THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1830.

NO. 1,395.

The Hornet.—What little glimmering of hope existed in relation to the safety of this vessel, has been extinguished by a letter from Commodore Jesse D. Elliott to the Secretary of the Navy, dated Vera Cruz. Among the persons lost was Midshipman Forsyth, a native of this State, who had been educated by our Legislature, in consideration of the services of his father, the late Colonel Forsyth, who distinguished himself by his gallantry during the last war with Great Britain. The sudden and premature death of so many brave men, who perished not in the storm of war, where triumph gathers round the beds of the dying—not in the heat of battle, with the pealing thunder of the cannon for a requiem and the floating banner for a pall—but buried in a watery grave, cannot fail to awaken even in the breasts of strangers, the liveliest emotions of sorrow.

Supreme Court.—John R. Williamson, of Lincoln county, was admitted on Friday last, to Superior Court practice.

It is stated in the Fayetteville Observer, that Mr. Hooper has accepted the Professorship of Ancient Languages in the University of Alabama.

A bill has passed the Virginia House of Delegates, for the incorporation of a new College in that State, to be styled the Randolph Macon College. The Enquirer says, that it has already received in this State and Virginia, private subscriptions to the amount of about $60,000. It is to be located in Boydton, Mecklenburg county, Va. It has received the warmest support from the Methodist Church, as it was originally proposed by the Methodist Conference—but its friends disclaim all sort of scholastic connection with that Society.

Sunday Mail.—There have been presented to Congress, at its present Session nearly one hundred petitions from various parts of the Union, to stop the transportation of the Mail on the Sabbath. We perceive that four of the number are from this State. After the decided expression of opinion at the last Session, we did not expect to see the experiment repeated—at least so soon. These continued petitions to Congress, for the passage of laws which directly interfere with the business part of the community, can only have the effect to irritate the public mind.

Our Coin.—A select committee was appointed at an early period of the present Session of Congress, to consider the state of the current Coins, and to report such amendments of the existing laws concerning Coins, as may be deemed expedient; and on the 11th instant, Mr. Sanford, the Chairman of that Committee, made a full and lucid Report to the Senate on the subject, accompanied by a bill for carrying the views of the committee into effect, which contains certain provisions as to what shall be a legal tender. It proposes to make Copper Coins a legal tender to the amount of ten cents and no more. Silver coins of the U. States less than a dollar, not to be a legal tender for any sum above ten dollars. No gold diminished in its weight more than 1-25th to be a legal tender. No foreign coin to be a legal tender after 1831.

The letter writer of the Boston Courier thus describes Mr. Chilton, of Kentucky, in his late effort on the mileage bill, to convince the House of Representatives that six dollars a day was per diem enough.—We need not add, that he failed in his undertaking:

"It is necessary to say its real father abandoned it to its fate, without more ado. Not so the patriarch and apostle, the persecuted genius of retrenchment, Mr. Chilton. Armed with his once rejected amendment, he boldly took the floor, and, proposing to reduce the pay of the members to six dollars, he launched forth into the most extravagantly oratorical, and piteous, metaphorical language, that ever split the ears of the groundings." The sweat poured from his sunken face, on which the deep lines of thought are so indelibly engraved, inasmuch that his more immediate neighbors left their seats and retired to higher localities. The tremendous power of his eloquence, the whirlwind of his passion, the dolorous expression of his face, and the dulcet, silver [not sylvan] tones of his sweet voice, alternately shook the House to its centre, and made the members writhe in their seats, with the excitement of their feelings. Such a wonderful exhibition of Nature's untutored oratory was never before made public, even by Mr. Chilton. He not only out-Heroded Herod, but out-Chiltoned Chilton; and when he had finished so prodigious a task, he was not content to stop, but he reiterated, in concluding, his previous assertion, that the House would in mercy to themselves permit this to pass, and if, by his efforts in its favor, his political grave was dug and he sunk into it, he sunk with pleasure, for he knew that future times would do justice to his motives!" So saying, he drank a tumbler of water and sat down.

