NOTES OF THE DAY.

THE LOCAL HAPPENINGS SERVED IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS.

Minor Events, Retrospective and Prospective, Gathered About the City By Our Alert Reporters.

A force of hands are at work grading Taylor street.
The tobacco sales of yesterday and today "break" the dull record of the past few weeks.
Messrs. Strause & Raab put a large, fine iron safe in one of their Oxford prizeries near the depot this morning.
Today is Ash Wednesday, and the beginning of Lenten season. Services were held at the Episcopal church this morning.
The sunshine conquered the rain, and what promised to be a gloomy day turns out delightfully spring-like and pleasant.
Mr. Henry Pannell, the Iron Roof Paint man, is in the city with his force of men ready for painting. Can be found at Mrs. Smith's boarding house, formerly the Exchange Hotel.
Peter Royster, the negro familiarly known as "Uncle Peter," is now night watchman at the railroad depot. His place as baggage master on the Oxford & Henderson train, which he held for a number of years, is now filled by Mr. Holden, formerly of Raleigh.

The voice of the auctioneer was heard from early in the morn until late in the evening yesterday, and yet, so great was the amount of tobacco, sales occurred at only four out of the six warehouses in the city. Two—the Centre and the Old Granville—had to hold over until this morning. The break was one of the largest of the season, something over twenty thousand dollars passing into the hands of the farmers.
Today, besides the two hold-overs, the other warehouses again have well filled floors, and the market is full of life and activity.

Steadily Growing.
Three new members were initiated into the mysteries of the order by Oxford Lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 103, last night. The returns from all the lodges of North Carolina to the Grand Secretary on January the 1st last showed the Oxford to be the largest in the State. It had a membership then of a hundred and six, which number has since been increased to about one hundred and fifteen.

Sunday School Meeting.
The Granville county Sunday School Association will meet in convention at the Methodist church in Oxford, Saturday, February 22nd, 1890, to appoint delegates to the State Sunday School Convention to be held in Wilmington, February 25th, 26th and 27th, 1890.

Johnston's Vegetable Nolandine, unexcelled as a tonic, liver regulator and blood purifier. For sale by all druggists. The Nolandine Co., Richmond, Va.

That Trust Again.
Trusts are bad things for the people. The farmers broke up the cigarette trust, and trusting, which either ruins the merchant or forces cash customers to foot the bills of dishonest people, is broken up at Furman & Hays' drug store. That then is the place to turn your shekels loose.

To spring a chestnut upon the un-offending reader, we fall back upon "where all acquitted themselves so creditably it would be unfair to particularize," because that expression fits the case better than any other that occurs to us at the moment. It was really an enjoyable performance, and the participants are deserving of separate and hearty encomiums, but our space is not equal to the demands.

The reporter of THE DAY, being a "jiner," had spent a portion of the evening at his lodge, and missed the early numbers of the programme. To this fact he owes the compliment of a repetition of the "Sunshine" song for his special benefit, and we will be pardoned for specially complimenting the pretty Misses Lillie Williams, Mamie Horton and Katie Osborne. They sang very sweetly, and were three little bright sunbeams indeed. Editorial courtesy and merit would be grossly disregarded if we failed to speak of the elocutionary efforts of Miss Rolin Stubbs. She is equally charming and successful on the rostrum as in the editorial chair and the drawing room.

Just before the close Mr. J. W. Hays made a few remarks, stating that the Excelsior Literary Society was organized through the efforts of Miss Mattie W. Rountree, and its purpose was the intellectual improvement of its members. They were in need of furniture and books for their society room, and as the audience was not a large one and the proceeds of the entertainment would not help much to that end, he suggested on his own responsibility that as many Oxford people as wisled to aid the young ladies, become honorary members of the Excelsior, contributing ten cents a week for a year. A canvass of the audience was made, and a flattering number of names secured.

Important Happenings in Other States and Countries.

The Senate has ratified the British extradition treaty with unimportant amendments.
The Attorney General today took to the White House the report in regard to the assassination of Deputy Marshal Saunders. It is understood that it was discussed at the cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon.
The Louisiana Lottery Company is making a desperate effort to retain its corporate life. It has failed to secure a charter from North Dakota, and its next move, it is said, will be an enormous bribe to the Louisiana legislature for a renewal of its present charter, which will expire two years hence. Its proposition will be to pay the entire State debt, amounting to from $1,000,000 to $1,200,000. The lottery is earning $250,000 a month, or $3,000,000 per year, net. Many prominent Louisianians fear that the bribe may be accepted.
An Augusta telegram of yesterday says: This morning, United States Deputy Marshal Corbett, of Macon, and five marshals appeared at Sharon, Ga., and arrested during the day seventeen prominent citizens of the town and county charged with conspiracy and intimidation against E. L. Duckworth, the newly appointed postmaster at Sharon. The marshals were armed with Winchester rifles when they began making the arrests, but they met with no resistance, and later in the day Marshal Corbett instructed his deputies to lay aside their guns, having been assured by those under arrest and other citizens that the arrested parties would accompany them voluntarily wherever ordered. The entire party arrived in Augusta tonight and were taken to the Arlington Hotel. They will have a hearing tomorrow.
