Raleigh Register.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1826.

With feelings of great distress, we announce the death of our neighbour Mr. Southey Bond, an old and respectable inhabitant of this city...

We cannot with any degree of certainty account for this desperate and shocking act. The deceased was a member of high standing in the Baptist Church...

Should this last treaty be ratified by the Senate, will Georgia rest satisfied? We presume not. She has spoken a language not to be mistaken—she has emphatically declared through the medium of the Legislature...

votes, over that distinguished republican William B. Giles. Even defeat is a triumph under such circumstances, and the result shows the estimation in which the talents of Mr. Giles are held.

Great luck.—The ticket which drew the $100,000 prize in the New York State Literature Lottery was sold one half to Mr. George Webb, a clerk in the counting house of J. W. Schmidt, in New-York, the other half to Mr. Oakley, of Poughkeepsie.

Samuel Jones of the City of New-York, has been appointed Chancellor of that State, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the transfer of Mr. Sandford to the Senate of the United States.

The last National Intelligencer, has the following paragraph which is doubtless authentic:

It is said, that a Treaty is, or is about to be concluded, with the Creek Indians, satisfactory in so far as it will prevent a total breach of friendly intercourse with them. They agree to confirm the treaty of February last, by yielding possession of all the land ceded by it, except a strip beyond the Chatahoochie...

Very little business either of importance or novelty was transacted. This being the day, by rule, for handing in memorials and petitions, an hour and a half was consumed in their presentation.

Congressional Proceedings.

Monday, Jan. 23.

A Message in writing was received from the President of the United States and read, enclosing a statement of moneys paid out of the Treasury of the United States to the late President thereof, as compensation for his services in various other offices which he had filled under the Government...

A resolution was laid on the table by Mr. Hayne, of Georgia, directing the Secretary of War to communicate to the House, a plan of the surveys of the waters of Virginia and North-Carolina, executed under the orders of that department, having reference to the proposed system of internal navigation near the Atlantic coast.

The House then resumed the consideration of "the Bill to amend the Judicial system of the United States," when Mr. Burges of Rhode-Island delivered a learned and eloquent speech in favor of Mr. Mercer's motion to recommit the bill; and, after 4 o'clock, Mr. Kerr of Maryland expressed his determination to address the House on the subject, and on his motion the House adjourned.

Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Mr. Holcomb, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, made a report on the petition of Susan Decatur, accompanied by a bill in favor of the object thereof; which was twice read and committed.

The House then proceeded to the unfinished business of yesterday, which was, the resolution offered by Mr. Mercer to recommit the bill "further to amend the judicial system of the United States," with instructions to report it with certain amendments thereto, as heretofore stated.

Wednesday, Jan. 25.

Mr. Pearce, of R. I. offered the following:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to furnish this House with such information as will show the number of years James Monroe, late President of the United States, has been in the employ and service of the Government of the United States, the number of offices he has filled, with the length of time he did not fill and discharge the duties of the offices of Secretary of State and Secretary of War.

This resolution lies one day.

The House then proceeded to the unfinished business of yesterday, which was the consideration of the bill "in-

Mr. Bartlett, of New-Hampshire, then moved to recommit the bill, with the following instructions:

"So as to provide that the several district courts of the United States shall be required to perform such part of the duties which are now devolved upon the circuit courts, which shall render but one term of the circuit court necessary in each district annually, and that a justice of the supreme court of the United States shall be required to hold one term of the circuit court in each district in each year."

Wishing, however, to accommodate the gentleman who, by the usage of the House, was entitled to the floor, (Mr. Kerr, of Maryland, who yesterday moved the adjournment,) Mr. B. afterwards withdrew the motion for amendment.

Mr. Webster then moved that the bill be ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. Kerr now entered the House and addressed the chair in a speech, which occupied more than an hour, in favor of the bill.

Mr. Forsyth, of Georgia, then moved to amend the bill, by striking out all after the enacting clause, and inserting the following:

"That, for the better establishment of the circuit courts of the United States, the said States shall be, and hereby are, classed into seven Circuits, in manner following, that is to say: The first Circuit shall consist of the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode-Island and Massachusetts—the second, of the States of New-York, Vermont, and Connecticut—the third, of the States of Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, and Delaware—the fourth, of the States of Maryland, Virginia, and North-Carolina—the fifth, of the States of South-Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee—the sixth, of the States of Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, and Ohio—the seventh, of the States of Kentucky, Louisiana, and Mississippi."

Mr. Webster spoke in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. Alston, of North-Carolina, then spoke in favor of Mr. Forsyth's amendment, and in reply to Mr. Webster; and concluded his speech by moving that the bill lie on the table, and the proposed amendment be printed.

This motion was negatived by a large majority.

And the question recurring on Mr. Forsyth's amendment, it was decided in the negative.

Mr. Kremer, of Pa. now moved to recommit the bill, with instructions to amend it so as to embrace the arbitration principle.

Mr. Sloan pronounced this motion out of order, inasmuch as a motion to recommit had this day been decided in the negative, and the rule of the House precluded a second motion for recommitment on the same day.

Mr. Forsyth then renewed the motion he had before made in Committee of the whole, viz: to add to the bill the following proviso:

"Provided, That no final judgment shall be pronounced by the supreme court of the United States, affecting the property, or life, or liberty of any citizen of the United States, which shall not be approved by such a number of the judges thereof as shall constitute a majority of all the justices of the supreme court, including the Chief Justice."

