> As every fact relative to the survivors of peculiar interest at the present moment, it may well be mentioned that Mr. John Jay is the only surviving member of the Congress of 1774 .- Kinderhook Herald.

Destructive Freshet .- On Saturday last, the weather having been uncomfortably hot or some days previous, it began to rain aboot 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and the rain descended in torrents till near 7 in the evening, accompanied with high wind Blount's creek, which skirts the Southern part of the town, soon rose, to unwanted height : the dam of M.Pherson's mill, the first on the creek, which is two miles from town, broke and gave way-the accumulated waters rushing down to Ellis's mill, swept it down, with a large part of the dam. Such was the force of the waters, that the mill-stones were washed down the stream fifty yards below the mill. Continuing its course, the flood next broke upon Mallet's mill-swept away the flood-gates-demolished, to a considerable extent, the dam on the south bank-overflowed Debrutz's tan-yard and carried off a part of the enclosure. In its further progress, it broke Russel's mill dam and injured those of M' Neill's oil-mill, Donaldson's Cotton factory and Clark's saw-mill. Mr. Ellis, and the Mr. Mallett's are the greatest sufferers. -N. C. Journal.

Roanoke Land for Sale. TOHE subscriber offers for sale his Farm on Roanoke river, situated between Williamston and Plymouth, at the place known by the name of Ceda Landing, about 9 miles from Windsor. This farm is supposed to consist of 1000 or 1,200 acres of land, from 5 to 600 of which is cleared land. This is considered one of the most valuable farms on this part of Reanoke river .... Any person disposed to purchase will find the subscriber disposed to terms of accommodation. W. H. JORDAN July 13.

Term, was not discovered until after the publication. It has been suggested, and we hasten to correct it. The position laid down in our report, should have been as follows :

State v. Atlen and another .- Indictment for affray .- Conviction as to one, acquittal as to the other. Judgment may be given against the defendant convicted as for an assault and battery. [ed. For an affray is but an aggravated mutual battery, and consequently includes the latter offence .---Hence, when by the verdict, the circumstances of publicity and terror, are disaffirmed, the verdict may find the parties guilty of a simple mutual fighting, unaccompanied with this aggravation .--- And if one of the defendants appear to have acted in self-defence, though the circumstances of mutuality is negatived, as were in the last case stated those of publicity and terror, yet the battery charged upon the guilty defendant remains, and he may be convicted of that.

It is not invariably true that one person cannot alone be guilty of an affray.
