NOTES OF THE DAY.

THE LOCAL HAPPENINGS SERVED IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS.

The Minor Events About the City as Gathered by the Alert Reporters of The Day.

The trees are almost naked.
The weather is warm enough for fans and limeades.

Regular meeting of Oxford Lodge, No. 103, I. O. O. F., tonight.

The break of tobacco in the city today was a heavy one, and sold well.

It is said that one of our citizens will build ten dwelling houses in South Oxford.

The meeting of the Oxford Board of Trade, called for last night, was postponed.

The Horner School cadets have a holiday today, and many of them are out hunting.

The young ladies and gentlemen who take part in Ye Olde Folks Concert are rehearsing every night in the Opera House.

A visitor said: "There is an unmistakable air of thrift about Oxford.
I regard this as one of the coming towns of the South."

There will be a marriage in the city tomorrow morning. Two of Oxford's popular young people will be united in matrimony's holy bonds.

The policemen are really having nothing to do in the way of making arrests. From their point of view, the people are dreadfully good.

J. A. Roberts is canvassing the northern cities in the interest of the Oxford Land, Improvement and Manufacturing Company's $100,000 cotton factory.

J. G. Hall has given out a contract to Mr. Hartge, of Tarboro, to add thirty six feet to the length of his store house. The work is to be completed by November 14.

If you are a merchant and your daily sales are not as large as you would like them to be, try an advertisement in THE DAY and see if it doesn't bring you customers.

Ye Olde Folks Concert at the Opera House next Friday night. Some splendid voices will render the sweet, old-time songs. The costumes and comedy business will be rich and mirth-provoking.

Information of interest to buyers is contained in the new advertisement of B. G. Medford in THE DAY. He offers goods very cheap. "Prices tell the tale," he says, and we advise the public to read his prices in another column and then give him an early call.

Furman & Hays have a brand of cigars, the "Apple Jack," just in. It is an excellent smoke—the best to be had for five cents. It is a new brand on this market, but has a high, established reputation in the big cities. Try one; you will enjoy it.

When the extension to South Oxford is completed, the Richmond & Danville's track will form three fourths of a circle around Oxford. It will be easy enough at some future day to build the other one fourth, and lo! and behold, we will have a belt-line!

Track to South Oxford.

Fifty or more hands began this morning grading the road bed for the new track to South Oxford. This force will be doubled in a few days.

The route for this track is different from the one originally selected. It starts from the main line of the Oxford & Clarksville road just below the new cemetery, crosses the Royster plantation and enters the property of the Oxford Land, Improvement and Manufacturing Company in the southwest corner.

The track will probably be a mile in length. It will be completed as rapidly as possible.

Rev. Jos. Rennie has accepted the call to the Presbyterian church in Oxford, and will remove here with his family next Thursday. The parsonage on Gilliam St. is being refurbished and fixed up generally for their reception. The members of the Ladies Aid Society are busy as bees attending to this.

Mr. Rennie's coming is looked forward to with much pleasure, not only by his congregation, but by all the people of the city.

A Voice from Kansas.

The president of Farmers' Alliance lodge in Kansas writes to the Granville County Farmers' Alliance Tobacco Manufacturing Company of this place for samples of smoking tobacco, and says prompt attention will "oblige a brother that has just been helping to burst the g. o. p. (grand old party). Oh, haven't we made them grunt! We have given them all the bloody-shirt that they will ever want again, and laid their John J. Ingalls' rebel skinner up to dry."

A Nightmare Parody.

The reader is of course familiar with those beautiful lines written by the Irish-Confederate poet:

On fame's eternal canping ground, Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn round The bivouac of the dead.

Some one sends us the following nightmare of a parody on that verse: On Oppenheimer's slaughter ground Silently lay 'the dead, And gory marks are all around That beef-wacked on the head.

A syndicate, composed of Lynn, Mass., and Kansas City capitalists, has secured by purchase one hundred and seventy-five thousand acres of land in Madison and Yancey counties, heavily timbered and contains mammoth deposits of iron ore and some mica. The company will be capitalized at one million dollars and besides developing ore mines and timber they will encourage cattle raising and to bacco growing, build a manufacturing lands with lines already in operation.

A terrible story of a Newfoundland dog killing a baby and eating off its head for revenge on the child's parents, comes from Rockland, S. D.
Gusi Cartwright was working a placer claim there. His wife and baby were the other two members of the family. Mrs. Cartwright had occasion to punish their big dog, and did so.
Shortly afterward she left the baby and dog together in front of the cabin while she went to the spring for a pail of water. On her return she fell in a dead faint upon discovering that the dog had attacked the child and literally eaten its head off. The husband, when he returned to the cabin, seized an axe and killed the dog.
