

HOME BUILDING DISCUSSIONS—Next Week

THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER

Carolinas-Virginia Edition
A Farm and Home Weekly for
NORTH CAROLINA, SOUTH CAROLINA & VIRGINIA
Established 1888, at Raleigh, N. C.

Vol. XXXVII No. 36

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1922

$1 a Year; 3 Years, $2

EXTERIOR AND INTERIOR VIEW OF ONE OF THE MANY PACKING HOUSES OWNED BY GROWERS OF CITRUS FRUITS IN FLORIDA

The Florida Citrus Exchange, the great citrus growers' cooperative marketing organization in Florida, last year sold 4,000,000 boxes of oranges, grapefruit, etc., out of the state's total crop of 12,000,000 boxes. In the last five years the Exchange has doubled the volume of fruit handled. It has 101 packing houses where the fruit is washed, graded, packed, and shipped. Selling offices in 116 Northern cities find profitable outlets for the immense production.

Live Subjects This Week and Next

HOW to Save More and Better Hay.—After you have grown a good hay crop, how would you cure it, that it might retain the aroma of newly mowed hay? What is the most economical way of handling hay? Mr. Alvord gives a detailed discussion Page 6

Legumes for Hay and Richer Lands.—Fertile soil means bigger profits. Legumes furnish the cheapest source of soil fertility. Start a seed patch this fall. Page 15

In Next Week's Issue.—Next week will be a sort of home-building special. There will be notable articles on building and furnishing the farm home by Mrs. Hutt and Mrs. Lindsay Patterson, and several illustrations and floor plans of attractive homes. Mr. Rothpletz will offer plans for poultry houses. Clarence Poe will have a "Letter to Mrs. Farmer." The "More Money" article will be "How to Select and Save Better Seeds for Next Year."