Raleigh Register

TUESDAY, JULY 25, 1826.

In no town has more imposing or appropriate honors been paid to the memory of our departed Patriots and Statesmen, JEFFERSON and ADAMS, than in Fayetteville. Indeed the public spirit displayed there on all occasions which call for it, has acquired for it abroad a character which the liberality and enterprise of its citizens fully sustain.

The National Intelligencer contains the scheme of the Jefferson Lottery. There are only three prizes, viz: the Monticello Estate at $71,000; the Shadwell Mills at $50,000; and the Albemarle Estate at $11,500.

New-York money-market.—The late New-York papers are filled with distressing accounts of the shock which the monied affairs of that city have received within a few weeks, in consequence of the stoppage, one after another, of several Banks.

Each minute teems a new one. And each is more pregnant with danger and disaster than the one which preceded it. The whole community appears to be in a state of alarm.

Disaster upon disaster!—It was but in our last paper, that we gave an account of a serious conflagration which had just happened in Petersburg.

The following account is from the Republic of that place.

About 11 o'clock, while the bell of the Episcopal Church was giving the signal for the commencement of religious exercises at that place, and while the congregation were entering the sacred building, suddenly the measured tones of the solemn bell were changed to the rapid vibrations of sound, which denote an alarm of fire.

We do not know the number of houses destroyed by this conflagration, but suspect there were from 20 to 30; and as most of them were occupied by an industrious and hard-labouring portion of the community, we apprehend the loss sustained must fall heavily on many of the sufferers.

Supreme Court.—The arguments of Counsel were closed on Saturday, and the Judges are now engaged in making up their opinions.—Since our last, J. W. Norwood, of Hillsboro', Samuel F. Sneed, of Granville, & Graves, of Caswell, have been admitted to the practice of Law in the County Courts.

Wednesday, July 19.—Nepper v. Cooke, in Equity, from Wake, came on to be heard, and was argued by Mr. Haywood for Complainant, and Mr. Swallow contra.

Thursday, 20th.—The Court proceeded in the case opened yesterday, when Mr. Badger argued for the Plaintiff, and Messrs. Gaston and Hogg for Defendant.

Friday, 21.—Went v. Jefferys et al. in Equity, from Franklin, was heard, Messrs. Gaston and Badger for Defendants.

Saturday, 22d.—Mr. Hogg was heard, in the case opened yesterday, for complainant, and Mr. Gaston for defendant.

Sunday, 23d.—The State v. Allen & Royster, from Person, was argued by the Attorney-General for the State.

Monday, 24th.—The State v. Joiner, from Pitt, was before the Court, Attorney-General for the State, Mr. Gaston for the prisoner.

Tuesday, 25th.—The State v. Patton, from Lincoln, came on. The Attorney-General for the State.

Wednesday, 26th.—The following cases not heretofore noticed were submitted to the Court during the term.

Holmes & Williams v. Williams, in Equity, from Wake.

White v. Turborough & White, in Equity, from Franklin.

Cannon v. Jones, in Equity, from Wake.

Henderson v. Shannon, from Lincoln.

Johnson v. Carson, from Buncombe.

Holcomb v. Martin et al. from Surry.

Don on dem. of Borden v. McKinnon, et al. from Wayne.

Brown v. Graves, from Caswell.

Brushfield v. Whitaker, from Wake.

Chairman of Washington County Court v. Harwood, from Washington.

Guy v. McClure, from Iredell.

Horrible Catastrophe.—Beauchamp, the murderer of Col. Sharp, was executed at Frankfort, Kentucky on the 7th inst.

not a mortal one—he was immediately afterwards executed. As Beauchamp and his wife a few days before had both taken poison, which failed in its purpose, it is a matter of doubt whether she perished by her own hand or fell a victim to the un-governable passions of her depraved husband.

Latest from England.—By the Packet ship Algonquin which arrived at Philadelphia on the 16th inst.

It is said that trade and manufactures had revived to a degree, but the improvement was not considerable. The London Courier of the 5th, after observing that it does not share in the gloomy anticipations of some editors, "who think that the reverse which the commerce and manufactures of the country have recently experienced, is the signal and the commencement of decline in the national wealth and power."

From Russia.—Capt. Dickinson, of the ship Triton, arrived at Boston, on Wednesday, informs that the Empress ELIZABETH, widow of the late Emperor ALEXANDER, of Russia, died about the 10th of May, on her way from Taganrock to Moscow.

The Religious Services which, according to previous arrangement, took place yesterday at the Capitol, in commemoration of the two patriot sages who have just, in so remarkable a manner, paid the debt of humanity, were appropriate and impressive.

The services of the day, having particular reference to the same striking event, were closed by those in the evening at the Unitarian Church, where a most impressive sermon was preached by the Pastor, the Rev. Mr. LITTLE, to a very large auditory, with other appropriate services.

We have learned, from a source entirely to be relied on, that Mr. Jefferson left a Will, in which he gave all his property, "the legal estate and actual possession" to his grandson Thomas Jefferson Randolph.

