A FEW BITES.

Little Minnows of News Caught in the Stream of a Week's Happenings

Another girl has entered the home of Mr. J. P. Bradsher, of Fishing Creek, making 3 girls and 3 boys.

The Misses Whitfield have removed to the cottage of Col. C. M. Rogers next to the old Baptist church.

Miss Flora Hunt was on Tuesday soliciting contributions from our citizens in aid of the mine sufferers in Chatham Co.

Lookout and bear the fact in mind that Paris Bros. are now splendidly located between the Cooper bank building and Odd Fellows Temple.

Mr. R. S. Usry has again entered his old business at his old stand, having last week purchased the interest of Mr. Wayne Gooch, of Clarksville, Va.

Mr. T. P. Pendleton has purchased the interest of W. P. Williams, in the firm of W. P. Williams & Co., Bakers and Confectioners, Hillsboro Street.

Roxboro is to have a new industry. Noel Bros. are making arrangements to start a pants factory, and will put a salesman on the road to sell their goods.

At the home of Mr. Louis de Laerx there are three black and white shouats that will weigh about 75 pounds each. The owner can get them by paying charges.

Messrs. E. H. Crenshaw & Co., doing business on Hillsboro street, have removed their stock to the store on Main street lately vacated by the live firm of Paris Bros.

Mr. J. S. Brown after a few days tussle with that mean disease—the grippe,—is out again, but we are sorry to learn that Mrs. Brown is suffering with the same malady.

Uncle Job Osborn has lost his spectacles and would thank the finder if he would return them. He thinks he dropped them between the Osborn House and the postoffice.

Pleasant smiles are now visible on the face of our young attorney, Mr. Alex. Feild, on account of the arrival of a little girl at his home to keep the two bright little boys company.

The many friends of Capt. T. M. Washington in Granville will be more than glad to learn that he is rapidly recovering from his serious illness that has befallen him outside of breaking his leg.

A pertinent question. Why is it that the people Oxford will not stand by enterprises that home people are trying to build up? Until they make up their minds to do it we will be behind in the procession of progress.

If our business men really desire a first-class telephone system they now have the opportunity to get it, and it seems to us that Oxford should keep step with other towns, and have a first class telephone exchange.

The tie in the Kentucky legislature was broken Friday by the death of Isaac Wilson, a Democrat. This gives the Republicans a majority of one and will insure the election of Godfrey Hunter, a Republican, to the U. S. Senate.

The twentieth Annual State Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North Carolina, will be held March 19 to 22 at Charlotte. An interesting programme is prepared. Some strong speakers have already agreed to be present. Every Association in the state should be represented by as many delegates as possible.

We learn that Esquire J. M. Davis, of Brassfield, one of the Douglassite appointees, had a case up before him one day last week, and one of the parties did not like something he done, and it is said gave the Justice quite a good round, leaving him the worse for wear. We can only say that we regret this, and trust that it will not occur again even with a Third party magistrate.

The editor thanks Mr. D. N. Hunt for a well preserved copy of the Granville Wig, published in Oxford by the late Col. Geo. Wortham, dated July 10th, 1850. We notice that it only contained four local items, the balance of reading matter was on National affairs. It has in it the announcement of the death of President Taylor at the White House in Washington City, on July 9th, 1850, at half past two p. m.

The young people enjoyed a pleasant sociable at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gooch last Friday evening. After several hours pleasantly spent in playing games and listening to sweet music refreshments were served and the time for closing the enjoyable hours grew only too soon. Each one left reluctantly, agreeing that Mrs. Gooch knew just how to entertain and make the young people happy.

The venerable Cuffy Mayo, a colored member of the great Legislature of 1868, from Granville, and more familiarly known as "Archibald of Grayity," died at his home near Oxford on Tuesday. He lived a quiet life and was little heard of these latter years. He was a Baptist preacher and reached the age of 96, ere the summons came. Even the venerable Cuffy, and peace to his ashes, made a far better representative of the people than the latter day saints, the Populists, under the guise of reformers.

