SPRING THAE

The love of the beatifu！is a na－ tural impulse that thrills all our hearts and brightens the gloom that shrouds the rough and rugged ways of life．For all along the pathway， be it everso drear and lonely，there springs up a little ilower here，a blade of grass there，and sometimes a tiny wreath winds itself among the gupping rocks to hide their bleak and ragged looks－perliaps a bird sits on the swinging bough and gladdens with its music the sonl of the weary traveler；or near by，a singing rill goes sweeping o＇er its pebbly buttom，just in place to cool the fevered brow of the weary and worn．So in life，the way is often cheersd by visions of beanty，scenes that are lovely to behold，and music whose strains sound very beautiful to us care－worn mortals，

We have been reminded of these things by the coming of the rosy spring time，whose tiny footstep treads so lightly o＇er hill and dale， and，as she goes，scatters fowers rich and rare with which to grace the festive scene，when she shall crown the blooming May Queen of the season．Als！very heantiful is the smile of Cod＇s 1 ve to the child－ ren of men；when the gladdens their hearts with the soft betming sun－ light，the balmy winds，the spring－ ing flowers and the forest music of Spring－time．Truly there may be shadows upon the spirits of some of us which shut out many of the glo． ries and sadden some of the notes of melody that wouldotherw ise burst upon ts in all their accustomed radiance and harmony．But ereu from such hearts，though crushed and broken they be，there steals up； an incense of praise and thanks． giving to the throne ot their Matier that the Spring time，the type of a final re awakening，the joyous har， ger of＂peace on earth and greed will towards men，＇has come to pont us in that world of fadeless light， where it is one eternal spring－time．

ISSUE OF VERACITY．

A few years ago an issue of ve－ racity arose between General Grant and President Johnson in whels the former came out second best．Now it seems an issue of veracity has arisen between Crant and ex－Attor－ ney General Williams．Between the two latter it is hard to decide which is most entitled to credence． The course of the ex－Attorney Gen－ eral has covered his name with obloquy aud Grant＇s record of late years，in view of the disreputable characters who have controlled his administration，has been mader a dark clond of suspicion，which is gradually lowering over his head in darker and darker shades at every new development of crime，among his subordinates．His thrd term aspirations have been shipwrecked by the iniquities of his favorites， and if he retires from the Presiden－ ey withont the utter amihilation of his own character，he may congrat－ ulate himself on a degree of good fortume greater than that asmally rouchsafed to mortals．
