NOTES OF THE DAY.

THE LOCAL HAPPENINGS SERVED IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS.

Minor Events, Retrospective and Prospective, Gathered About the City By Our Alert Reporters.

The Granville Grays will drill tonight.

The town authorities are sowing grass and clover in the new cemetery.

The gardeners say the showers are doing good work for the vegetables.

The municipal election comes off next Monday. Nominations will be made in day or two.

The city commissioners will meet one night this week to prepare a financial exhibit for the past fiscal year.

The young men who are to take part in the amateur minstrel entertainment are requested to meet at the Opera House at eight o'clock tonight.

Specimens of mineral and building stone found in Granville county are being shown on the streets every day. New finds seem to be of daily occurrence.

Rev. F. A. Bishop, pastor of the Methodist Church at Henderson, who exchanged pulpits yesterday with Rev. Mr. W. L. Cuninggim, impressed those who heard him as a speaker of much force and eloquence. He preached two strong sermons.

The registration books for the approaching election of town officers will be closed tomorrow night at midnight. Those who are entitled to vote and have not already registered, should have their names enrolled without delay. Mr. Frank B. Hays is registrar, and the books are at Messrs. Furman & Hays' drugstore, on Commercial Avenue.

The Mississippi Flood.

A New Orleans telegram says that the stories of suffering and danger of loss of life in the overflowing district are, to say the least, premature. That financial calamity has fallen upon this splendid section of Louisiana, unfortunately is too true; but attempt to color it with tragedy is manifestly absurd. Thus far some stock have been drowned, and it is impossible to say how serious the loss to stock may be in the interior, but even now there are many who will not take the trouble to have their stock removed though they are absolutely sure to be overtaken by the rising backwater within the next few days. The current statement that there has been a general surrender along the line of defense, is wholly erroneous.

Passenger Rates to Unveiling of the Lee Monument at Richmond.

PURELY PERSONAL.

The Doings and Whereabouts of Some People You Know.

Mr. T. E. Hicks went to Clarksville, Va., today.

Mr. J. M. Norwood is spending the day at Henderson.

Mr. Robt. Hunt came back yesterday from a visit to Danville, Va.

Mr. J. A. Taylor went to Richmond, Va., on the morning train.

Mr. R. F. Rice, a former Oxonian now of Greensboro, is in the city.

Mr. Jas. Collins, of the Ledger, is on a visit to friends at Goldsboro.

Mr. W. H. P. Jenkins, county superintendent of public instruction, is in town today.

Rev. W. L. Cuninggim preached at Henderson yesterday, returned to the city this morning.

Misses Mollie Scott and Annie Taylor, who have been here for several days, returned to their home near Townsville this morning.

Mr. Dixie Blacknall has secured a position as telegraph operator on the Atlantic & Danville Railroad.

Misses Anna Landis and Tempe Williams left this morning for Buffalo Springs, Va., where they will attend a marriage next Wednesday morning.

Mr. F. H. Busbee, of Raleigh, is in the city, appearing for the Richmond & Danville Railroad in a suit against the company being tried today before Granville Superior Court.

New Depot Needed.

The passenger accommodations at the O. & C. depot are not what they should be. The waiting rooms are small, and the approach to them along a narrow and crowded platform is decidedly inconvenient.

The combination of freight and passenger depot does not meet the requirements of a town as large as Oxford. Usually half the people waiting for trains are unable to get into the rooms. Standing outside they will wander on the tracks. There have been more than one narrow escape from serious accidents from shifting freight cars, in the past few weeks' on this account.

There is a piece of property at the junction of McClannahan street, which the railroad authorities ought to purchase. It is admirably situated, and a handsome passenger depot there would be just the thing.

Richmond Tobacco Market.

[Correspondent of THE DAY.]

RICHMOND, VA., April 26.—If the market has shown no outward signs of activity, it is not that sales have been dull, for considering the quality and limited stock of old the week's business has aggregated a very satisfactory sum total, with sales of seventy-five to one hundred and fifty hogheads per day.

Any thing that could be classed as a wrapper sold as such, with prices commensurate, while good and sound fillers of every class were active at full prices and in strong demand. In new wrappers there have been little movement, in cutters something stirring, in smokers an active business and in scraps a fair amount changed hands.

Among the outside buyers was Mr. J. H. Shrieber, of Ware Tobacco Co., St. Paul, Minn. Mr. J. M. Taylor contemplates a trip to New York next week.

A new cigarette machine is being tested in this city, and it may be a surprise to the heretofore leaders in this line to know its capacity. W. E. D.

Police Protection Demanded.

[By telegraph to THE DAY.]

CHICAGO, ILL., April 28.—The labor troubles are assuming alarming proportions and are hourly growing more serious. Threats are being openly made against non-union carpenters who are at work, and police protection was demanded for them this morning. They may be attacked by the strikers at any moment despite the presence of the officers of the law.

Kemmler to Die Wednesday Morning.

[By telegraph to THE DAY.]

NEW YORK, April 28.—Semi-official information has been received from the Auburn State Prison that William Kremmler, the brutal murderer of a wretched woman, will pay the penalty of his crime Wednesday morning. He will be executed by electricity.

A description of the unique execution and the chair is given by Warden Dunston as follows: "See, it is like this frail office arm-chair, only not finished. The man sits down as I sit. There is an iron rod running up the centre of the back of his chair to point a foot, perhaps, over his head. There is a cross-piece here from which hangs a rubber cup containing a wet sponge. That cup is applied to the apex of the man's head.

"There is a copper wire hanging from the ceiling of the room and connecting with this cup. That wire goes up to the roof and along over the north wing to the roof of the old hol low-ware shop. There it connects with the dynamo machine, 1000 feet away down in the prison yard, on the north side. Then there is another rubber cup containing a wet sponge attached to the upright iron rod adjustable to the base of the man's spine. The man's arms and legs are bound to the arms and legs of the chair, and he is held firmly to the chair back by a cord.

"His coat and shirt are raised. One sponge cup is applied to the base of his spine; the other sponge cup is on his head; the circuit is complete. The button is touched, and Wm. Kemmler is dead."

There are several who have expressed themselves as willing to become Mayor Smith's successor.

Geo. A. Hubby, agent for the Malory Steamship line, at Jacksonville, Fla., it is alleged, forced Mrs. Thorp, a young widow, to marry him by threats of bodily harm. The lady after the ceremony fainted. She has gone to her parents and refuses to live with her husband. She is a daughter of Col. E. R. Brink, formerly postmaster at Wilmington, N. C.

At Atlanta Saturday there was a large and distinguished gathering of ex-Confederates to take part in the exercises of laying the cornerstone for the new Confederate Veterans' Home. A special incident of the day was the wildly enthusiastic reception given Gen. Johnston by his old soldiers. When his carriage first appeared there was a shout and probably 5,000 veterans crowded around to see "Old Joe." He and Gen. Kirby Smith were in the same carriage. The old soldiers cut the horses loose and dragged the carriage up and down for several blocks.
