Wilmington. It was distressingly severe, as will be seen by the following extract from the Cape Fear Recorder, which by the way we are pleased to see Mr. Hooper continues to issue on a reduced scale until his new type arrives from the North:—

"In the afternoon of the 15th inst. the gathering clouds, portended an approaching storm. After night the wind rose and was accompanied by rain. About 8 o'clock the storm set in with hard blowing from the East; and increased gradually until 9 o'clock, when the wind began to rage with as much fury, as we can remember in any former storm and continued so for four hours. Between 11 & 12 o'clock, the wind veered to the West.—

The water in the river rose, it is said higher than it has been known for twenty years. The planting interest must suffer severely; and so we fear, must the salt maker, but we have not had any accounts from the latter.

In town, fences, trees and old buildings were prostrated as might be expected.—Two gentlemen have, we are sorry to say, sustained considerable loss. A brick warehouse belonging to Rich'd. Bradley, Esq. in which was stored salt and grain, was blown down. The one story house formerly designated as the Candle Factory, 24 by 50 feet; a two story warehouse 40 by 60, a high stone wall and two extensive sheds, all the property of Aaron Lazarus, Esq. situated in Surry and Queen Streets, near the southern extremity of the town, were also blown down.

Accounts from Smithville represent the storm there as terrible in its progress. Many of the female part of the community, sought refuge in the Garrison. We cannot stay to enumerate all the particulars detailed to us. We can only mention a few. The schooner Felicity, Capt. Wheeler, loaded with naval stores, sunk. The brig Shibboleth, Capt. Andrews; & two brigs from the West Indies, loaded with salt, and some other vessels were driven ashore.

We regret to superadd to these particulars that the dredging boats, were driven on shore; and the jetties recently constructed by the United States, carried away. We have not heard from the Sound; but we are apprehensive of the worst tidings from that quarter."

The Storm seems to have increased in fury as it progressed South. At Charleston, it was still more violent not a vessel in the Harbor escaping without more or less injury. Most of the wharves were injured by the washing of the sea; two or three of them undergoing repairs are supposed to be most damaged. A large quantity of slate and tile, was blown from the roofs of houses and stores in town; & many trees in the streets were blown down. It is believed that the damage sustained in the country, by the crops of Cotton and Rice is very great.

Several persons were more or less injured by the falling slate, or by being thrown down by the violence of the wind, but no very serious hurt was received.

The Georgia Courier says, "whoever may be President of the United States, at the next election, one wish we will not disguise, and that is, to see WILLIAM DRAYTON of South-Carolina, the next Vice-President. The man, who like him, has independence enough to resist the delusion of the times, is alone fit for office."

Since the above was in type, we perceive that a "Virginia Farmer," through the National Intelligencer, nominates Mr. DRAYTON for the same office, to be run on the ticket with Mr. CLAY. As friends of the latter gentleman, we know no individual whom we should prefer on the same ticket with him, to Mr. Drayton.

The Forged Letter.—Since the article on this subject appeared in the National Intelligencer, the same which is copied into our columns to-day and which sufficiently explains itself, the Literary Subaltern in which paper the letter originally appeared, holds the following language:—"In the presence of our God and country—in the presence of the American People—we PLEDGE OURSELVES to adduce at a proper time—at such a time as we shall think most expedient—such of this letter, as shall satisfy the most incredulous, the most obstinate, and the most abandoned of the Jackson party, that the document was written by THOMAS JEFFERSON, the sage of Monticello."

Notwithstanding this strong asseveration of the Providence Editor, such has been the equivocation with which he has acted, that we must yet feel some uncertainty on the subject.

Ireland.—The recent European accounts represent Ireland, as in the most deplorable condition, arising from the dearth of provisions and the want of employment. It is an aggravation, of their distress, that the higher classes of Society bear a less proportion to the general population, than in any other part of Great-Britain. Thus, accessible sources of relief are fewer, and the means of alleviating the distresses of the destitute poor, are not in the power of their employers generally, for their support is, in a great measure, derived from those who thus suffer. The Tipperary Free Press states, that two attacks induced without doubt by hunger, had been made by women and children on the flour carts of an individual, when not under the protection

The Lady's Book.—The second number of this beautiful periodical, the Prospectus of which appears in to-day's paper, has come to hand. The selections and original matter contained in this number are judicious and entertaining, and cannot fail to elicit the approbation of the public. We perceive too, what is of itself sufficient to secure an extensive patronage, that Mrs. Hemans contributes original matter for the Poetical department. Every thing that proceeds from her pen is attractive, whether light and imaginative or clad in the garb of sober sadness.

We are glad to learn that boxes have been placed in the Steamboats Richmond and Potomac, to receive donations for the benefit of FULTON'S heirs.

The trial of J. Knapp, one of the persons accused of the murder of Mr. White, took place during the last two weeks at Salem, and has excited great interest.—Mr. Webster assisted the State's Attorney in the prosecution. It is said that the arguments of Counsel on both sides were exceedingly elaborate and powerful, no point that could possibly have a bearing on the case, being left untouched.—The Jury retired at 1 P. M. on Wednesday and returned into Court at 11 A. M. on Friday, stating that they could not agree on a verdict. The Jury were then discharged, and a motion immediately made on the part of the government, that a new Jury be empanelled and the case tried again forthwith. This was objected to by the Counsel for the Prisoner, who moved a postponement until the fall, which was overruled and the trial ordered to be proceeded with, on the instant. The excitement in Salem on this subject, is represented as very great—increasing, as the uncertainty of guilt is developed.

