The running stone is placed on the spindle, and facing upwards to the heal stone, which is permanently fixed. The aressure is applied to the centre of the runner, and the grain introduced into the mill through the eye of the bed or top stone.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1827.

We have inserted on the opposite page, a communication made to the County Court of Johnston, at its late term, by John Mac-Legd Esq. in which he contends, that our present mode of providing for the destitute part of the community, by the establishment of Poor-houses, is impolitic. We do not coincide in opinion with the writer, on this subject, though we are aware, that Virginia, New Jersey, South Carolina, and perhaps other states have passed laws embracing the principle, involved in his report. Indeed, a bill was introduced during the last session of our Legislature, " to compel children of sufficient ability to support their poor parents :" it passed the Senate, but was rejected in the House of Commons. The whole matter was then argued, and we came to the conclusion, that though evils doubtless exist under the present system, yet it is perhaps as free from objection, as any other which could be devised.

We heartily approve however, of that part of Mr. MacLeod's communication, which proposes to employ our paupers in the cultivation of silk, and we trust that the example set by Johnston county will be imitated, as it deserves to be, by other counties. It is well known, that all the necessary labor attending the culture of silk, may be performed by children or superannuated persons. A crop of silk is the work but of forty days, the first twenty of which occasion but little trouble. The Mulberry Tree is easily propagated and possesses the property of enriching the soil where it is planted. We are pleased to see that Mr. MacLeod is not a mere theorist on the subject, but has reduced to practice that which he recommends.

readers have doubtless seen the account of the curious relic of the Revolution, which was picked up in a shoe-maker's shop, on the island of Minorca, by one of the officers of the U. S. ship North-Carolina, during her late cruize. It is a picture, painted on glass and well executed, bearing date. London 1775, designed by the artist to ridicule the patriotic spirit which had begun to shew itself, in the then colonies, in resenting the usurpations of the mother country, and purports to be a representation of a society of ladies at Eden. ton in this state, convened for the purpose of entering into a compact to abstain from the use of tea and British manufactures. The officer who found it, presented it to Commodore Rogers, and it was stated at the time that he intended making a present of it to the Governor of our State. We understand now, that its destiny is changed, and that the Commodore has given it up to the citizens of Edenton, who natuturally enough put in their claim for it.

One day later .- The ship Robert Wilson, from Liverpool, at New-York, brings papers to the 16th August. They are filled with extracts from other journals, showing the national feeling on the loss of Mr. Can-

The money market was calm-nothing from Greece, and nothing of interest later from the Continent. A Congress was still talked of at Vienna, which, if not carried into execution, will eventuate in an informal interview between several of the Sovereigns.

New Ministerial Arrangements .- 'The Courier, in a leading article states, in a sort of demi-official tone, that Mr. Huskisson will be offered the leadership of the House of Commons, with the office of Colonial Secretary; Mr Charles Grant the office of the board of trade; Mr. Herries Chancellor of the Exchequer; the Duke of Portland President of the Council, in the room of the Earl of Harrowby, who retires in consequence of a recent affliction. Lord Goderich will fill the office of first Lord of the Treasury.

Advices from Portugal state that great disturbances have taken place in consequence of the dismissal of General Saldanha. Large bodies of troops were under arms in Lisbon, and the excited feelings Judicial attachment-Lev.ed on 100 acres of land of the people seemed only restrained by their presence. The Princess Regent was now said to be extremely unpopular. The squadron under the command of Sir. ThomasHardy nas received orders not to leave the Tagus until the result of the present commotions are known.

French papers of 11th Aug. contain a letter addressed by M. The inscription on one side to be-

'Civil & religious liberty throughout the World and on the reverse, his likeness, with the words-at New-York on the 15th instant, brings papers to the 19th ult. The King had held a Court at Windsor, and appointed th new Ministry above stated. His Majest afterwards held a Privy Council, when Par liament was further prorogued till the 25d of October.

Mr. Jefferson. - In an article which ap peared a short time since in the National Intelligencer, the following language was said by the Editors to have been used by Mr. Jefferson, not many weeks before his death :-

That his faith in the self-government of the People had never be-n so completely shaken as it had been by the efforts made, at the last election, to place over their heads one who, in every station he ever filled, either military or civil, made it a point to violate every order and instruction given him, and to take his own arbitrary will the guide of his conduct."

It has been attempted to disprove the utterance of the opinion here ascribed to Mr. Jefferson, by resorting to the memory of Governor Randolph. The Intelligencer has been called on for its proof, and replies as follows :-

We do not perceive in this call sufficient rea son for publishing the name of the imformant, upon whose authority we stated Mr. JEFFERSON'S opinions. It is enough for us to say, that no man, who had an opportunity of knowing what Mr. JEFFERSON's opinions were on the subject of the result of the late Presidential Election, will Heny what we have stated on that subject. It is not, as some one (we do not now recollect who) seems to suppose, upon the authority of Governor Coles, that we found our statement. We should not, indeed, for an instant, question any statement on that head by Mr. Cores, who had the best opportunity of hearing the opinions of Mr. JEFFERS N. But there are other persons besides the Governor, who have heard from Mr. JEFFERSON's own lips the same sentiments, in language marvellously resembling a part of that which we quoted, a few days ago, from the Richmond Enquirer. We have no doubt, in our own minds, that these opinions of Mr. JEFFERSON are also upon record, if the book could be unsealed. The Editors of the Richmond Enquirer have it in their power either to verify or disprove our statement of his oral testimony on this subject. They have heretofore favored us with statements of Mr. JEFFERSON'S opinions on other to the cause of truth, and to public justice, to do so. In the homely language of the old proverb, we invoke them to "tell the truth and shame the Devil."

