FUNERAL OF SIR WALTER SCOTT. BT C. SWAIN.

There was a wailing on the early breeze, and darkness in the sky, When, with sable plume, and cloak, and pall, a funeral train swept by Methought-St. Mary shield us well !- that other forms moved there,

Than those of mortal brotherhood, the noble young and fair !

Was it a dream?-methought the "dauntless Harold" passed me by-

The proud 'Fitz James,' with martial step and dark, intrepid eye : That 'Marmion's' haughty crest was there, a mourner for his sake;

And she, the bold, the beautiful, sweet, 'Lady of the Lake.'

The 'Minstrel,' whose last lay was o'er, whose broken harp lay low,

And with him glorious 'Waverly,' with glance and step of wo: And 'Stuart's' voice rose there, as when 'midst fate's disastrous war, He led the wild, ambitious, proud, and brave

' Vich Jan Vohr.' Next, marvelling at his sable suit, the 'Dominic' stalk'd past, were flowing fast;

' Guy Mannering,' to, moved there, o'erpowered

by that afflicting sight; gowen's height.

Solemn and grave, 'Monkbarns approached, amidst that burial line;

And 'Ochileree' leant o'er his staff, and mourned for 'Auld lang Syne!'

Slow march'd the gallant 'M'Intyre' whilst 'Lovell' mused alone, For once 'Miss Wardour's' image left that bosom's faithful throne? With coronach, and arms reversed, forth came

' MacGregor's' clan-Red 'Dougald's' cry pealed shrill and wild-'Rob

Rov's' bold brow looked wan; The fair 'Diana' kissed her cross, and bless'd its

And 'Wae is me' the 'bailie' sighed, that I should see this day !'

Next rode, in melancholy guise, with sombre. vest and scarf,

Sir Edward, Laird of Ellieslaw, the far renowned ' Black Dwarf ;' Upon his left, in bonnet blue, and white locks flowing free-The pious sculptor of the grave-stood Old

'Balfour of Burly,' Claverhouse,' the 'Lord of Evandale,

And stately 'Lady Margaret,' whose woe might naught avail;

Fierce 'Bothwell' on his charger black, as from the conflict won;

· God's will be done!

And like a rose, a young white rose, that blooms 'mid wilder scenes.

Passed she-the modest, eloquent, and virtuous 'Jeanie Deans And ' Dumbedikes' that silent laird, with love too drep to smile, And 'Effie' with her noble friend, the good 'Duke of Argyle.'

With lofty brow, and bearing high, dark 'Ravenswood advanced.

Whilst graceful as a lonely fawn, 'neath covert

close and sure,

Approach'd the beauty of all hearts-the 'Bride of Lammermoor!'

Then 'Annot Lyle,' the fairy queen of light and

The 'Knight of Ardenvohr,' and he, the gifted Hieland Seer :

song stepped near,

'Dalgetty,' 'Duncan,' 'Lord Menteith' and

'Ronald,' met my view-The hapless 'Children of the Mist,' and bold

"M'hich-Connel Dhu!"

On swept 'Bois Gilbert' ' Front de Bouf' 'De

Bracy's' plume of woe; And 'Cour de Lion's crest shone near the valiant 'Ivanhoe,' While soft as glides a summer cloud, ' Rowena,' closer drew,

With beautiful 'Rebecca' peerless daughter of the Jew!

Still onward, like the gathering night advanced that funeral train-

Like billows when the tempest sweeps across the shadowy main, Where'er the eager gaze might reach, in noble ranks were seen, Dark plume, and glittering mail and crest, and woman's beauteous mien!

A sound thrilled through that lengthening host !

methought the vault was closed, Where in his glory and renown fair Scotia's bard

A sound thrilled through that lengthening host ! and forth my vision fled! But ah! that mournful dream proved true, -the immortal Scorr was dead! BLANKS
