Raleigh Register.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1826.

Governor BURTON left this city yesterday, for his seat in Halifax, where he will remain for a few weeks.

We perceive that John H. Bryan, Esq. one of our Representatives in Congress, has been admitted to practice as a Counsellor in the Supreme Court of the United States.

We understand, that the following is the arrangement of the Circuits of the Judges of the Superior Courts for the present year:

Table with columns for Spring and Fall, listing judges and their respective circuits.

The death of the Emperor Alexander is confirmed by an arrival at Charleston, S. C. from London, bringing papers to the 24th December! In the scale of humanity, the demise of one individual however exalted, is of no greater weight than the death of any other person however humble their station.

We regret to learn that the Rev. Mr. Hammett, whilst on his way to the Conference of Methodist Ministers, at Portsmouth, Va. had his trunk cut from the Stage, in which was all of his most valuable clothing.

It is said by some of our oldest inhabitants, that the rains of last week, were heavier than any, they have ever known. We hear of considerable damage done to mills, bridges, &c. and among the rest, the bridge over Neuse River, at Cobbs' mills, is entirely swept away.

Letters received in Washington City, dated the 6th ultimo, from Mr. Poinsett, our Minister in Mexico, announce the death of General James Wilkinson, late of the Army of the United States, and an officer in the War of the Revolution.

The second session of the University of Virginia, commenced on Wednesday, the 1st instant; 150 students have already matriculated.

A singular occurrence happened in this vicinity, a few days ago, which we mention by way of caution to careless nurses. A negro woman having left her child, about six weeks old, on the floor, went into an adjoining room, from whence however, she was soon recalled by the cries of her infant.

Corn is selling in Charleston at $1 25 per bushel, and in Fayetteville, it is quoted at 90 cents. It commands a but the same price here.

A bill of the Bank of the State of S. Carolina, of the denomination of $2, altered to $100, has been detected in Charleston. The words two dollars in the body of the bill has been extracted, and the words one hundred substituted, and at the upper and lower edges of the bill the same thing has been done.

Death of Alexander.—An account of this event will be found under our foreign news head. In its consequences the death of this man may well be considered as one of the most important events since the battle of Waterloo.—Alexander was the most powerful monarch on earth; he had at his own command, and was restrained by no collateral, co-existing, or any other earthly power, more men, hardy and well trained soldiers, than it would have required to garrison Europe; he could have marched into the Turkish Empire and said, the Crescent was, but is not. In possession of so much power, he may be considered a man of most extraordinary forbearance in not exercising it to a greater extent than he did.

Great News!—An arrival at New-York, brings the important and unexpected intelligence of the death of the Emperor Alexander of Russia. It is impossible to foresee the consequences of this great event upon the condition of christendom. He was in the prime of life, and no doubt maturing vast schemes of conquest and aggrandizement. His dominions extended from the Straits of Bhering, to the frontiers of Germany, taking in the eastern and western hemisphere. He had the chief agency in affecting the greatest catastrophe which history records; the dethronement of Napoleon. He more than all, has arrested the march of human emancipation, and blighted the fair fruits of the French Revolution.

power in Europe, and to reduce it again to its ancient barbarism. The death of such a man, must be felt in all the extremities of the globe.

A very elaborate and interesting report was yesterday made in the House of Representatives, by Mr. McLane, the Chairman of the committee of Ways and Means, on the general subject of the finances of the country, with particular reference to the prospect and progress of the liquidation of the Public Debt. Our readers will be induced to look with some eagerness to the publication of it, by the circumstance of the House having deemed the subject of so much consequence as to order the printing of a large number of extra copies of it. We have only been able to collect sufficient of its general contents to induce us to desire a more particular acquaintance with it.

Congressional Speeches.—We much regret that the Speeches of Members of Congress are now-a-days so immoderately long, even when pruned of many of their excrescences by the reporters for the newspapers, that it is entirely out of our power, consistently with a due attention to other matters, to publish any of them, or even to read many that have come to hand.

Such is Life. In Pleasure's gay and giddy round I've played no idle part; Yet in her frolics little found That truly touch'd the heart. By Hope led on, I climb'd awhile Ambition's steep ascent; Here oft I met with Pride and Guile, But never with Content. By fits I, with the scribbling race, Pursued the phantom Fame; But ever wearied of the chase, Before I caught the game. The sordid joy mere riches give, Thank God! I've never known. No virtue can with Avrice live— It turns the heart to stone. Are Hope's illusions then the most That mortals here attain? Is ev'ry bliss that life can boast, Thus fleeting, false, and vain? Oh! let me not the wild Divine Ungrateful thus reprove: There's one pure joy—it has been mine— 'Tis bliss of wedded love.