It is known that in the celebrated speech delivered by Mr. McDUFFIE, during the late session of Congress, on the subject of the Tariff, he advanced with great earnestness, the strange position, that it is the grower of produce exported, who pays the duty on goods imported.—A correspondent of the Charleston Courier, illustrates the fallacy of this argument thus: "A man in our district raised ten bales of Cotton, which he sold to a storekeeper here for $30 a bale, making $300. They tell me that these thirty bales when they have been manufactured by British Mechanics, will make goods worth three times as much as my neighbor got for his Cotton; that is $900, if the cloth is the commonest. The duties, Mr. McDUFFIE says, are equal to 45 per cent, on such goods, so that the duties on the goods, made out of my neighbor's ten bales of Cotton are $375; and these are paid by the Planter. Now I know for a fact, that my neighbor paid his store account, $75; his taxes 25; and bought a wench & two children for $500; and paid 150 cash, & always kept some small change about him and calculates to pay as much next year on his negroes. Now where did he get the money to pay out 300, the price of his Cotton, his $375 duties, and have enough left for his other purposes? This puzzles me mightily. We farmers don't understand it. We get along, pay our debts and buy a little every year, and don't know that we are ruined yet. The lawyers who go to Congress say we are—I'll give a fat calf to any body who will just let me know who it is that robs me of money I never had, and ruins me without letting me know a word about it."

FAREWELL. When eyes are beaming, What never tongue might tell; When tears are streaming, From their crystal cell; When hands are link'd that dread to part, And heart is met by throbbing heart, Oh! bitter, bitter, is the smart, Of them that bid farewell.

MARRIED. In Scotland Neck, on the 10th inst. Mr. Thomas Grimmer to Miss Nancy Whitehead. DIED. In Louisburg, on the 15th instant, Mr. Jordan Hill, aged about 65 years. On the 11th instant, at the residence of Dr. S. J. Baker, in Martin county, his sister, Miss Agatha Baker.

WILCOX ACADEMY. A Gentleman and Lady, well qualified to instruct in the various branches of Male and Female Education, would find a suitable situation in this Seminary. It is located in the county of Wilcox, in the State of Alabama, a mile and a half from Canton, the Seat of Justice of said county, in a healthy and desirable neighborhood. The building is a large, two story house, fifty by twenty-five feet; the lower story is divided into School rooms, and the upper is appropriated as a residence for the Teachers. It is sufficiently spacious for the accommodation of several Boarders, with necessary out-houses attached. This Institution has been in operation nearly two years, the average number of Students since its commencement have been from fifty to seventy, and the rates of tuition from sixteen to thirty dollars per annum. The extreme healthiness of the situation, the fact of there being no Institution for instruction in the higher Branches of Literature in a considerable distance of this place, would, as we believe, be the means of affording ample compensation to those qualified to discharge the duties of the Institution. It is desirable that the exercises of the Institution should recommence early in January next. Applications must be accompanied with testimonials of character and qualifications—and addressed to the undersigned at Canton, Alabama. D. C. SMITH, Secretary. August 7, 1830.

of the police. The editor says, that 'deep distress' prevails in the town and neighborhood, and that the forlorn state of the poor had produced the call of a general meeting of the inhabitants, in order to devise means for their employment and relief. The Tralee Mercury speaks even in louder terms of the prevailing misery, and asserts that a famine is inevitable, unless some extraordinary effort be made to relieve it. A large subscription, which had been entered into three weeks previous, is declared to be exhausted, and the markets 'had risen to a famine price,' in despite of all efforts of the committee. 'This very day (continues the Mercury) are the potatoes sold in our market at 32s. per sack. It is frightful to contemplate the consequences. The laboring man earns but 8d per day—so that, suppose each man regularly employed his daily hire is insufficient to provide one meal of dry potatoes for his family!

Census.—The present population of Albany, is 24,216. It contained in 1820, 12,630 inhabitants. In New-Haven (Conn.) the population is 10,653. In 1820, it was 8,627.

Bishop Ravenscroft's Works.—It will be recollected that at the last Episcopal Convention of this State, a Committee was appointed to publish the Memoir, Sermons, &c. devised by Bishop Ravenscroft to the Missionary and Bible Society of the Church in this State. We have pleasure in stating, that the Committee has contracted for the publication of 3 large volumes, the first of which will be ready for delivery to subscribers on the 1st of October. A subscription paper has been forwarded to the Editor of the Observer, who will be glad to receive the names of such as may desire to possess the Work. Fay. Obs.

To our Patrons.—Having been accommodated, for a short time, with the loan of the materials of the Liberalist printing establishment, we avail ourselves of the opportunity, thus kindly afforded to us, of issuing a number of the Recorder, on a small plan, for the convenience of our advertising customers and the gratification of our patrons in general. In the course of eight or ten days, we shall probably hear from the North; and have it in our power to give our patrons information, with regard to the time of commencing our paper with new materials, and of a size equal to its former dimensions.
