POETRY.

By James Montgomery. Where ye, with whom in life I started, Dear companions of my golden days Ye are dead, estrang'd from me or part-

Flown like morning clouds, a thousand wave.

Where art thou, in youth my friend and brother,

Yea in soul my friend and brother Heav'n received thee, and on earth none Can the void in my lorn bosom fill.

Where is she, whose looks were love and gladness ? Love and gladness I no longer see; She is gone, and since that hour of sadness,

Nature seems her sepulchre to me. Where am I? life's corrent faintly flow-

Brings the welcome warning of recase. Struck with death; ah! whither am going ? All is well, my spirit parts in peace.

THE FLOWER GIRL.

" Pray, huy a nosegav of a poor orphan!" said a female voice, in a plaintive and melodious tone, as I was passing the corner of the Hay market. I turned hastily, and beheld a girl about fourteen, whose drapery, tho' ragged, was clean, and whose form was such as a painter might have chosen for a youthful Venus. Her neck, without coloring, was white as snow, and her features, though not regularly beautiful, were interesting, and set off hy a transparent complexion; her eyes dark and intelligent, were shaded by loose ringlets of a raven black & poured their sweet sapplicating beams through the silken shade of very ling lishes. one arm bring a basket full of roses, and the other was stretched our towards me with one of the rose buds. I put my hand into my pocket and drew out some silver ; "Take this, my pretty girl." said I, put ting it into her hand, "and may that God, who is father of the fatherless, be the preserver of your existence, and your virtue!-Virtuous poverty is no crime."

I was turning from her, when she caught my withdrawn hard: and, putting it to her lips, burst into a flood of tears. The action, and the look which accompanied it, touched my soul; it melted to the artless gratitude of this poor flower girl, and a drop of sympathy fell from my cheeks. "Forgive me, sir," said she, recovering her transport, while a sweet blush d ffus ed i self over her lovely face; "my heart ture impelled me to so free an action.-You will pardon me when I tell you they raising up her face from the hand on which she had laid it-" O Sir! I have no father! no mother! no relation!-Alas! I have no friend in the world."-Choaked with the emotions, she was silent for a moment before she could proceed. "My only friend is God! on him I rely: I submit to his will. I only pray that I may support with fortitude the miseries I am born to experience! To him, kind sir, this heart shall always pray for you. May that God forever protect you!" added she, dropping a low courtesy, full of humanity and native grace, as she retired. I returned her benediction and

And can I thus leave this poor creature? said I. as I walked pensively on .-Can I leave her forever, without emotion? What have I done for her, that can entitle me to her prayers? Preserved her a few days from death, but that is all, and shall I quit thee, frail flower, to see thee no more? to be blown by the rude blast of adversity! to be cropped by some cruel spoiler! droop the lovely head beneath the blight of early sorrow! No! thou hast been reared on some happier bank; thou bast been nurmed by the sweet fears of a maternal affection; thou hast blushed beneath the cheerful sun of domestic content; and under it thou shalt bloom again! I turned as I spoke; my heart beat with its sweet purpose. I saw the beautiful flower girl before me, I approached-caught her hand-the words of triumph, virtue, burst from my lips:

Come, thou levely deserted girl ! come and add one more to the happy group who call me father! their home shall be thine, thou shalt share, their comforts ! thou shalt be taught that virtue their father tries to practice! She stopped meher eyes flashed with frantic joy; she flung herself on her knees, before me, and burst into a flood of rapturous tears I raised her in my arms and hushed her eloquent gratitude, and led her to a house of happiness and piety. She loves my children; she loves their father, and is equally beloved by them all-and the poor orphan of the Hay market is now the partner of my only son! De Burghe.

CHURLISH REBUKE.

Although Queen Elizabeth's fondness for apparel was proverbial, yet she often rebuked those who wore dresses not becoming their rank or station in life; an instance of this is related in the Harrington papers. "It happened," says this author, "that lady Mary Howard was possessed of a rich border, with gold and pearl, and a velvet suit belonging thereto, which moved many to envy; nor did it please the queen, who thought it exceed-ed her own. One day the queen did send privately, and got the lady's rich vesture, which she put on herself, and came forth from the chamber among the ladies; the kirtle and border were far too short for her majesty's height; and she asking e-very one how they liked her new fancled suit. At length, she asking the owner herself, if it was not made too short and ill-becoming; which the poor lady did presently consent to; 'why, then, if it become not me, as being too short, I am minded it shall never become thee, as being too fine; so it fitteth neither well. This sharp rebuke abashed the lady, and she never adorned herself herewith any more. I believe the vestment was laid up till after the queen's death."

