

The Old Friend

And the best friend, that never fails you, is Simmons' Liver Regulator, (the Red Z)—that's what you hear at the mention of this excellent Liver medicine, and people should not be persuaded that anything else will do.

It is the King of Liver Medicines; is better than pills, and takes the place of Quinine and Calomel. It acts directly on the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels and gives new life to the whole system. This is the medicine you want. Sold by all Druggists in Liquid, or in Powder to be taken dry or made into a tea.

Has the Z Stamp in Red on wrapper. J. H. ZELLIN & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

Sale of Land.

PURSUANT TO A JUDGEMENT AND DECREE of the Superior Court of Granville county, made at the July term, 1894, thereof, in the case of L. C. Edwards vs. John A. Puryear, I shall, on Monday, the 5th day of November, 1894, (it being the first Monday in November), sell to the highest bidder for cash, at the courthouse door in Oxford, the lands described in the pleadings of said case. Said land contains about 100 acres and is bounded by the Virginia State line on the North, the lands of John Puryear and Richard Thorp on the East, the lands of the late G. W. Much on the South, and the lands of Rebecca West and others on the West. It being the same tract of land conveyed to L. C. Edwards by Rubin Stone and Simeon M. Nelson by Deed dated 22nd Sept., 1885, Deed Book 39, page 171, Register of Deeds office, Granville county. Time of sale 12 o'clock, m. This Oct. 23, 1894. 9c.5-4t. B. S. ROYSTER, Commissioner.

WOMAN AND HOME.

WORKING GIRLS AS WIVES AND MAKERS OF HAPPY HOMES.

Women as Designers—The Evolution of the Daughters—The Long Gown Age—The Girl Journalist—Stylish Women—Pulled the Nail—Miss Replifier.

The best and happiest wife in this and the next generation is and will be the self supporting woman. It is so evident that argument and proofs seem superfluous. From a severely practical standpoint, a woman who has made her own living knows the value of money, has had experience in making it go as far as possible, has seen all the wild outs of small extravagances and subsequent scrimping that make trouble in many new homes. A dollar to her represents so many hours' work, not a few coaxing words addressed to papa. She knows what kind of home it is pleasant to come to after a tiring day's work and what sort of breakfast is the best foundation for eight hours' toil.

She has been used for so long to look after herself that it is almost heaven to have someone ask if she had her rubbers on this morning, and the trifling attention will be repaid by a devotion to socks and buttons which the masculine mind will enjoy while it may not entirely understand.

No matter how plucky and successful she has been, the self supporting woman has been for years very tired, mentally and physically, with the weight of responsibility she has carried. If one week has been brought to a close successfully, in comparative comfort and with no debt incurred, she can only draw a very short breath before the next one commences. It may be very selfish, but isn't it delicious to feel that some one else, whose shoulders are stronger, has taken this wearing burden from you and carries it easily too? What can be more delightful, after years of rushing down town immediately after breakfast or shutting oneself up in a study or office early in the morning, than to draw a comfortable, happy breath at the table and then set about domestic duties? The sheltered feeling is indescribable and one that cannot be appreciated by any woman who has not fought her own battles.

Men as a general thing are good natured and pleasant enough to women whom they meet in a business way, but however kind they may be the woman never can feel that she is at her best outside of her home. Do you think a self reliant, plucky breadwinner, who is, after all, the more a woman for all her brave march abreast with men, is going to toss her head and given utterance to the hackneyed statement about not giving up her liberty for the best man living, and is there anything particularly desirable in the liberty which consists in working day after day for food and clothes and a place to sleep, barely gained by wages which will be lost the moment some one else is willing to do the same work for less money? This applies to every wage earning woman, from the girl who spends her weary days behind a counter to the successful brain worker, who is more envied because less understood than any of the women who eat their own bread.—Jessie M. Burogyno in Donahoe's Magazine.

Women as Designers.

The cheap production of machine made ornamentations is doubtless thwarting to truly artistic and original design, but the demand for new patterns and new designs is overwhelming, and manufacturers, being for the most part practical business men and not conscientious artists, naturally seek to meet the demand by every means producing some novelty in the decorations of their goods. Many manufacturers keep their own designers on the premises. Yet many of the best makers are not averse to buying designs from outsiders, as they obtain thereby greater novelty and change. Herein comes the opportunity for work by trained women designers. But woman must first be schooled as to the needs of manufacturers. She must learn the business side of her art.

In these days of overcompetition any scheme that promises even a possibility of helping women to help themselves should arouse interest and attention. The growing desire among the rising generation of drafters to earn their own living does not, I think, proceed from a desire to be selfishly independent of men, but from the natural and healthy wish to be free and honest in their thoughts and actions and to have some higher aim in life than the society girl's wearisome search for pleasure and a husband. If all women in their youth received a practical training in some practical craft, so that if necessity demanded they might be able to earn a living, they would be saved from the fear of sordid poverty and be enabled to work out their own destinies, and if Providence did not see fit to provide them with a congenial mate they would still be able to find a fair field for the employment and remuneration of their talents. But even if woman does marry it by no means follows that she is provided for for the term of her natural life. The vagaries of an inexorable destiny in these days of speculative business and bank failures often leave a widow and orphans dependent upon the unselfishness of their relations. It would be invaluable under such circumstances for a woman to have a working knowledge of some art or craft, so that she might be able to earn a decent living for herself and her children.—Mrs. J. E. H. Gordon in Fortnightly Review.

The Dimpled Cheek Village Maid

may not retain her dimples and rosy cheeks "blooming with health," until she finds a good husband. A little neglect or accident may bring about some one of the many "female" diseases and "weaknesses," to which the sex is subject, and health may be forever impaired and hopes and happiness be at an end. Thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, prepared by him for women, cures the worst cases of uterine disease, nervousness, neuralgia, irregularities, and "weakness." It is a great invigorating tonic and nerve, and rapidly builds up the health and strength.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, for constipation, sick headache, biliousness, indigestion, Once taken, always in favor.

What She Says—Cured.

Mrs. Belle Paterson, of Atlanta, Ga., had a distressing case of confirmed dyspepsia, and after using one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Dyspepsia Remedy she writes: "The very first dose gave me relief, and a short continuance effected an entire cure." Thousands of others attest its wonderful virtues. A single dose will prove its efficacy. For sale by all druggists. Send for book of full particulars. See advertisement elsewhere.

NO PROSPECT.

Nurse—Now, Mamie, how would you like to have a brother? Little Mamie (gloomily)—Who's going to propose to me, I'd like to know?—Truth.

A HEARTLESS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Mrs. Van Million—But, Mr. Marigold, if you marry my daughter how do you and she expect to live without money? Jack Marigold—Do you mean to say that you would allow your son-in-law to starve?—Frank Leslie's Weekly.

SHE WOULD MAKE AN EFFORT.

"Now, Neddle, learn your lessons and mamma will love you." "Will you love me as much as you do the pug?" "I'll try to, dear."—Demorest's Magazine.

FOREWARNED—FOREARMED.

Male Voice from Above (sweetly)—Has that young man gone yet, Tilly? Tilly (hesitatingly)—Why—er—no—Popper! Male Voice from Above (more sweetly)—Will you please bring me up that pair of boots you see by the door? The Young Man (tremulously)—Ah—er—Miss Tilly! While you are up I guess I'd better be going.—Puck.
