

POETRY.

Like orient pearls at random strung,
STANZAS
Delivered by J. H. GRAY,
Pupil of the Pennsylvania Institution for the instruction of the Blind, at their Examination:

The bird, that never tried his wing,
Can blithely hop and sweetly sing,
Though prisoned in a narrow cage,
Till his bright feathers drop with age;
So I, while never blessed with sight,
Shut out from Heaven's surrounding light,
Life's hours, and days, and years enjoy,
Though blind, a merry hearted boy.
That captive bird may never float
Through Heaven, or pour his thrilling note
Mid shady groves, by pleasant streams
That sprinkle in the soft beams;
But he may gladden rapt round
Within his prison's scanty bound,
And give his soul to song, for he
Ne'er longs to taste sweet liberty.
Oh! may I not be happy dull
Within my unilluminated cell?
May I not leap, and sing, and play
And turn my constant night to day?
I never saw the sky, the sea,
The earth was never green to me;
Then why, Oh, why, should I repine
For blessings that were never mine.
Think not that blindness makes me sad,
My thoughts like yours are often glad.
Parents I have who love me well—
Their different voices I can tell,
Though far and absent I can hear,
In dreams their music meets my ear.
Is there a star so dear above,
As the low voice of one you love?
I never saw my Father's face;
Yet in his forehead when I place
My hand, and feel the wrinkles there,
I feel the world than anxious care,
To knit the brows of manhood so.
I sit upon my father's knee—
He'd love me less if I could see.
I never saw my Mother's smile;
Her gentle tones my heart beguile—
They fall like distant melody,
They are so mild and sweet to me.
She murmurs not—my mother dear!
Though sometimes I have kissed the tear
From her soft cheek, to tell the joy
One smiling word would give her boy.
Right merry was I every day!
Fearless to run about and play
With sisters, brothers, friends and all,
To answer to their sudden call,
To join the ring, to speed the chase,
To find each playmate's hiding-place,
And pass my hand across his brow
To tell him—I could do it now!
Yet though delightful few the hours,
So passed in childhood's peaceful bowers,
When all were come to school but I,
I used to sit at home and sigh;
And though I never longed to view
The earth so green, the sky so blue,
I thought, I'd give the world to look
Along the pages of a book.
Now since I've learned to read and write,
My heart is filled with new delight.
And music too—Can there be found
A sight so beautiful as sound!
Tell me kind friends, in one short word,
Am I not like that captive bird.
I live in song, and peace, and joy,
Though blind, a merry hearted boy.

THE SON TO HIS MOTHER.
BY SAMUEL LOVER, ESQ.

There was a place in childhood that I remember well,
And there, a voice of sweetest tone bright fairy tales
did tell;
And gentle words and fond embraces were given with
joy to me,
When I was in that happy place upon my mother's knee.

When fairy tales were ended, "Good night!" she
softly said,
And kiss'd and laid me down to sleep within my
tiny bed;
And holy words she taught me there—methinks I
yet can see
Her angel eyes, as close I knelt beside my mother's knee.

In the sickness of my childhood, the perils of my
pains,
The sorrows of my riper years, the cares of every
time;
When doubt or danger weigh'd me down, then
pleading all for me,
It was a fervent prayer to Heaven that bent my mother's knee!

And can I this remember, and e'er forget to prove
The glow of holy gratitude—the fondness of my love?
When thou art feeble, mother, come rest thy arm
on me,
And let thy cheris'd child support the aged mother's knee.