—Mr. Henry Strauss, of Henderson, was in Oxford this week trying to get up a telephone exchange. It is his purpose to bring out the local system here.

—During the last campaign the noble Third party cried "keep in the middle of the road," little thinking that some of their chiefs would have to really work the roads.

—Mr. Jack Boswell, an old man of Brassfield Township, one day last week while attempting to walk a foot log across a creek fell off and broke his neck, so the report goes.

—Squire S. V. Ellis arrested a white man who gave his name as Edwards and claimed to have come from Franklin county, Wednesday night last, on the charge of carrying concealed weapons and had him put in jail.

—The attractive and prepossessing young ladies of Oxford will tender to their gentlemen friends a Leap Year German on the evening of Jan. 24th, at Armory Hall. It will be the social event of the season and no doubt will be a recherche affair.

—The barber trust was broken on Wednesday, and D. M. Lee, the white barber, silently folded his small tent and as silently took the train for Henderson, leaving Terry still master of the situation. One by one the trust gains away, and the little fish have to make room for the whales, and yet the shavers are not happy.

—In Mr. Gowan Dusenbery, the Southern Railway has a very efficient and careful agent. He attends strictly to his duties and shows a decided disposition to accommodate the patrons of the road as far as the strict rules of the company will admit, and is ever ready to give information as to schedules, fares and connections.

—We overlooked the fact of noting the fine Christmas number of the Southern Tobacco Journal, published at Winston by Mr. E. E. Harman. It is handsomely gotten up, full of choice reading and excellent illustrations. It goes without saying that the journal is certainly a splendid publication and a great credit to the tobacco trade. Continued success to it.

—Abram Ferrell, a well known colored man about town, had on his smoked glasses on Wednesday morning, in order no doubt to discover, if possible where Fusion was at since Rev. Wm. Royster, the jailor, was on trial charged with begetting a child in jail, and S. P. Satterfield and our own Billy Brown being convicted of frauds in enrolling the second reading of the late sweet scented Legislature.

—Although our friend, Mr. J. W. Brown, and we differ from him politically, was convicted of charges against him in the Superior court of Wake in the assignment act, we can say that he bears a good character among our people and quite a number of our good citizens stated that on the stand. We indeed feel sorry for him, as we believe he did not intend to do anything wrong, but he got into awful bad company when he joined the Pops.

—It is a pleasure to the editor to learn that our talented lawyer, Maj. B. S. Royster, who defended Mr. J. W. Brown, at the trial before Wake Superior Court did himself and our county great credit in his able contest of his clients case, and his splendid speech of one hour and half before the jury, was a masterly effort, showing that he possesses rare legal attainment. We are proud of our townsman Major B. S. Royster, and hope some day to see him honor the bene of our grand old Commonwealth.

—The editor having the honor of being one of the delegates from the North Carolina Press Association to that of the National Press Association which meets at St. Augustine, Fla., the 21st inst., donated his best suit and left by way of the Southern Railway Wednesday for that city, and leaves the office in charge of Mr. E. W. Harper, the foreman, who is authorized to transact all business until the "old man" turns up, provided the alligators do not shut their long jaws down upon a green Carolina editor, and if such is the case, he will be greatly missed as the "Thirdites will have nobody to curse and abuse.

—One day last week a colored boy by the name of Oscar Green, who claims to have come from Wake Forest, entered the room of Mr. C. J. Thomas and stole a fine dress coat. He also went into the room of Messrs. Connor and Wells and took therefrom a shirt, some cravats and a pistol. Chief Renn was promptly notified and on Wednesday night last arrested Green, recovered the stolen property and landed him in jail. Thursday morning while Chief Renn was carrying Green from jail to the mayor's office he made a break for liberty, but he was caught by Rev. J. E. Thacker and brought safely back.

