FROM THE MICHOCOSM. MY LAST PAREWELL.

Sweet groves of Raleigh ! I bid thee adieu No more in thy shades my walks to pursue ; Mine eyes on thy beauties no more shall rest-No more with thy friendships be blest. Par to the west I my steps must retrace, O'er distant waters and dreary wastes And thy groves, sweet Raleigh, I no more shall Parewell to thy friendships-farewell to thee; Had fate been propitious, this hour had been hence,

But dark are thy ways, thou benign Providence! Too deep thy designs for humanity's view ; Ah! God of mercy! who thy plans can construe! I leave thee, fair City, where flowers sweetly

I leave in thy bosom friends low in the tomb; I leave on thy surface my heart's warmest tear; Parewell to thee all! who will ever be dear. A wanderer, tossed on the ocean of life,

'Mid scenes of confusion, of sorrow and strife, How oft will fond memory return me to thee, Those groves and those friends whom never more I shall see!

While life to my bosom imparts a warm glow; While reason shall reign or the steady pulse flow, Thy shades, dear Raleigh, in memory shall dwell, And the hour when I bade thee a lasting wars-SIDNEY. WELL!

THE DEW-DROP AND THE STREAM.

BY MARY COLLING.

The brakes with golden flowers were crown'd, And melody was heard around, When near a stream, a dew-drop shed Its lustre on a violet's head. While trembling to the breeze it hung, The streamlet as it roll'd along, The beauty of the morn confess'd, And thus the sparkling pearl address'd-

" Sure, little drop, rejoice we may, For all is beautiful and gay; Creation wears her emerald dress, And smiles in all her loveliness; And with delight and pride I see That little flower bedew'd by thee ; Thy lustre with a gem might vie, While trembling in its purple eye."

"You may rejoice, indeed, 'tis true," Replied the radiant drop of dew. "You will, no doubt, as on you move, To flocks and herds a blessing prove; But when the sun ascends on high, Its beam will draw me to the sky; And I must own my humble power, I've but refreshed a humble flower !"

" Hold!" cried the stream, " nor thus repine, For well 'tis known a power divine, Subservient to His will supreme, Hath made the dew-drop and the stream. The' small thou art, (I that allow,) No mark of Heaven's contempt art thou Thou hast refresh'd a humble flower, And done according to thy power. All things that are, both great and small, One glorious Author form'd them all. This thought may all repinings quell, What serves His purpose serves Him well."

THE CROPS. From a variety of sources we have condensed the following information, on a subject of universal interest, for the benefit of our readers :

Kentucky-The Lexington Intelligencer says, the Corn crop in that State will not fall far short, if any, of the usual average. This is true, it says, of that part of the State, between Winchester and Mount Sterling, which has been most affected by the drought. In other portions, rains have been abundant, and the vegetation looks as green and flourishing as when it first burst forth in the spring. Other papers in Louisiana-The Lafourche Intelligencer says, that the crops are highly promising in that section. Cane is thriving well, Corn will be abundant, and of Cotton there are no complaints.

been injured by the drought, though a "fair crop" is anticipated.

Indiana-The Centreville Chronicle speaks in flattering terms of the luxuriant growth of Corn in that region—particularly of the 'Baden Corn,' some of the stalks of which measure from 14 ft. 5 inches to 16 ft. 8 inches in height, and hear from 4 to 11 perfect ears on a stalk! A ten acre ages four ears to a stalk. Missouri-The Missouri papers generally say they will make abundant crops of Corn field, cultivated by Mr. Rariden, a member of Congress, is said to resemble a forest, and aver-

Tennessee-The Memphis, Paris, Trenton and Mashville papers describe the prospects as very gloomy in that State, both for Corn and Cotton. the Anvocars a valuable and interesting visiter

North Caroling-A gentleman from Caswell | in every family, and to every virtuous and intelcounty represents the prospect there as very flattering for good crops both of Corn & Tobac. co. The Wilmington Advertiser states that semi-monthly, for $1.25, in advance. that region has been favored with scasonable weather, and that there is a promise of an excellent Corn crop in the district between Halifax and Wilmington.

Arkaneza-The Little Rock Gazette of the 1st August, says, that the Corn and other crops in that region had been nearly blighted by the drought; but adds, in a postscript, that a sea-sonable rain had just fallen, which put a new face upon things, and had refreshed and invigorated vegetation.

The Eastern States-A gentleman who recentpassed through the Western parts of Massachusetts. New Hampshire, Vermont and New York, reports that there had been a considerable fall of rain, and that grain crops were good, particularly Corn. Potatoes also promise well. A favourable crop is also calculated upon in Maine. The New York Post, however, states, that in that State, the Corn and Potato crops will certainly be deficient.

Georgia-The Savannah, Macon and Augusta papers state that the Corn and Cotton crops have suffered immensely, and will be much shortened by the long continued drought.

Maryland-In some parts of this State, they have had seasonable weather; but in others, there will be a very short crop of Corn.

Illingis-The Peoria Register says, the prospect for a full Corn crop, never looked better. Mississippi-The crops of Corn and Cotton in the Southern and central sections of this State are said to promise abundantly.

In Virginia, except in small neighborhoods, the crop both of Cornand Tobacco, must be far short of an average. In some cases, whole fields of the former will scarcely yield seed. We hear, indeed, of but very few sections, in which the yield of Corn will be more than a third of a usual crop.

AGRICULTURE, LITERATURE, SCIENCE, THE ME-CHANICAL ARTS, VIRTUE, AND RELIGION ; THE COUNTRY'S STAY, AND NA-TION'S WEALTH.

Norwithstanding the extensive variety of newspapers and periodicals, published throughout the country, and the diversity of subjects therein embraced, it is obvious to every rational and reflecting mind, that the conductors of those powerful, and if rightly guided, those salutary vehicles of information, have been too generally actuated by party motives; and that political contests have been carried to such an alarming extent, as to threaten the dissolution of our noble institutions; while subjects relating to Agriculture, Literature, Science, and the Mechanical Arts; those subjects immediately connected with our best interests, and which would eventually place us in an independent situation, have measurably remained unnoticed.

Actuated therefore by these views, the sub-scriber intends publishing in Jamesrows, N. VEGETABLE UNIVERSAL PILLS THIS celebrated Medicine has been in use it England nearly a century. It has been in-troduced into the United States, little more than three years, since which, more than five millions of boxes have been sold. Its universal use wherever introduced speaks quite sufficient in its praise. All who use, recommend it,-There never was an individual, that did not warmly recommend it, who has had any experience of its properties. As an Anti-Billious Medicine, it claims a preference over every other now in use. The only thing about which care is required is, that the genuine Pills are procured; and remember, that Dr. Brandreth has never authorized any Doctor, Druggist, Apothecary or Pedler, in the United States, to sell his Medicine. The Brandreth Pills sold by them are generally counterfeit, calculated to injure the health of the nationt, and ruin the character of the gennine Pills, made by Dr. Benj.