Accidents.—A white woman in Alexandria, fell into the fire on Friday last, whilst the family were absent, and burned to death!

On the 17th instant, in the neighborhood of Malaga, Gloster county, N. Jersey, a man of the name of Comer, got drunk, drove his wife and several children forth in the night, set fire to his dwelling, and was crushed and burnt to death under the roof, which fell upon him in flames!

Georgia Rum.—Gen. Taylor, of Burke County, who is so well known for his untingering, and successful enterprise in agricultural pursuits, has succeeded in distilling from cane of his own growth, Rum, pronounced by competent judges to be "equal in every respect to the best Jamaica." The experiment only extended to the product of 15 or 20 gallons.

Agriculture.—A plantation in the neighborhood of Magnolia, Florida, on which 35 persons were employed, produced last year 50,000 lbs. of Sugar, 40 bales Cotton, and 7500 bushels of corn, besides quantities of Rice, Peas, and Rye.

Hillsborough, Jan. 27.
Fire.—On Friday night last, about half past 11 o'clock, the Blacksmith shop of Messrs. Allison & Ward, in this place, was discovered to be on fire, and in a short time was entirely consumed, with all their tools capable of being destroyed. A strong wind was blowing at the time, but the building was fortunately at some distance from any other, and no farther damage was done.—Recorder.

Of all the associations of individuals, which are now so numerous and frequent in our country, for the accomplishment of objects of a public nature, we have seen none more commendable than the projected establishment of a State Society in Kentucky, for the purpose of promoting the improvement and diffusion of popular education, by such means as may be within its power. The first meeting was held in the Capitol at Frankfort, on the 22d ult. when, under propitious circumstances, a Committee was appointed to draft and report a Constitution for the government of the Society. We can easily conceive, that from this beginning, the most beneficial results may be anticipated.—We hope that the example will be followed in every State which does not enjoy already the benefit of a common school system.—Nat. Int.

Case of Stephenson.—The forcible abduction of Rowland Stephenson from the Territory of Georgia, has occasioned the passage of a law by the State Legislature, to the following effect:

Any person who shall feloniously abduct or kidnap any white person from out the limits of the State shall be punishable by imprisonment in the Penitentiary for not less than five nor more than seven years.

American Carpeting is now offered for sale at Providence, which is said to be superior to the very best Kidderminster, and can be afforded at a considerably less price. The editor of the Providence Advertiser says:—"A few years back it was thought idle to talk about trading on American carpets, but the stimulus given to this branch by the Tariff of 1828, now renders it pretty certain that in a few years more we shall as soon think of sending for British flagging stones to walk on, as for British carpeting."

American Hemp.—We saw yesterday morning three loads of Hemp, which was pronounced by gentlemen who are competent judges of the article to be of excellent quality, entering town from Northampton. It was raised in that town, and dressed on one of the recently invented machines erected there. We learn that a quantity not less than 130 tons has been dressed in Northampton and Westfield, the produce of those towns and the towns adjoining the present season. Much larger quantities, probably four times the above amount of Hemp, have been raised in Vermont the present season. The produce of another year will undoubtedly be much greater.—Boston Dai. Adv.

We were highly gratified to find the experiments made on the Rail Road on Saturday, gave such universal satisfaction, and that they were witnessed by several distinguished members of Congress who in common with the other spectators, were delighted with the triumphant results of the several experiments. One horse drew four cars with 160 passengers with ease at the rate of seven miles an hour. One of the cars was provided with a sail, and moved along in majestic grandeur, with the utmost velocity—its speed was computed at the rate of twenty miles an hour.

Amongst the members of Congress who rode in the cars, we observed Mr. M'Duffie, who, we are pleased to learn, expressed the utmost satisfaction at the facilities and convenience of our enterprise. We hope that every member of Congress before he leaves Washington for his home, will visit our Rail Road and witness the movement of the various vehicles on the rails, so that he may be able to carry home to his constituents much practical information.