—Mrs. Forsyth, wife of H. L. Forsyth, went over to her old home in Granville county some days ago on a visit. The sad news was brought here today that while sitting in a chair she fell over and expired in a few minutes. It was very sudden. She leaves several children who work in the East Durham factories. Her remains will be interred in Granville at her old home.—Durham Sun.

A BIG TRIAL.

Rev. Wm. Royster, Colored, Charged With Bastardy.

Rev. Wm. Royster, S. B., and jailor under Sheriff Cozart, was arraigned on Monday morning before S. V. Ellis, J. P., on a warrant sworn out by Mattie Harris, colored, a late prisoner in jail.

There was a large crowd present in the court room, the majority of whom were colored people. After some little time a jury of six men was selected, composed of 3 white and 3 colored—R. R. Callis, E. G. Curran and L. E. Wright, white, and John Young, Presley Slaughter and Alex. Slaughter, colored.

Messrs. N. B. Cannady, Alex. J. Feild and J. Crawford Biggs appeared for the State and Col. L. C. Edwards and Mr. A. A. Hicks appeared for Rev. Wm. Royster, defendant, who pleaded not guilty.

The whole day was consumed in examining witnesses. Royster was put on the stand and denied the charge against him and stood up well under the critical examination of Mr. N. B. Cannady.

Mattie Harris took the stand with her infant in her arms and even under a severe and coaxing examination by the astute Col. Edwards stuck to it that Royster was the father of her child and that it was begotten while she was an inmate of the jail. It is said by some of those who saw the infant that it bore a striking resemblance to its reputed father.

Quite a number of witnesses were examined on each side. After all the testimony was in Mr. J. Crawford Biggs arose and made the opening speech, and in a concise and plain way pointed out the law which required the defendant to prove his innocence by a preponderance of evidence, and if he failed in this it was the duty of the jury to find him guilty. Mr. Biggs, we are glad to say, is one of the coming young barbers of our section and is rapidly making a reputation as a painstaking lawyer.

As soon as he concluded his excellent argument it was agreed on the part of counsel to postpone further argument owing to the lateness of the hour and other circumstances until Saturday.

We Solicit a Share of Your Work. After having 14 years experience in watch, clock and jewelry repairing I offer my services to the citizens of Oxford and Granville county, and most respectfully solicit a share of their patronage. Will do your good work, as I have become a citizen of Oxford, if I can receive enough patronage to make a living, among a people that stand as high as those of any town or county of the State. All work guaranteed for 12 months. Will be very glad to receive your patronage, promising to give you good work. If not bring it back and I will do it over again free of charge.

You will find me at the grocery store of D. J. Gooch, at the old Cooper corner. As to our qualifications I take the liberty of appending the following notice from my town paper, the Goldsboro Argus:

Mr. R. A. Watts, Jr., who has had ample experience in the whole range of watchmaking and repairing, under his father for years in this city, and who is an expert at his trade, will leave in a few days to open up business in Oxford, N. C. The Argus wishes him a full measure of success and commends him to the favor of the Oxford public.

Horse on Tar River Railroad Bridge. On Saturday night Mr. J. W. Adcock, of Franklin County, spent the night at Providence with his brother-in-law, Mr. Geo. Ferrell. One of his horses, early in the night was taken sick with the colic, and after being doctored by Messrs. Adcock and Ferrell the animal seemed to get better and they left it in the yard, not thinking that it would wander off, but it seems that it did and about an hour afterwards the horse was heard crossing either the county or railroad bridge, and they went in search of him. On arriving at the county bridge they saw no signs of the horse but heard a snuffing on the railroad bridge near by. They at once climbed the steep embankment leading to Tar River bridge and found the horse on it, he having walked about 350 feet on a narrow plank in the middle of the bridge and had fallen between the cross ties and could not move.

Neighbors were summoned and some 12 or 15 persons were soon on the spot and made arrangements to save the horse. A watchman was placed up the road at each end of the bridge, and the crowd led by the Messrs. Wheeler, went to work. They proceeded to tie the horses feet in order that no one would be kicked over the side of the bridge, which is over 60 feet from the water below. After they had him secure all hands took hold and landed the horse on a hand car that had been secured and rolled him back to the station where they untied him. It took about three hours to get the horse off the bridge. No bones were broken but naturally the horse was badly skinned up. The thanks of Mr. Adcock go out to the people of Hargrove for their kind assistance.

