All accounts concur in stating that a bloody civil war is now raging in Mexico. The Army there, pull down and put up whom they please—the people remaining perfectly passive.

Cotton Seed Oil.—Another exhibition of the utility of this new discovery, is given by the editor of a western paper, who says—"We had our lamp filled a few evenings since with oil pressed from the cotton seed, and we have no hesitation in saying, that the oil burns as well as any other kind we ever saw."

Murder!—Mr. Dunn who was a few months ago appointed Superintendent of the Armory of the U. States, at Harper's Ferry, in Virginia, was murdered a few days since by a drunken workman, whom he had discharged from employment.

A melancholy event took place at Darien, in Georgia, last week. In consequence of a previous misunderstanding, a rencounter occurred in the streets of that town, between Major John Floyd and Allen B. Powell, Esq. in which the former was shot through the body by the latter, and died in a short time after.

We do not know when we have ever heard of a more distressing occurrence than is related in letters just received from Nashville, in Tennessee. Mr. Thomas A. Duncan (brother of Gen. Jos. Duncan, Representative in Congress from the State of Illinois) left Nashville for New-Orleans early in December, with the intention to settle in the former place. Having made his arrangements there, he was returning to Nashville, but, being in ill health and somewhat delirious from fever, he was landed at Berryville, and was received with kindness at Mr. Robert Bell's, of that place, a connexion of his wife. On the 27th Dec. being left in charge of two men, they were overtaken by sleep, and just before day light, Mr. D. rose, got out of the house, and it is supposed waded into the river until the cold drove him from it; when, endeavoring to find Mr. Bell's house, (the houses being much alike) he mistook for it another, occupied as a store by a Frenchman. This person came to the door when Mr. D. knocked at it—closed the door on seeing him—went back and got a sword, and on returning, stabbed him to the heart! Mr. D. was about 27 years old, much beloved by his friends, and has left a wife and two children to lament his death.—Nat. Int.

The Register of Debates.—We understand that, from what occurred in debate on the floor of the Senate, yesterday, an impression exists on the mind of at least one member of that body, that the "Register of Debates" is defunct. As it is a favorite of ours, which we cherish with a sort of parental fondness, we embrace the earliest opportunity to relieve the minds of its friends from anxiety in relation to it. We take pleasure in stating, for the information of those who have shown such an interest in this work, (which we believe to be of great and increasing value to the country) that it is alive, and likely to do well. Three volumes have been published; a fourth is well under way; and, if Congress sit long enough, the fifth also will be issued from the press before they adjourn. The sixth (comprising the debates of the present session) will be ready for the press so soon as the present session ends, and will be delivered at the next session of Congress. In the three volumes already published, the proprietors have sustained, notwithstanding the very liberal subscription by the House of Representatives, a loss of several thousand dollars. They have not been deterred by it from a prosecution of the work. They look with confidence to the future sale of the work to indemnify them.

Sabbath Schools and Pauperism.—At a late meeting to promote the cause of the American Sunday School Union, Rev. Mr. Bedell said—

From his own personal observation, he thought he might venture to assure the audience, that Sabbath Schools are the best means of preventing pauperism, and improving the condition of the poor; for he had lately visited from 900 to 1000 scholars in these institutions, and among them all he did not find more than a dozen who were not as clean in their persons, and as decently clad, as he would wish to find his own children. Yet many of these children, when sought for the schools, not long ago, were found in the abodes of squalid wretchedness; and their parents thought that they could not send them because they had no decent apparel. Many of them did come in rags; but their parents have been excited by these schools, and by a desire to have their offspring appear as well as others, to a greater degree of prudence and industry.

Another Example.—A gentleman has informed us that he has had a Bridge built under his direction, 140 feet in length and more than 20 feet high over Hyco river in Person co. N. C.—and all was done without the use of Ardent Spirits. Not a drop was wanted to rear or finish the structure.

THE TRUE RICHES. For glittering dust, in barren sands Or deep beneath the soil, What warm hearts and venturous hands Sustain unceasing toil!

Patient they delve, and anxious strive, Till some few grains appear; And deem, whilst profit they derive No science severe.

O! were such industry and zeal On nobler tasks employed, What ample stores might time reveal The world has ne'er enjoyed!

In UNDERSTANDING'S teeming mine, In FANCY'S hidden hoard, The richest ores of GRACE shine, Unprized and unexplored.

The HEART'S abyss unathomed lies, Source whence true wealth is brought, Bright gems of feeling, without price, And pearls of precious thought.

To search the labyrinths of WISDOM, To draw new treasures forth, This is the genuine gold to find, The vein of peerless worth.

This is the WISDOM, whence virtuous care Enduring riches brings, And jewels, that outshine, by far, The diadems of Kings.