As it is conceded on all hands that Rail Roads must supercede all other means of internal communication, it would seem to be the business of the representatives of the nation to possess themselves of every species of intelligence which relates to their construction, and to that of the carriage used upon them.—Balt. Chron.

Domestic Slave Trade.—The Mercantile Advertiser of New Orleans, of the 21st ult. has this paragraph:

Arrivals by the sea and river, within a few days, have added fearfully to the number of slaves brought to this market for sale. New Orleans is the complete mart for a domestic slave trade, and the Mississippi is becoming a common highway for this traffic. By whom are these slaves to be purchased? With the present crops of our planters, they will have but little money to advance in that way—nor is it probable that they will consent to involve themselves in new speculations until they can see themselves clear.

Extract of a letter from Camden, dated 23d inst.

"On Thursday, we consigned to his silent tomb, full of years and of honors, Capt. BENJ. CARTER, in the 75th year of his age—the last of the old soldier of Camden. He was truly a patriot, and soldier of the revolutionary war. He fought in the battles of Brandywine and Germantown, where he was wounded—the wintered with the American army at Valley Forge—was at Gates' defeat near Camden—and was among the patriots that harassed Lord Cornwallis, and compelled him after many skirmishes, to retreat through North-Carolina. He fought at the battles of Hobkirk-hill and the Eutaw Springs—was at the taking of Fort Mott, and joined the knot of officers who united under an oak tree near M'CORD'S Ferry, and wore they would be revenged on the British for hanging Col. Hayne. He was brave and active throughout the whole of the revolution, for he served occasionally under Gen. Sumpter and Gen. Marion, and wound up his useful life by many benevolent acts."—Charleston Courier.

An article in the Foreign News by the Napoleon, under date, Constantinople, Nov. 16, is cheering to the friends of Grecian independence, as exhibiting by an act that cannot be mistaken, the consent of the Sublime Porte to the independence of that interesting country. Several Greek merchantmen, bound to Constantinople, being stopped at the Dardanelles, received permission from the Sultan to proceed on their voyage—though, as yet, he would not consent to their exhibiting their National (rebel) flag in the port of his capital—"A nation to be free has only to will it." All hail to regenerated Greece, as one again among the nations of the Earth.

How long will it be ere the bigoted tyrant Ferdinand, will permit the ships of his cowering colonies, now independent nations, to enter the port of Cadiz in amity? What a contrast between the magnanimity of the Sultan, in yielding with a good grace to necessity, and the stubborn conduct of the degenerated descendant of the Kings of Castile and Leon. —Rich. Whig.

We are desirous of correcting an error in our Register of the 25th instant. In mentioning the discussion on Mr. Hunt's Resolution before the House of Representatives of the U. States, for distributing the proceeds of the sales of public lands amongst the several States, we stated that, "all the Members from this State voted in favor of the Resolution except Messrs. Alston, Hall, A. H. Shepherd, Speight & Williams." We have since learnt, that Mr. Shepherd voted for the Resolution, and that Mr. Carson voted against it, whose name ought to have been inserted in the place of Mr. Shepherd's. We wish our readers to notice this correction.

WEEPING.
How vain it is for us to weep,
When dearest friends expire;
When in Death's iron arms those sleep,
Whom we did most admire!

Yes, sure 'tis vain, when Parents die,
And leave their child to roam,
For him to weep, or mourn, or sigh
To bring them from their home.

I knew 'twas vain for me to mourn,
When my dear Mother died;
Yet when I found me thus alone,
I wept, I mourn'd, I sigh'd!

But, ah! I wish her not to come
Back from her peaceful rest,
Where happy Angels have their home,
Where, with them, she is blest.

No!—sooner let me wish to go
And see her, in the skies,
As oft she wish'd, while here below,
To go where sorrow dies.

Then let me wait, till Death shall come
And summons me away,
To see my Mother's peaceful home,
A home of endless day!