—Mr. R. H. Pleasant, of Pleasant, called to see the "old man" of the PUBLIC LEDGER Saturday.

THE TRIAL OF CLERK BROWN.

He Had Left his Receipt Book at Oxford, He Said.

RALEIGH, Jan. 13.—In the Superior Court here to-day the entire session was devoted to the sensational trial of Enrolling Clerk J. W. Brown, of the Legislature, on the charge of permitting or causing to be enrolled the "assignment act," which never passed the last Legislature. Brown was the first witness in his own defense. He denied ever having seen the original act or enrolled bill and swore he never read the bill over with Miss Daisy Branson, who copied it, as she had sworn. He was closely cross-examined.

He swore the bill was never in his office, that he never knew of it till the great sensation about the act began, and he read the newspaper accounts; that T. R. Purnell told him the number of the bill after he arrived here to join in the search for it. He said he believed Miss Branson was honestly mistaken in her testimony. He was asked why he had not brought his receipt book in which entries were made of bills given out to be copied for enrollment and he replied that his attorney had told him there was no need to do so and that the book was at Oxford, his home. Solicitor Poon said he would argue that the bill was received for in the book, but Judge Melver said in such case he would charge the jury to find that it was not received for as there was no evidence to show it was. The solicitor said Miss Branson last Thursday asked Brown to produce this book and that he refused to do so.

J. W. Lassiter, Brown's assistant clerk, was the next witness, and the defense, through him, tried to disprove Miss Branson's testimony. He gave out bills for copying, but swore he had never seen this original bill, and that Miss Branson did not read it over with Brown. The solicitor sprung a big surprise on Lassiter by asking him if he had ever been charged with crime. Lassiter refused to answer at first, but the judge ordered him to do so and he said he had been tried for embezzlement and acquitted.

Miss Branson was recalled, and swore she never took away a bill unless she received for it, or having some one in the enrolling clerk's office make a memorandum. Twenty prominent witnesses swore to her high character.

Counsel for Brown urged the judge to quash the bill of indictment on the ground that Brown was not a State officer and so not liable. The judge refused to quash. B. S. Royster, of Oxford and T. R. Purnell then argued for the defense. Solicitor Poon closed for the State. He said suggestions were being made that very prominent people were connected with this great and unparalleled crime; that if anybody placed him in possession of facts that would tend to show the guilt of any other person, no matter what was the latter's position, his reputation or his politics, he was ready to send a bill to the grand jury and to press the case against him as vigorously as he had pressed the case against Clerks Brown and Satterfield. The solicitor made the points, first, that Miss Branson's evidence was inconsistent with Brown's innocence; second, that Brown's receipt book would contain Miss Branson's receipt for the bill or the signature of some person who had signed for her; third that the character of the evidence for the defense was not of a character to warrant the jury in doubting Miss Branson, who had no interest in the matter.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty. He was sentenced to one year's labor on the public roads and fined $250.

Clerk Satterfield, of the lower house, who was convicted Saturday, of negligence was fined $250. The extreme penalty is stated to be $2,000 fine or imprisonment. Some leading Populists are asserting that the courts cannot get at the exact facts regarding the monumental fraud in securing the ratification of this act; that only a non-partisan legislative committee can get at the truth.

Both Satterfield and Brown took an appeal and their bonds were fixed at five and six hundred dollars respectively which were give.

Declined to Receive their Preacher. Last year Rev. J. T. Stovall, of the Western North Carolina Conference, M. E. Church, South, was in charge of Rock Spring circuit, Lincoln county. For some reason his people were dissatisfied with him. At the close of the year they paid him up in full hoping that the Conference would send him elsewhere; but the bishop promptly returned him to the same circuit. His people, however, declined to receive Mr. Stovall and the bishop was compelled to make an exchange. He found another minister whose wife was dissatisfied with her husband's appointment, and he sent him to Rock Spring and sent Mr. Stovall to the vacant charge.

