

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY: 1886—1906.

THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER.

Consolidated, 1904, with The Cotton Plant, Greenville, S. C.

PROGRESSIVE FARMER—VOL. XXI, NO. 1.
THE COTTON PLANT—VOL. XXI, NO. 51.

RALEIGH, N. C., FEBRUARY 15, 1906.

Weekly—$1 a Year.

The Progressive Farmer's Birthday comes just as Nature gives the world the first Prophecy of Spring—just at the time when the Violets in the Sheltered Places, the Jonquils in the old Front Yard, and the Black Alder's Golden-dusted Catkins away down in the Swamps, join in the Promise that the Time is near when Bud and Blossom will again make the Woods glorious; and such Shady Lanes as this one, with their bewitching beauty, will again entice the Early Ploughman to Rest and Respite from the too Passionate Kisses of Spring Sunshine on the Waking Fields.

THIS WEEK'S FEATURES:

Twenty Years Ago and Twenty Years Hence in Southern Farming:

Virginia . . . . .	G. W. KOINER.
North Carolina . . . . .	T. K. BRÜNER.
South Carolina . . . . .	CHARLES PETTY.
Tennessee . . . . .	J. B. KILLEBREW.
Georgia . . . . .	MARVIN V. CALVIN.

"Stock Food" or Flavored Wheat Bran?—at $1,000 a Ton.

BY DR. TAIT BUTLER.

Suggestions "to Them That Tends the Sile."

BY BILDAD AKERS.

The Boy That Had No Chance.

BY REV. C. L. GREAVES.