The New York Defalcation.

It is stated that the defalcations of the ex-collector were begun in the year 1829. Indeed? So long ago? In the very first year of the administration of the Greatest and best"? In the face of an administration so pure that it shuffed corruption in every breeze during the Presidentship of Mr. Adams? And pray where were the Purgative medicine accouptishes this object in officers of the Treasury Department during the easiest, and at the same time, in the most the eight long years of accumulating defalcation? What were the Secretary, and his battalion of auditors and clerks about, during those years ? Nay, where were those vigilant Executive eyes, that were wont to detect, at a glance, every thing that was incorrect ? Where that lion that ties-otherwise, in simple language, vitiated was wont to roar at every thing that was humors. This is following nature-this is taking wrong? Why, when the Treasury was empty, and the clerks were scraping the

At the Fair of the New York American Institute (says the Evening Star,) "Miss Betsey Davis, a young lady of Riverhead, Long Island, has hanging on the walls of the room the most showy, and probably in the line of domestic production, the most decidedly finished article offered this year at the Fair. It is a superb counterpane of white satin, bearing embroidered upon this ground, fac-similies of wild flowers and leaves of the richest colors, such, we learn, as she copied from originals raised in her garden, or found in the woods. The grape vine border is uncommonly true to nature. The labor has been immense, and the spread contains 8,000 pieces. Its price, we hear, is $200, and it is worth double the money.
