Notice.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF THE POWER of sale conferred upon me in a Deed of Trust executed on the 16th day of June, 1884, by Benjamin H. Cozart and Fannie R. Cozart his wife, and duly registered in mortgage book 17, page 362, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Granville county, default having been made in payment of the debt secured thereby, and by request of Joseph B. Parham, the holder of the bond secured thereby, I shall sell for cash, by public auction to the highest bidder, at the court house door in Oxford, Granville county, N. C., on the 6th day of November, 1893, the real estate described and conveyed in said Deed of Trust, to-wit: Nine acres of land in the town of Oxford, bought by the said B. H. Cozart of John Johnson, adjoining the new cemetery or grave yard and Lawson Wright's residence lot, and the extension of Hillsboro street, known as the brick yard tract. The trustee will also sell the interest conveyed to him in the land upon which the Oxford & Clarksville R. R. bed is laid, said road runs across said land. GEO. B. HARRIS, Trustee, Oct. 2, 1893. oct. 6-4w.

Trustee's Sale.

ON THE 25TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1886, BEN- jamin H. Cozart executed a Deed of Trust to R. W. Harris, trustee, which was duly recorded in the Register of Deeds office in Book 24, page 383, to secure the payment of six hundred dollars due by a certain bond to Thos. A. Cozart, which said bond has been duly assigned and transferred to Henry W. Harris, Sr., and by virtue of said Deed of Trust and an order of the Superior court of Granville county, made in a certain cause wherein Henry W. Harris was plaintiff and B. H. Cozart and wife and Thos. A. Cozart and others were defendants, appointing trustee in the place of R. W. Harris, dec'd, I will sell to the highest bidder for cash, at the court house door in Oxford, on Monday, the 6th day of November, 1893, the parcel of land described in said Deed of Trust, for a more accurate description of which reference is made to said deed in trust, adjoining the lands of Haywood Henderson, R. V. Minor, Sandy Parham and others. Said lot has three houses suitable for tenants, none occupied, and fronts 195 feet on Orange street and runs back from said street 136 feet. Time of sale 12 m. GEO. B. HARRIS, Trustee, A. A. HICKS, Att'y. Oct. 3, 1893. oct. 6-4w.

FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

A Modern Adam and Eve Pick It in a Gotham Park.

Park Policeman William S. Ryerson, New York, was doing duty on the west side of Central park the other afternoon. In several places there are bushes bearing a red fall berry, which is most tempting to the eye and hand. Unless watched carefully they would be entirely cleaned out by visitors.

"I wonder if the people ever will learn that those berries are not to be picked," soliloquized the policeman, as he drove four or five urchins away and took his stand among the thick bushes, where he could not be seen.

He had remained there only a few minutes when along came a young couple—orderly, well bred, nice people, apparently.

"Oh, what lovely berries, Jack," cried the young woman, pointing almost directly at the concealed officer.

"Yes," her escort returned, "but you mustn't touch them. There are too many officers about."

The girl pouted her lips. Then suddenly a bright thought struck her, and she exclaimed:

"Oh, I know! Let's play Adam and Eve. You, dear Jack, will be Adam and I Eve. The park shall be our garden of Eden. I'll pluck of the forbidden fruit and give to you, and"

"But suppose an officer should see us?" the young man said, uneasily, glancing about. No policeman was in sight. Reassured, he continued:

"All right, Eve, go ahead; but didn't Adam pluck first and give to Eve?"

"Oh, no, you silly boy; of course not!"

The make-believe Eve stole over to within five feet of Officer Ryerson and, picking a large cluster of berries, took them to Adam. She placed them in the lapel of his coat and patted his cheek. Adam was alive to his opportunity, and imprinted a kiss on the fair cheek before him. She blushed as red as the berries Adam wore.

"And now that this is your Garden of Eden, and that you, Adam and Eve, have sinned," Officer Ryerson said, as he sauntered up behind them, "the devil doth appear in the shape of a park policeman." And he waved his billy as though it were a scepter of fire. "I'm sorry, sir, but you'll have to come along with me to the arsenal and explain to the sergeant how it is that both Adam and Eve have transgressed the rules of the park."

Half way to the station house Ryerson relented. He is a sort of a wag himself. He was grinning his broadest, and the young people, too, while not forgetting the seriousness of the charge against them, could scarce suppress their smiles.

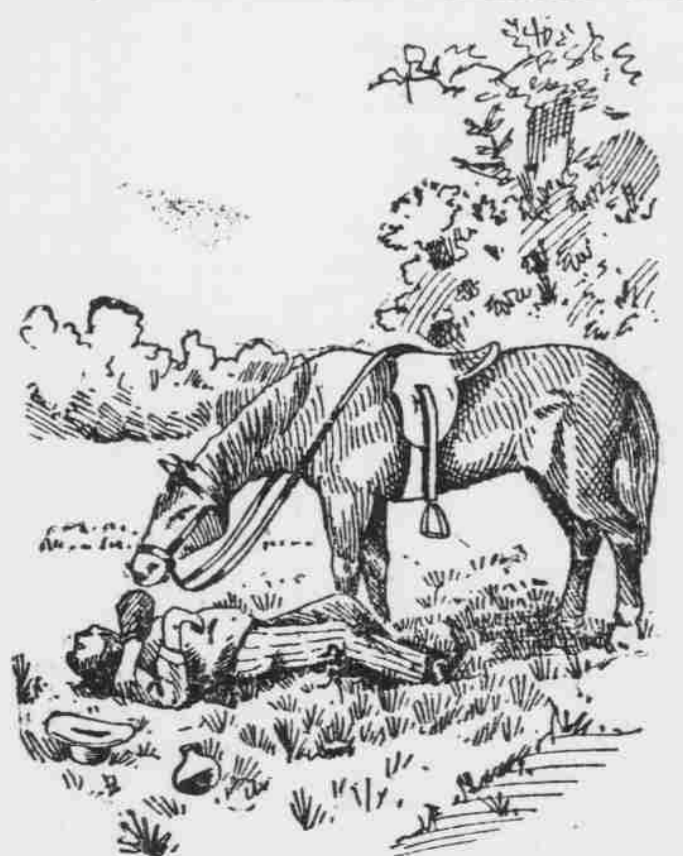

Ryerson stopped short and said: "Well, I'll let you go, but let me give you a piece of advice. Don't, whenever you want to play Adam and Eve, come to Central park. There are two hundred and fifty just such devils as I am lurking about to entrap the unwary Adams and Eves. Just remember that, please. You may go."

The pair overwhelmed the officer with their thanks and hurried away.

WISDOM OF A HORSE.

He Knows When His Master Is Loaded and Needs a Rest.

There is a horse on the Mississippi coast, it would not be wise to say just where in telling a true tale, and such a tale, for this horse has a master who often takes a drop too much, and, unable to ride, throws himself on the ground "to sleep it off." Then the horse grazes around patiently until it is time to go home, when he arouses the man by pulling his sleeve, makes him mount and carries him safely home.

WAITING FOR HIM TO "SLEEP IT OFF."
