Legal advertisements, such as adminis trator's and executors' notices, commis sioners' and trustees' sales, summons to of sensational news without foundanon residents, etc., will be charged for at legal rates, except when they exceed a certain limit of space, in which case we reserve the right fix our own price. Entered at the Post-Office at Oxford a second-class mail matter.

Our honored young township CR W. Winston, Esq., is an orator. He is not a "silver-tongued orator," for since that expression has been applied to the present encumbent of our gubernatorial chair we no longer understand its significance. He is a plain, ordinary, everyday orator-less than a Grady perhaps, but cast in the same mould.

In addressing the Chamber of Commerce last night he caught the spirit of the gentlemen who preceeded him, and his speech took a humorous turn for a while. He added force to his remarks by illustrations which began with the WEDNESDAY, FEB. 5, 1890. lacteal fluid of the bovine and finally drifted among the stars. His versatile genius was equally at home in the milky way terrestrial and empyreal. Some unappreciative person in the audience suggested that he "butter stop," another to "cheese it" and still another to "read his answers in the stars," but undaunted he kept eloquently on exercising his milky sway over his hearers. The assembly bore the puns without a struggle, showing the iron constitution of the community and the healthfulness of our city, and furnishing yet another strong and convincing reason for the location of the Baptist Female University in Oxford. In the heat of our indignation and the hurry of preparing the article, we were led yesterday into making a statement in an editorial broader than we intended and capable of our interpretation we never meant it to bear. We did not mean to stigmatize every Republican as a scoundrel; we trust we are more tolerant of those who differ with us in opinion. Our remarks were aimed at Chairman Quay minerals and metals. Specific Enough; Thanks. Durham Sun.

The Oxford DAY was kind enough to copy our article in reply to its criticism upon the Durham county grand injustice. The DAY did assert that it believed the paragraph it commented upon concerning Durham was a piece

So far as our knowledge goes THE paper, however, "would have preferred that our contemporary (the Sun) had been more specific in its denial." Well, neighbor, the open charge you heard that the Durham grand jury found a true bill against a manufacturing firm here and then afterwards "dropped it like a hot coal," is not true, so far as we can learn from the workings of our grand jury. After investigating the matter during their entire session no presentment was returned at all and the Sun so stated when the grand jury adjourned.
