Despondency .- About eight months ago, a man named Silas D. Reed, was arrested in Charleston, S. C. and brought to the Jail of this city, charged with having forged certain papers, in the names of individuals in this State, for the purpose of receiving from the War Department, the pensions allowed to them by Government, On Friday night last, Reed died in our Jail, having literally starved himself to death! tacked with influenza, or sore throat, and from that time he refused to take sustenance of any kind, though the usual regimen of the prison was departed from and navigation for keel and steam boats at food fit for the sick was offered. Medical advice was also had, but "who can mini ster to a mind diseased." No doubt he had become weary of life, but refrained from employing more active means to accomplish his design, for want of opportunity; or probably, by a train of false rea soning, he had persuaded himself it was less criminal to die by inches than to rush into eternity in a moment. Perhaps his Federal Court, before which he was to have taken his trial.

It is perhaps known to most of our readers, that in the year 1807, Mr. Giles, then a member of the United States' Senate from the State of Virginia, moved for a temporary suspension of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus-that under his auspices a bill to this effect was urged with great precipitancy through its several readings and finally passed that body. In the present electioneering contest, between Mr. Giles and Mr. Archer for a seat in the 20th Congress, the part which the former gentleman took in the passage of this bill, has been exhibited to his constituents, much to his detriment. To relieve himself of the odium attached to this measure, Mr. Giles, in one of his speeches, before the public, stated that William H. Crawford, Virginia's favorite, voted for this bill, and that he could show it from the Journals of the Senate. A writer in the last National Intelligencer, who signs himself. North-Carolina, and whose style we think we know, contradicts the assertion of Mr. Giles, and shows pretty clearly, that Mr. G. is either strangely forgetful, or that he has libelled Mr. Crawford. North-Caroling states that Mr. Crawford was not a member of the Senate until the succeeding session after Mr. Giles introduced his bill. The bill was passed in January, 1807; and Mr. Crawford took his seat in the Senate for the first time in December of that year. This he shows from the Journals of the Tennessee .- The Legislature of this State convened at Nashville, which is now the seat of Government on the 16th ult. in pursuance to a call from the Executive. We have received Gov. Carrol's Message; it is a document full of sound sense and practical views. He invites the attention of the Legislature, in the first place, to the state of their courts. He recommends a plan to lessen the number of courts for the trial of Jury causes, that a sufficient sum may thereby be saved to secure for the decision of causes, in the last resort, an honest, intelligent, prudent and vigorous Supreme Court-to do which, he thinks no exertion should be deemed too great. He states that the docket of their Supreme Court of Errors and Appeals is so crowded, that it creates a delay in the administration of justice amounting almost to a denial

He notices the restoration of a sound currency in that State, brought about by the John C. Wright,

Banks commencing simultaneously the pay ment of specie, and states that a much less amount of gold and silver has been called for than was anticipated, and but a small part of that paid, had left the State. The Governor expresses his confident belief that the pecuniary concerns of the citizens generally are in a desirable situation-that Cents for every succeeding publication. Those though the cultivater of the soil cannot get as high prices for the principal articles of exportation as formerly, yet that he has in with the edge of a small axe, or a large great abundance, all the necessary articles tomahawk, struck him on the head with of consumption, and that if the ideas and expectations of the people be not too highly raised-if they are satisfied with a reasonable portion of the good things of lifeif they live within their means-if they sell The Presbyterian Synod of this State more than they buy, and buy only what they need-if they discourage extravagant The Rev. In obedience to an act of the last session, the Governor informs the Legislature that he appointed two commissioners to confer with those of Alabama on the practicability of removing the obstructions occasioned Fifteen days before his death, he was at- by the Muscle shoals in the Tennessee Ri-

Mr. Swan has also been Clerk of the Supreme and County Courts within his County for twenty-nine years .- Com. Adv.

We can name another remarkable instance of the reward of integrity, alike honorable to the constituents and the agentthat of the venerable John Haywood, of North-Carolina. He has filled the responsible office of Treasurer of that State by successive annual elections, by the Legislature, for at least thirty years, if not much longer. Our country furnishes perhaps no example in which fidelity has been so sig nally rewarded with unwavering confidence: and not one, it may be added, in which fidelity has been more remarkably united with worth and goodness, -Editors Nat.
