in our possession in the month of June."

GEN. DEVEREUX.

From the Baltimore Federal Gazette. Intelligence and official documents of recent dates, have been received from the Republic of Colombia. The address of Gen. Devereux to the Irish troops under his command, we insert below, and shall follow it with some observations, due, we conceive, to our late fellow-citizen, who lived so long amongst us, enjoying, not merely in Baltimore, but throughout the state, and in other states of the Union, where he was known, a larger portion of the respect, friendship, and admiration, of his fellow-citizens, of all classes, than usually falls to the lot of any individual.

MR. ROBERTSON'S ADDRESS. Extracts from an Address to his Constituents by G. Robertson, late a Representative in Congress from Kentucky, on his resignation of that trust:

"I am happy on this occasion in being able to congratulate you on the happy condition of our country in all its great interests and relations. Never did more tranquility, peace, and concord pervade the Union than at this moment; and never was there in any country, in my opinion, less necessity for national legislation. I believe that the less we legislate, under existing circumstances, the more we shall consult the substantial and permanent good of the community. If we rely as becomes us, on our own physical and moral capacities for the principal means of happiness & competence—if we encourage industry, economy and public spirit, and by a liberal and diffusive system of education, literary and moral, bring into useful operation the latent energies of the rising generation—if we will adopt and inculcate enlightened and liberal, and elevated notions of government, and of the social, religious, and political rights and duties, such as the benign genius of our institutions, and

"Turbaco, Province of Carthagena, 2d of April, 1821

"COUNTRYMEN & SOLDIERS: The gratification I experience in again meeting you, my brave and faithful associates in arms, cannot but be diminished by the events which have occurred during the interval of our separation; they have paralyzed the efforts of your valor and threatened to blast the fair prospects which were opening to your view. To you, however, the firm and constant supporters of your country's honor, the victorious opponents of tyranny and oppression, my heartfelt acknowledgments are due. Although unable to stem the torrent of insubordination and disaffection which unfortunately swept away so great a portion of our force, you have, on all occasions in which the enemies of Colombia have presented you the opportunity, evinced your native courage, and added fresh laurels to the crown of Ireland's fame. It gives me sincere pleasure to know, that your merits are duly appreciated by the Governor General of these Provinces, his excellency Marianna Montilla.

"Behold the commanding position of the Republic! contemplate her as she now is, and as she was when you entered into her service; and, with a pride proportionate to such results, remember that it was an Irish division which first kindled in this section, that glorious flame which now animates it throughout.

"SOLDIERS! When a division of the Legion, of which some of you formed a part, landed in Rio de la Hache last March, and brought into these provinces the arms of the Republic, the flag of its enemy covered their extensive coast, whilst now, from the walls of Carthagena, in the West, to the very confines of Caracas, in the East, that of Colombia waves in proof of your services, & proclaims that you have not come here in vain.

"It is impossible for me not to bestow a transient glance upon those gentlemen who considered it prudent to withdraw from the service. You have no doubt been informed of the calumnies propagated in Ireland, subsequent to their return, and you can best judge how far such a course towards me, was justifiable on the grounds of truth, justice or honor. I am willing, notwithstanding, to make many allowances for them on the score of youth and inexperience, and particularly as, unfortunately for themselves, they fell into the hands of evil and designing men, whose counsel was poison, and touch contamination and disgrace.

"It is to me, a subject of the most poignant regret, that we should have to lament the loss of so many brave and beloved countrymen, who have fallen victims to the ravages of diseases incident to a tropical climate. These dangers, however, we necessarily anticipated; and I have the inward satisfaction of reflecting, that, by attaching so numerous and respectable a medical staff to the legion, I had adopted the best precaution which human means could devise, to avert these awful dispensations of Divine Providence.

"I now only remains for me to recommend a steady perseverance in the conduct by which you have already so much distinguished yourselves; and I feel the highest gratification in transmitting to you the declaration of the illustrious Liberator, whose promises have never yet been lightly made, or failed of their completion, that no opportunity shall be omitted of advancing you according to your merits, and rewarding the services you have rendered the State.

DEVEREUX. Of the Order of Liberator, Lieut. Genl of the Armies of the Republic, & Commandant Gen. of the Irish Legion, &c.

[Of the Irish Legion, raised by Gen. Devereux, there still remains (it is stated) in the service of Colombia, the 1st Light Infantry, Brigadier General Power's regiment, of which Lieut. Col. Brooke Young has the immediate command, with Col. Lyster's Fusiliers, and those of the division who could not be seduced from their duty at Rio de la Hache, but remained true to their colors and their country. The last accounts mention that Gen. Devereux was proceeding to Cucuta, where the Congress was about to assemble, and that in every village thro' which he passed, he was received with the most flattering marks of respect and distinction, by the civil authorities, the military, and the people.]

such the happy posture of affairs that concern our welfare as a nation, that we may reach the proudest destiny with which hope has ever flattered us, without the constant multiplication of laws, or in an habitual dependence on the supposed magic of legislation. All things duly considered, we have very little cause of despondence or complaint, and much of exhilaration and mutual felicitation. Never (I believe) could the people of the United States say with more sincerity and truth to the national legislature, 'let us alone.' The most prominent circumstances, international & domestic, which have for some time agitated our councils, and menaced the harmony and integrity of the Union having been satisfactorily arranged during the last session of Congress, the prospect before us for years to come, in the most comprehensive survey, presents in the great outline of national prosperity an encouraging view, authorizes the most animating hopes of the longevity of our institutions, and of the independence and happiness of our people.

"Popular applause is gratifying to all good men, but there is danger, if pursued too eagerly, of its becoming an ignis fatuus to decoy us into error. No wise man will be insensible to the approbation of his fellow-men, or indifferent about obtaining it, but no honest man will ever attempt to obtain it in any other way than by endeavoring to deserve it. The popularity which is gratifying to an honorable and elevated mind is not that evanescent, capricious thing that must be conciliated by caresses, & purchased by dishonest compliances, but that high and constant sentiment of esteem which follows virtuous actions, and is their best reward, next to the approbation of a sound conscience, which it will sooner or later fortify and prosper."