On this question, he demanded the yeas and nays; the call was sustained (more than one-fifth rising in its favor) Yeas 35, Nays 135.

The question being on agreeing to Mr. Forsyth's proviso.

Mr. Sloane of Ohio, demanded the previous question, (the effect of which would have been to exclude all amendments)—

The House refused to sustain the demand, by the requisite number of a majority of those present. When an adjournment was again moved by Mr. Kremer, and carried; Ayes 91, Noes 89. So the House adjourned a little before five o'clock.

Wednesday, Jan. 25.

Mr. Pearce, of R. I. offered the following:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to furnish this House with such information as will show the number of years James Monroe, late President of the United States, has been in the employ and service of the Government of the United States, the number of offices he has filled, with the length of time he did not fill and discharge the duties of the offices of Secretary of State and Secretary of War.

This resolution lies one day.

The House then proceeded to the unfinished business of yesterday, which was the consideration of the bill "in-ther to extend the Judicial System of the United States."

The question being on the Proviso, offered by Mr. Forsyth, of Geo. as an amendment to the bill, Mr. F. demanded the yeas and nays, but the House refused to take them—Ayes 31, Noes 139.

Mr. Forsyth then withdrew his motion to amend the bill by adding the proviso.

Mr. Webster moved that the bill be ordered to a third reading—when

Mr. Mercer moved that the further consideration of the bill be postponed to the second Monday in December next, and supported his motion by a general speech in opposition to the bill, which he concluded by asking for the Yeas and Nays on his motion. They were ordered by the House, and were Yeas 45, Nays 151. The question was then taken on ordering the bill to a third reading, and on motion of Mr. Edwards of this State, the Yeas and Nays were taken & were Yeas 132 Nays 59.

Messrs. Bryan, Hines, Holmes, and Williams, of this State, voted in favor of ordering the bill to a third reading, and Messrs. Alston, Carson, Conner, Edwards, Long, Mangum, McNeill, Sanders, and Sawyer, voted in opposition thereto.

MAP

Of the State of North-Carolina.

A CORRECT MAP of the State in which he resides must be a desirable object to every individual. Whatever may be a man's occupation in life, it frequently becomes important to him as a matter of pecuniary interest to possess correct knowledge of the relative situation of the different sections of country.

In the present enlightened state of society, the subscriber is convinced, that apart from all considerations of interest or convenience, there are very few of our citizens who do not feel it an affair of personal pride that they and their children should be able to speak with familiarity of those parts of the State lying at a distance from them, as well as of those in their immediate vicinity.

The subscriber therefore flatters himself that the following proposals will be received with pleasure by a large portion of the inhabitants of his native State.

He proposes to publish a correct MAP of the STATE OF NORTH-CAROLINA, measuring 6 feet 9 inches in length, by 3 feet 6 inches in width, laid out upon a scale of 6 miles to the inch. The materials will be of the best kind, and the engraving executed in superior style.

But correctness of delineation being the most important circumstance, has claimed the subscriber's chief attention; to the attainment of which important object, the Map of each county has been separately executed by R. H. B. BRAZIER, Esq. with the assistance of gentlemen of science residing in different parts of the State, and from the public surveys, and have been likewise revised and corrected by the several county surveyors, or some other competent person in each county.

Notice.

INTENDING to settle in Tennessee, and as many persons in this and other States have claims to Lands in that State of which they are ignorant, or know not how to proceed to recover the same, I am desirous, in connexion with a Gentleman of that State, of the first standing as to character and qualifications, to undertake upon shares, or at a fixed price, the recovery and establishment of all such claims—and also will attend to the division, paying taxes, &c. &c. of all such lands as are now established, and an confident justice at least will be rendered. I have now a list of many claims, taken from books in that State, and any information therein will be given gratis on application. All letters directed to me at Fayetteville, N. C. (post paid), will be attended to.

SAM'L P. ASHE. By an act of that State, passed in 1819, claims must be commenced within 7 years thereafter, or be barred. Dec. 22. 19 3m.

Notice.

I AM desirous of selling for Cash, or accommodation paper at Bank, the very pleasant and healthy place (not one of my family, white or black, having died or been sickly for 9 years past,) on which I reside, two miles below Fayetteville, on the road to Wilmington; it contains 210 Acres or more, with a comfortable Dwelling House, a brick Spring House and Store Room, over a Spring in the yard; together with all other necessary Out-houses, an excellent Garden, with a branch running through it, now very fertile, in fine order, and handsomely arranged, and the Farm I am persuaded will bear inspection, and as such, I invite purchasers to examine for themselves. All I will say is, that though it is well situated and improved, so convenient to the best Market town in the State, a good brick yard, and a comfortable and healthy residence, yet desirous of moving to Tennessee, I would sell a great bargain. As I would sell the Furniture, &c. of all kinds, among them some of the Northern breed of Cattle and Oxen; a first rate Saddle Horse, a Sulky Horse, and two or three strong Plantation Horses. And also—about one hundred acres of Land, on mile south of town, an elegant healthy situation for a family residence, commanding a handsome view of Fayetteville.

For Terms, apply to J. H. W., or myself. SAM'L P. ASHE. Spring Hill, Jan. 10. 26 4w
