Resolutions Adopted by the United States Livestock Sanitary Association

IT IS the sense of this Association that the Federal regulations for the control and eradication of foot-and-mouth disease shall be recognized by each and every state as the uniform method of controlling and eradicating foot-and-mouth disease in the United States.

We further specifically recommend that all susceptible livestock infected with or exposed to foot-and-mouth disease should be forthwith slaughtered and buried in accordance with regulations of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

We recommend that no state shall take such action as will in any way interfere with the movement of livestock in transit across such state if shipments are moving in accordance with regulations of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

This Association emphatically condemns all attempts at state legislation or personal action to interfere with the Federal regulations now in force for the control and eradication of foot-and-mouth disease.

(2) Whereas, there is considerable diversity in vogue in the various states covering regulations for the control of contagious and infectious diseases of livestock, and

Whereas, it is believed more uniform measures should be adopted,

Be it resolved, that the President of this Association be instructed to appoint a committee of three for the purpose of drafting and submitting at each annual session some recommendations whereby joint and uniform control of one of the contagious and infectious livestock diseases may be submitted and recommended to all livestock sanitarians of the United States.

(3) Resolved that it being expressed as the sense of this Association that we should favor the joint plan of Federal and Dominion registration of tuberculosis-free herds of pure-bred cattle as recommended by the International Commission on Control of Bovine Tuberculosis and urge our Federal Department of Agriculture to get this under way as speedily as advisable.

The Foot-and-Mouth Disease Situation

ACCORDING to the United States Department of Agriculture the loss in Illinois from foot-and-mouth disease has been larger than in any other state, 36,758 animals altogether having been slaughtered. Pennsylvania comes next with 17,896 animals, and Ohio third with 10,111. None of the 16 other states in which there was an outbreak has lost as many as 8,000.

In those states in which the local quarantines have been rigidly enforced and in which the farmers themselves have aided the authorities to stamp out the disease, satisfactory progress has been made at a smaller expense than was at one time feared. Indiana and Michigan, where the disease originated, were, for example, at first hard hit. Much of that territory is, however, now entirely freed from quarantine and in only a small area is the movement of livestock absolutely prohibited. In Indiana 6,127 animals were slaughtered, and in Michigan 7,728.

While Illinois and Pennsylvania are probably today the most seriously affected of all the States, there is, it is said, every reason to believe that energetic measures will stamp out the pestilence there as well as elsewhere. Although large quantities of stock have been affected already, the number up to the present is small in comparison with the total quantity in those states. In Illinois there were approximately 2,500,000 head of cattle at the outbreak. Of those 14,653 have been slaughtered. Out of approximately 4,500,000 hogs only 21,587 had been killed up to January 1. Of the 150,000 farms in that state about 500 have been involved.
