

THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER

Title Registered
in U. S. Patent Office.

CONSOLIDATED, 1909, WITH "MODERN FARMING."

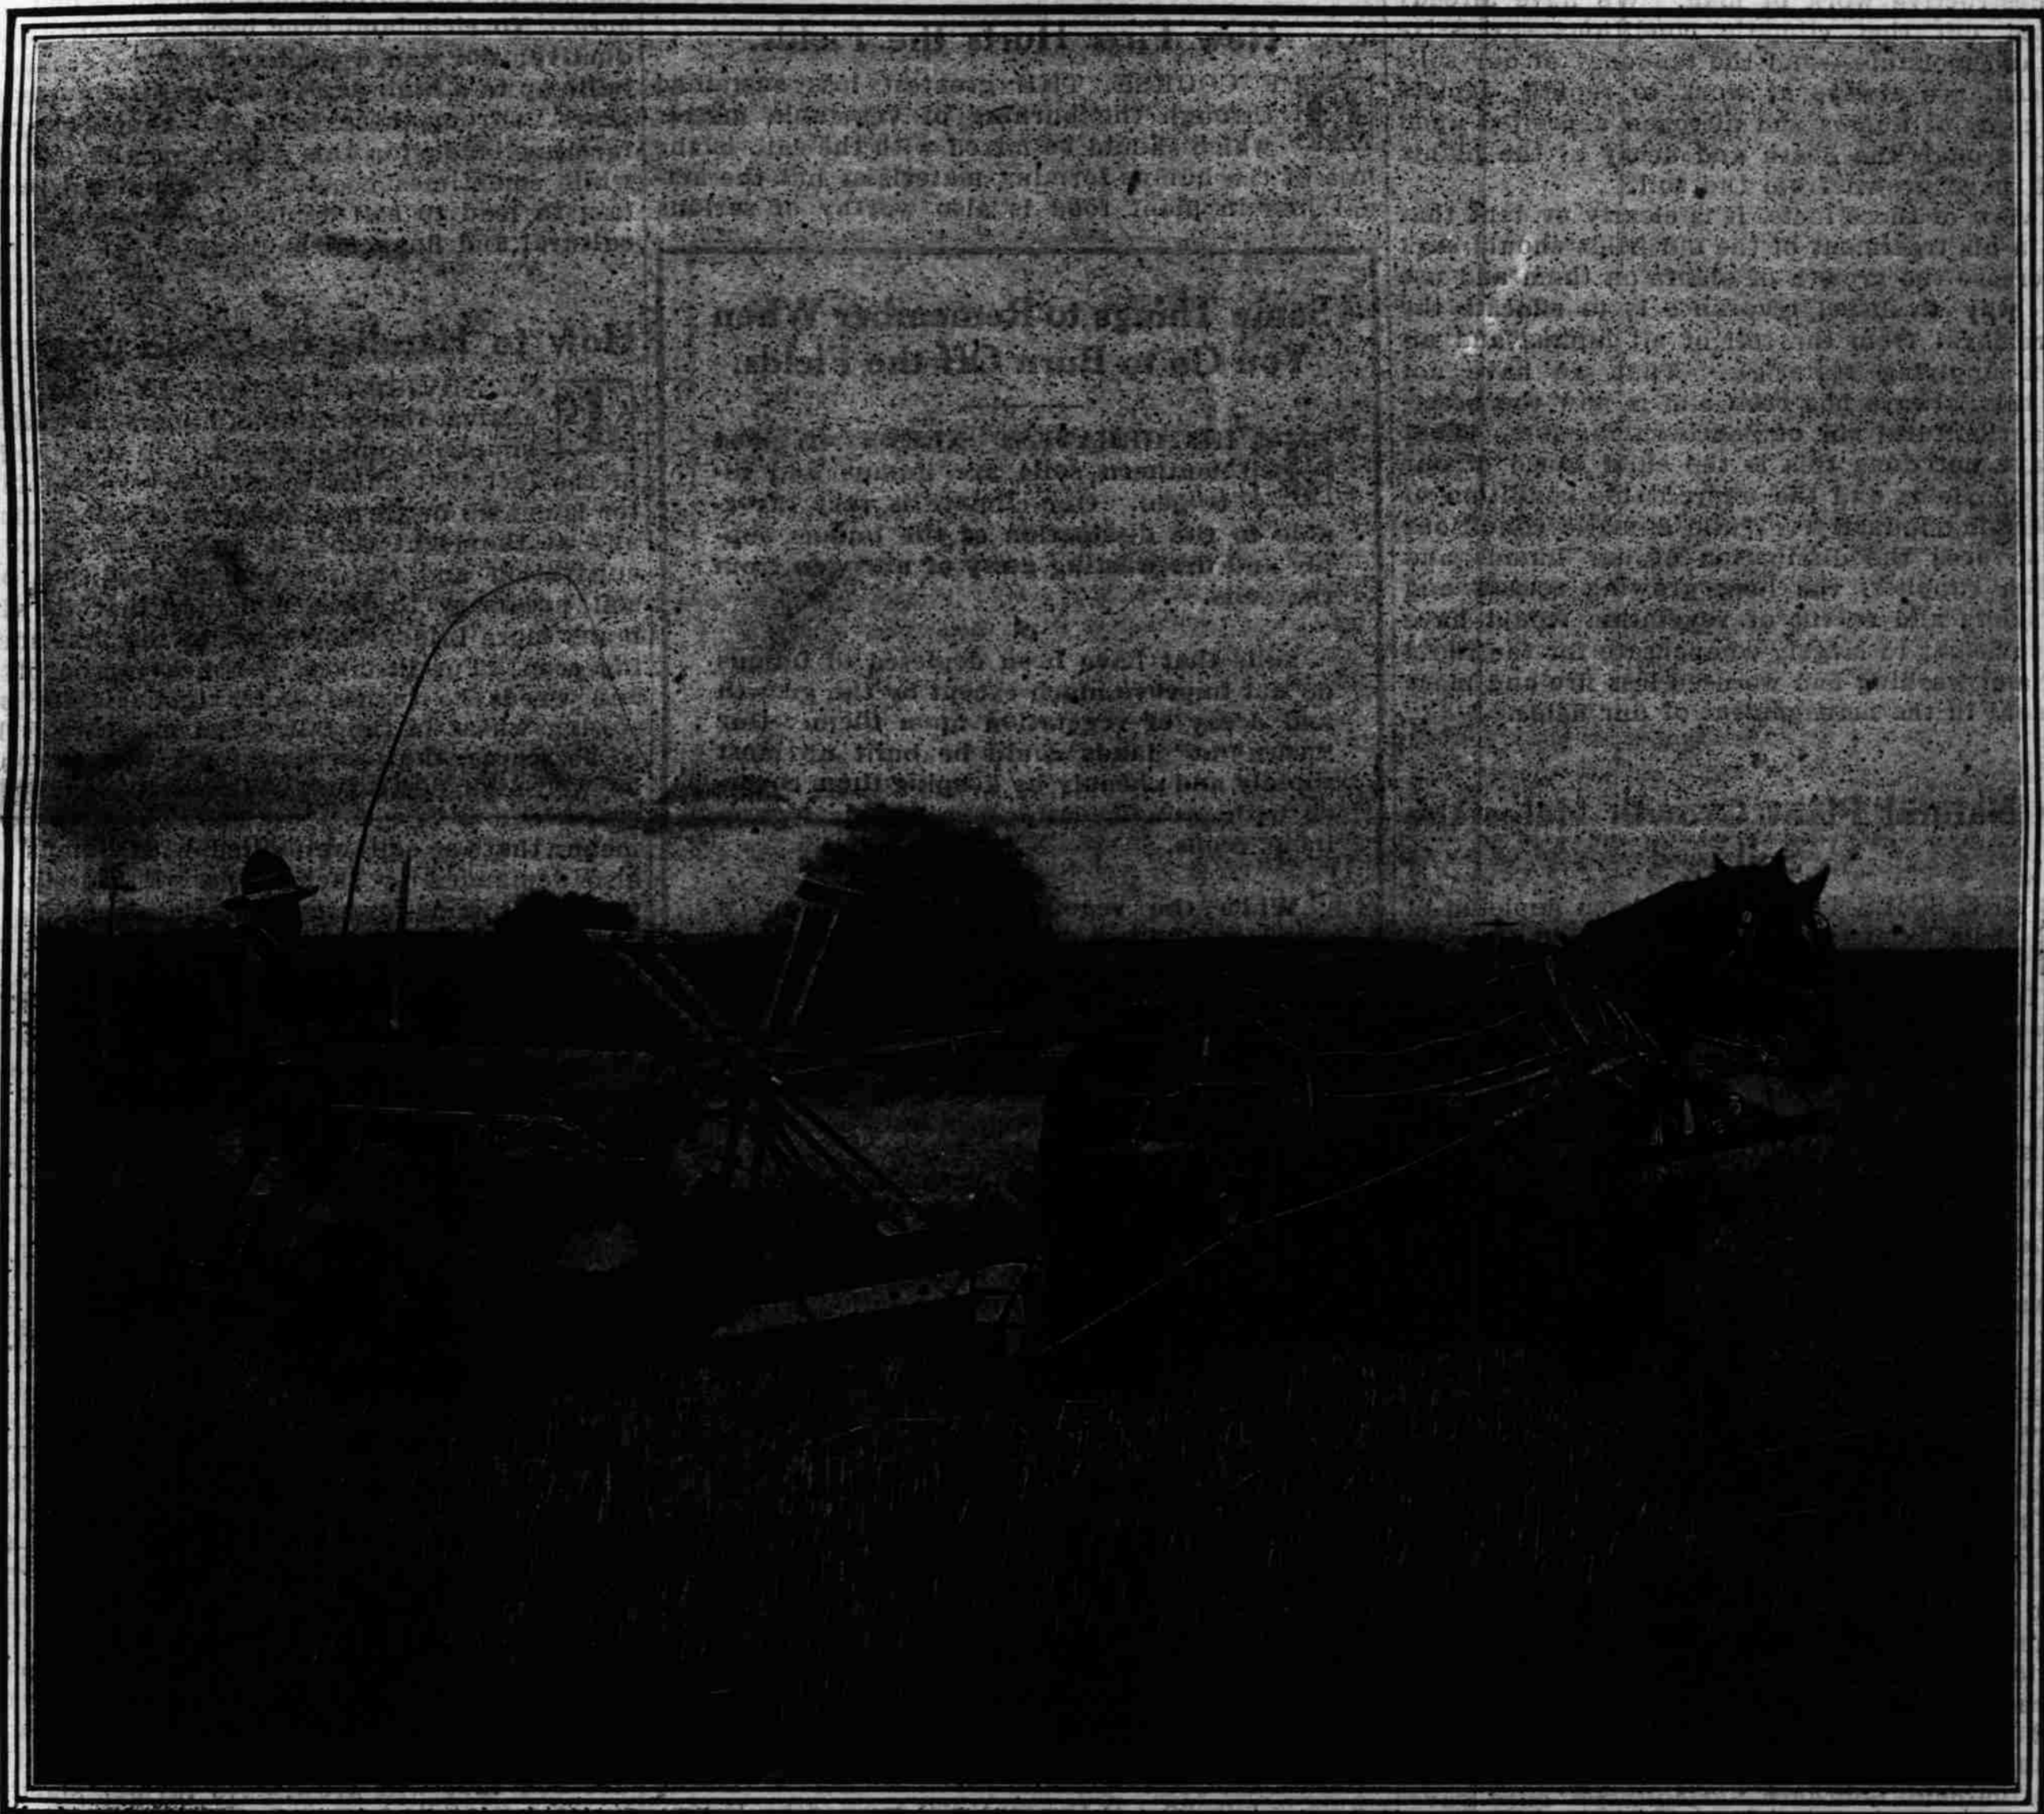

A Farm and Home Weekly for the Carolinas, Virginia, Tennessee, and Georgia.

Vol. XXIV. No. 20.

RALEIGH, N. C., JUNE 24, 1909.

Weekly: $1 a Year.

A HARVEST SCENE.

[Courtesy Rural Life.]

ON A RIGHTLY managed farm there is not only the opportunity to make a good living and acquire a fair share of the world's wealth; there is also the fine satisfaction of living in daily contact with the ever-changing and never-aging beauties of nature. The long brown reaches of the plowed lands, the green of the meadows and pastures, the billowy seas of corn, the shimmering whiteness of the cotton fields as they wait for the pickers—all these contribute their due share to the contentment and happiness of farm life. None of these is more beautiful, however, than a field of ripened grain when the wind blows over it and sets it to waving and rippling and glowing in the sunshine. And now, that the harvest is over, we should get the grain under shelter, and, where it is not sown to grass or clover, the land into cowpeas or some winter-growing crop.

Features of This Issue.

Crimson Clover a Great Crop, C. E. Vance.....	5
Cheaper Peas and Better Farming.....	8
$500 More a Year Farming: By Using Less Fire and More Sense on the Old Fields....	2
Hog Cholera, R. P. Hibbard.....	10
How to Make a Road-Drag, Joseph Hyde Pratt	4
The Best Guarantee of Good Crops, A. L. French.....	12
Whose Fault Is It if Your Land Remains Poor? W. F. Massey.....	3