Mr. O'CONNELL (the Irish Orator) speak ing of the late change in the British Ministry, thus expresses himself: "I seriously ask, what was our condition before the late change in the Ministry, and what is it now? It is now a condition of some security: and, in my humble judgment great hope. I do not use the language of exaggeration, when I say, that before it was one of terror and despe ration. I speak advisedly, and with deliberation, when I say, that at the time of the destruction of the Tory power, we were on the verge of a civil not commenced-blood was not spilled-but every symptom and token of the times prepared us for the catastrophe, [hear, hear !] It is my deliberate opinion, that the summer would not have passed over without a convulsion that would have shaken society in this country to its very base, and spread around ruin, and desolation, and misery-for which there could be no adequate compensation made by the wise, and virtuous, and upright Government of centuries. It is my deliberate opion, that if there was a chance of our escaping this terrific visitation, it would arise alone from the restraints of such a drag as we would be able to attach to the wheel of civil war and anarchy. We have escaped the perils of a crisis of which I find no parallel in history but the everthrow of Toryism, and the triumph of those principles by which the councils of the King are now directed. Am I to be told that this is nothing? The Peels & the Eldons doom ed us to eternal slavery ! They grudged us even the consolation of "hope deferred." They told us that our degradation and sufferings were ne ver to end. They bid us, in short, DESPAIR ! From the horror of times in which such men wielded the destinies of this mighty empire, we have passed at least to a season giving some confidence and inspiring some hope."

Florida Sugar-A gentleman recently from Florida, has left with as a sample of sugar made onthe plantation of Col. Henry Yonge, of Gadsden county, East Florida. That part of Plorida in which this sugar was made, was a wilderness when the territory passed from the Spanish the U. S Government; indeed, Col. Youge, who has only resided there 3 years, was among the first settlers. It is now rapidly settling by intelligent and enterprising men, who are turning their attention to the cultivation of sugar, and a sample of the result of the first experiment is that now before us, which is a specimen of crop of thirty barrels made last year by Col Yonge. The sugar appears to us to be superior to that of Louisiana, in strength, though its color is not so fine as some of the latter, owing to its subjects. We call upon them was either to ad- having been packed up before the molasses was A Revolutionary Relic. - Most of our mit or deny his opinion upon this. They owe it sufficiently drained off. - Its flavour is peculiarly delicate, resembling that of candy; and indeed, its granulation seems to have been more a process of crystalization than that of any sugar we have seen, the particles being uncommonly large, transparent, and perfectly formed crystals. From the Gentleman who favored as with the sample, we learn, that the experiment thus far has demonstrated, that an acre of land which would yield 20 bushels of corn, will turn out a hogshead, or a thousand pounds of sugar, the molaspaying the expense of cultivation, & the sugar sespeing worth to the planter, upon an average, seven cents a pound. Nearly all the land in that part of Fiorida and probably the greater part of the whole territory, is capable of producing the same result. What an important item will not this be to ad I to our national resources, -what a pillar to our independence -how loudly doth it to speak in favour of the policy of and of him who added it to the American System?

In Wilkes county, Georgia, on Sunday afternoon last, the 20th uit. Mrs. Hannah Clark, relict of Major General Elijah Clark, aged 90 years. Mrs. Clark had attended her husband through many interesting periods of the American Rev lution, and had often experienced some of the distressing vicissitudes of war. She once had her house burnt, with all 'ts contents during the absence of her husband, by a pillaging party of British and Tories, who ravaged the part of the country in which she then resided, and was thus turned out to seek shelter as she could, with family of several children then in her charge, She was afterwards robbed of the horse on winch she was riding to meet her wounded husband near the North Carolina line. During part of the compaigns in which General Clark was engaged. she accompanied him, and on one occasion, in attempting to remove from a place of danger near where an engagement was soon expected. she had her hosre shot under her, while two children were on his back with her. She was at the siege of Augusta, and present when the garrison under Brown capitulated, and many of the prisoners, then and at other times taken by her husband, experienced her benevolence and huspitality. She lived to see and rejoice in the prosperity and happiness of that country which she had frequently seen desolated by cruelty and bloodshed; and in the enjoyment of the esteem and affection of a large circle of friends, she attained a good old age, and at last, after a short struggle, was liberated from all earthly cares, and entered we trust " into that rest which remains for the people of God." Her remains were interred in the family burying ground at Wooburn, near the resting place of her deceased husband, who had twenty-eight years before closed a life of patriotic exertion in the cause of his