FRENCH FLATTERY.

The French court once carried its fia tery so far, as to alter the gender of a substantive, in compliment to an infantine mistake of their Grand Monarque. The word carosse, a coach, was originally feminine; but when M. Menage published his Dictionnaire Etimologique, he gave it as avowedly masculine, but not without remarking, that it had been formerly feminine. This revolution as to the gender of a word, arose from a trivial grammatical error. Louis XIV. came to the brone in 1643, when he was about five years of age. A short time afterwards, on enquiring for his coach, he happened to confound the gender of it by calling out "Ou est mon carosse." This was sufficient to stamp the word carosse masculine, of which gender it has ever since continued. Such a puerile error is not to be wondered at; but that a whole nation should adopt a change of gender, in compliment to it, is an absurdity of no common magnitude.

In the reign of the same Prince, a very alarming little revolution took place in the application of an epithet in the French language. It had become a ruling fashion to give every thing great the term gros, as "un gros plaisir;" "une grosse qualife;" une grosse beaute." The king took an occasion to express his dislike to these expressions, because in fact, he was frightened, lest he who had been for some time styled Louis le Grand, should exchange his title for that of a second Louile Gros. M. Boileau, however, upon perceiving the king's afarm, had the address to observe how impossible it was for the world to think of Louis le Gros, in the reign of Louis le Grand. The royal mind was thus quieted, the fashion had its course, and that course was soon run.

SHARON FOR SALE.

THE place on which I reside, may be had on reasonable terms, for negotiable paper with Bank accommodation. It contains about 49 acres of Land, of good quality, bor-dering on the City of Raleigh, and on a public road leading from the City. Sixteen or eighteen acres are cleared and under cultivation, the rest is covered with a heavy forest growth, abounding with fire-wood and timber. The land contains an excellent rock quarry; is well watered by branches, and has two rock springs near the house, equal probably to any in the county. My dwelling is about 300 yards from the town line. The situation, therefore, has the advantages of town and country united, and is, in my estimation, the most desirable spot for a residence that I know in the State. - Apply soon.

H. POTTER. Sharon, 8th May, 1832.

FOR SALE,

Tract of Land in the county of Warren containing, by an old survey, 700 acres. and lying near the stage road leading from Warrenton to Petersburg, about ten miles from the former place, and five from Robinson's Ferry, over the Roanoke. The above Land is well calculated for the production of Wheat, Corn, Cotton or Tobacco. There is on it a comfortable dwelling-house for a small family, and most out-houses usually found on a farm in this country. There is open land enough to work eight or ten hands to advantage, on the three-shift system; at this time well inclosed, and in a state of improvement. I will sell on a credit or make an exchange for young Negroes.

A Proclamation ... FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.

WHEREAS, it has been represented to me, that a certain Negro Man, named JIM, believed to be the property of David Stone, Esq. of Wake County, stands charged by the verdict of a Jury of Inquest, with the murder of a young Negro Man, named Burton, the property of Green Ligon, of said county, a minor, and that said negro Jim has made his escape: Now, therefore, to the end that he may be brought to justice, the above Reward will be given to any person or persons who shall apprehend and confine the said negro Jim in any Jail, so that he may be prought to trial for said offence: And I do moreover enjoin and command all Officers, Civil and Military, within this State, to apprehend and bring said negro Jim to justice.

Negro Jim is well known in this County and in Bertie, where he formerly lived; he is about five feet ten inches high, not very stoutly made, but is a negro of desperate character, and will probably resist all attempts to take him. He has a slit in his lower lip, one of his ears has been bitten off, and he wears his hair platted and turned up under his hat.

In testimony whereof, I have caused the Great Seal of the State to be hereunto affixed, and signed the same at the City of Raleigh, this 12th day of July, Anno Domini, 1822.
