THIS IS THE STUFF.

The financial editor of The Georgia Cracker has this to say on a leading question:

"A dollar hoarded is a useless dollar. A dollar spent may pay a dozen debts in a day and do the work of a hundred dollars in a week. It is the money which circulates that oils the wheels of commerce. Brother take home the moral with you. If you owe any man a dollar and have or can get the dollar go and pay him; he will pay some one else, and the self same dollar may bring happiness to a hundred hearts and find its way back to your own pocket."

I recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm and accept the result with candor and patriotism, else all law would be a farce and all order, anarchy.

Since the adverse opinion of the Court has been anticipated, speculation has again become rife in regard to an extra session of Congress. Of course no one can speak with any piness to a hundred hearts and find its way back to your own pocket."
