No bid having been made to the amount of the valuation adjudged by those directed by the act, it was purchased for the State, at the price of twelve hundred dollars. The revenue officers, and particularly the Sheriffs, have been unusually prompt in accounting for, and paying into the sale, by the subscribers, viz: Treasury the amount of the Taxes for the The Revisal of the Laws of North-Carolina, by last fiscal year, within the time prescribed by law. For this extraordinary punctuality and faithfulness, they deserve well of the State, and it proves that the existing laws for the collection of the revenue are ample, and only require a strict execution to insure, annually, the full receipt of the revenue in the Treasury. If it should be found on examination that the funds of the State, now available, will not be sufficient to meet the contingent charges of government and the redemption of the Treasury notes, the regu-$31,371 521 lation of the State Bank, to loan sixty per centum on the share, on a pledge of stock, affords an expedient to supply such deficiency, without an increase of taxes or diminution of such appropriations, as the true interest of the State may demand.

It will appear by the monthly settlements in the last year, the demands on the Treasury exceed at several times the funds on hand unappropriated. To meet this contingency, the cash belonging to the Literary Fund was used. As no possi-31,371 521 ble injury could arise in the exercise of this discretion, it is believed and hoped that it will meet with your approbation.

The nett amount of the revenue, and the cash received thereon and from other sources, during the last fiscal year, will appear from exhibit I.

The several allowances for insolvencies allowed by the Comptroller in the settlements with the different Sheriffs will appear from exhibit K.

The file L. contains the expenses or statements of the affairs of the Banks of the State, as filed in this office during the last year. All which is respectfully submitted.
