> Compliment to Two of Oxford's Highly Educated Ladies,

In the News and Observer's account of the proceedings of the ford. meeting of the educators which met in Raleigh last week we find the following:

"Miss Hilliard's paper on 'Literature in Secondary Schools—Its object and Methods of Teaching,' received the closest of attention and has since elicited the highest commendation and warmest praise. It was on all sides pronounced one of thought provoked by the meeting. Prof. Sheep offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, thanking Miss Hilliard for thus honoring the association and expressing the association's high estimate of the value of her utterances upon this important topic."

Dr. George Winston, who attended the Southern Educational Association at Richmond last week says "the gem of the whole meeting was his post of duty at Carrolls, after the paper by Miss Nina Horner, of Oxford, on 'Womanly Education.' The sentiment of the paper was, that man's education fits him to be absolutely accurate and just.
