

POETRY.

"LIKE ORIENT PEARLS AT RANDOM STRUNG."

AMBITION.

I've loved to hear the war-horn cry,
And panted at the drum's deep roll;
And heard my breath when flowing high,
I've seen our stately banners fly,
As challenging the laughing sky,
They went like battle o'er my soul.

New Advertisement.

THE Subscriber, having lost his entire Stock of Goods in the late fire, together with his Books, Notes, Accounts and Money, as heretofore noticed in the Raleigh newspapers—has again opened a NEW STORE on the south side of Hargett-street, near the Market-House and Exchange place, one floor west from John Holloway's Shoe-Store, in a new Brick Building, where he would be pleased to see his friends and customers. And hopes, from his experience in Business, to sell them Articles of the best quality on reasonable terms. His Assortment consists mostly of Dry Goods, Cutlery, Groceries, &c. &c.

From his present situation, it would seem unnecessary to remind all those who have not yet adjusted their Accounts or Notes, of the propriety of doing so—as it is desirable with him to make immediate settlement, either by Notes or Cash, the latter would be preferable, as his Affairs have been very heavy indeed.