Military Education.—The military education which has been introduced by the West Point Academy and Captain Partridge, appears to be becoming very popular.

Like some proud monarch of the Sylvan scene, He stands majestic venerably green— And still his stately trunk aloft he rears, Serene and bending with the weight of years, He stands and views, while gazing on the ground, His brethren of the forest strewed around.

Mr. CARROLL is, we hesitate not to assert, the most interesting individual in the whole United States. He shines alone in the firmament, and when that star is gone the whole constellation will be extinct.

There is a large and splendid silk establishment on Staten Island, which prints a variety of silk goods, in the most elegant and splendid style.

An action has recently been brought by the President and Directors of the Bank of Huntsville against Wm. G. Hill, the Cashier, to recover $25,429 32, of which sum, it is alleged, that the cashier was feloniously robbed.

Republican Simplicity.—The circumstance of Gov. FENNER, of R. I. being elected a Fire-warden has lately been mentioned to shew the simplicity of our republican government.

A singular instance of the fatal effects of the electric fluid occurred in Addison, Vermont, on the 10th inst. The house of Mr. James M. Lane was struck.

A company of unchartered bankers, or counterfeiterers, have been detected, near Ravenna, Portage county, Ohio. Colonel George Darrow, Captain James Brown, and Colonel William Ashley, have been arrested; the two first named were held to bail, and the last, not offering sufficient bail, was committed to prison.

The accounts from COLOMBIA, as to the character of Gen. Paez's movement, are very contradictory. Whilst it is undoubtedly as much a rebellion as if a Commander of one of our armies, during the late war, had spurned his orders and even the constitution of the land, and taken upon himself, as the head of a particular State, to set at defiance the Federal authority.

[Pittsburg Gazette.]

We understand that a committee of the City Corporation, including the Mayor, waited upon the venerable CHARLES CARROLL, of Carrollton, on Saturday morning at Doughoragen Manor, for the purpose of inviting him to be present at the funeral honors which will be paid by the city of Baltimore on Thursday next, to the memory of the illustrious patriots and sages ADAMS and JEFFERSON.

Baltimore July 17.

Like some proud monarch of the Sylvan scene, He stands majestic venerably green— And still his stately trunk aloft he rears, Serene and bending with the weight of years, He stands and views, while gazing on the ground, His brethren of the forest strewed around.

which the city of Baltimore pays to the memory of our departed patriots, will be the most interesting exhibition of any on the continent—for the last living Signer of the Declaration of Independence—the only survivor of that illustrious band of Public Benefactors, will be seen in the procession.

Extreme Drought.—We do not suppose there was ever known in this section of country, a Summer season so dry as the present. The corn-fields, we are told, afford but a wretched prospect; it being past the power of the fine showers which have fallen within a day or two to benefit that which was planted early.

Pay. Obs.

A good thing well applied.—In the distribution of dame Fortune's favors, our town has not been overlooked, and in the and in the present instance, at least, the blind goddess cannot be accused of bestowing her smiles indiscreetly.

POOR COFFIN.

The Boston Bard, says a correspondent, has not received that sympathy from Bostonians which his talents and misfortunes demand.—During his residence in distant cities, the poetical effusions he published under his favorite signature, had no little influence in acquiring for this metropolis the proud title of Literary Emporium.

THE MINSTREL'S GRAVE. If e'er a pure, a sacred tear, From pity's beaming eye can flow, 'Tis surely when death's stroke severe Has laid the son of genius low; Each absent friend, each former foe, His bier with precious dew-drops lave, And mirth assumes the garb of woe, And weeps upon the minstrel's grave.

The trivial throng whose fickle praise, His strains sought vainly to engage, Now mourn too late his slighted lays, And wet with tears his hallowed grave: The timid maid, the studious sage, Deplore his fate whom none can save, And blooming youth and hoary age, Sign sadly o'er the minstrel's grave.

His fondest pride, his magic lyre, Hung on the laurel must remain, And none shall dare to strike its fire, And none shall rouse its strings again; Save when they breathe a mournful strain, As passing winds the branches wave, To tell the thoughtless and the vain, They wander near a minstrel's grave.

No Cypress sad or gloomy row, O'er his loved tomb shall darkly cling, But weeping beauty there shall strew, The fairest flowers of the spring; Soft gales around shall fragrance fling, Fresh flow'rets o'er his tomb shall wave, And nightingales shall sweetly sing, A requiem at the minstrel's grave.

Married, In Newbern, Mr. Thomas Howe, of Craven county, to Miss Sarah Bragg.

Died, In Wilmington, on the 17th inst. aged 58, Mr. Joseph Kellogg.

At Norfolk, a few days ago, Mr. Alden Emmons, of Woodstock, Vt. The deceased came passenger in the Packet from New-York. Two days after he came on board, he suddenly became deranged and continued so until his death, which took place at the house of Mr. Bucknam.
