Gentlemen—

My farm is situated in Lee County. I placed it on the market at a fair price, but could not get a single prospect. Your representative called on me, and persuaded me to improve the place by painting it.

I used twelve barrels of SCO-CO Paint, with the result that I soon sold my farm without any trouble, for several thousand dollars more than I expected to get.

Yours very truly,
Thos. B. Hooks, Americus, Ga.

More Milk Means Better Health

THE need for more milk and butter on farms in the South is apparent on every hand. Dairy products supply essential food elements that cannot be obtained from any other source. Plenty of wholesome, clean milk and butter on the farm not only means revenue in the form of food for the whole family but gives bounteous returns in better health.

Let us pay more attention to the family cow and be sure of a plentiful supply of milk and butter at all times. Plan for proper feed and care of good cow and she will return a profit both in money and health.

Any man who is farming for profit, cannot afford to do without The Progressive Farmer any more than the contractor can do without his plans in blue print to build a mansion, because whatever he wants to know about farming he can go to The Progressive Farmer and find it, and what he can't find he may have for the asking.

I consider it my helpful guide as a farmer.