What the trouble was between Mr. Stovall and his people is not made public but the occurrence is an unusual one in the Methodist Church. The Methodists generally submit to the Conference discipline and endure whatever is given them for a year at least.

Rev. Stovall was formerly in charge of the Taylorsville circuit.—Statesville Landmark.

—We had the pleasure of meeting on the breaks Tuesday our old friends Dorsey Mangum and T. C. Rogers, of Wilton; E. T. Crews, of River; S. T. Crews, of Enon; Abner Overton, of Cannady's Mill, and the gem of a talker and good looking fellow, Hart Overton, of Fishing Creek.

The folly of prejudice is frequently shown by people who prefer to suffer for years rather than try an advertised remedy. The millions who have no such notions, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla for blood-diseases, and are cured. So much for common sense.

BRING IT ALONG.

Tobacco Has Advanced on the Oxford Market.

Well, there is no doubt the buyers have got a regular move on them and have unloosened their purse strings, and as Col. Henry Wilkinson would say, "are just making things howl" with high bids on all grades of the weed except "dog tail" which never rises or falls on any market as far as we know.

The breaks Friday and Tuesday were good and all who had tobacco on our warehouses echo the satisfaction of good sales. Oxford still clings to the championship of being the best all-round market now in the golden belt, and comes nearer giving all-round satisfaction than any market in the State, if the farmers do not find all our warehouses represented in the columns of the PUBLIC LEDGER.

On it is so nice to pat the editor, the much abused man, on the shoulder, make him feel like he is recognized and tell him that you have a nice break of tobacco and to be sure and come around, expecting him to take down some of the best prices and give the warehouse a regular send-off, but when it comes to putting down the cold hard stuff for an advertisement to put wind in the newspaper to make it continue to blow the market that is a different thing altogether and will not pay.

We are not at all egotistical, but we will challenge any newspaper published in any tobacco town in the State, or out of it, to show a better record than the PUBLIC LEDGER can for the advancement and up-building of its market. It is a pleasure to us to know that we have never failed to do our full duty in this line as well as to advance the interest of our business men, the bed rock of our prosperity.

Fusion Promises Fulfilled. Since the Fusionists "riz" into power things have gone up wonderfully in price, just as the stump-sucking statesmen said they would. In these piping days of peace, plenty and Fusion domination, things fetch fabulous prices. For instance, a mule belonging to the estate of the late W. J. Hardin, sold at auction for 80 cents Monday.—Rutherford Democrat.

Oh! What a Calamity. It is rumored that the black Reps, aided by the leading Pops of the spoil persuasion, are figuring on making the gem of fusion, Rev. Wm. Royster, S. B., the nominee for Sheriff next time so he can be really Sheriff and jailor at one and the same time.

In case such a thing happens the question arises whether Mr. J. T. Cozart will be his first deputy or "my partner" Crews, better known as Douglassite Bill?

If such a dire calamity should befall our grand old county as to have such a chief officer of the law we wonder if our old friend Jerome Tunstall would bob up serenely and continue to be as of old under all administrations, Deputy Sheriff for Sassafras Fork township?

Reunion of Methodists. On next Sunday in the Methodist church at 11 o'clock a reunion of all the members is greatly desired. How rejoiced we would all feel to know that we had all the members possible at one service on the first month of the New Year, and if at one service, why not at all. In making this request for the presence of the members, we do not exclude any one else. Let all who will come. They will find a glad and hearty welcome. But especially do we desire the presence of all the members. The services will be made as interesting and profitable as possible through the Divine help. No collection or anything special only a regathering of all the members whose health and circumstances will permit is earnestly requested by the pastor. Come and let us make next Sunday a glad day in the service of the Master. J. B. HURLEY.
