THE COLORED FIREMEN.

The Colored Firemen of the State are an Orderly Set of Men.

The Colored Firemen's Association niet in Oxford Tuesday morning for a three day's session, and they crowded as much pleasure into their visit as was possible. There were not less than five hundred firemen in the parade, escurred by the Oxford and Winstea Brass Bands, and their uniforms of white, of blue and of drab were very near and plearing to the eye as they passed in review. They stood in open as their President, J. S. Plummer, the schools are near at hand. passed down the line on his annual inspection, and when he had reached the end of the line they gave him thee cheers, three cheers for Oxford, and three cheers for the Oxford Fire

As a general thing the companies represented here were young men and many of them are as suple as cats and well qualified to fight fire. They were neither boisterous, loud or profane; they reflected careful training for their work and an aptitude for discipline, the two cardinal points of the organi-

Here, at the dance, is where troubles overtake the colored race, and ordinarily you can see the handle of a razor in evidence, but not so at the colored firemen's ball; they were quite orderly and showed a difference for one

The reel races were an exhibition well worth seeing, and showed an aptness on the part of the colored man to move around at a lively rate.

The Oxford Company won first prize in the grab reel contest. The next and 50 cents meeting goes to Concord.

Taken as a whole it is doubtful if one could find in the State a more orderly crowd of colored people than the colored fire fighters.

OUR NEW STEAM LAUNDRY

It is an Enterprise Worthy of Our Patronage---Open for Business Monday.

The people of Oxford can now reoice in having an up-to-date steam laundry, which will be open for business next Monday morning. The Public Ledger in enumerating the many opportunities in Oxford always included in the list an up-to-date steam laundry. Mr. C. O Eakes, the proprietor, came to Oxford some three months ago and after canvasing the situation carefully decided to embark in business here. He has had large experience in the laundry business; his machinery is the most modern that money can buy and the water supply is ideal for high-class laundry work, and the prices are most reason-

Mr. Eakes has a neat laundry wagon which will start on its rounds next Monday morning, calling at every home in Oxford. He invites a close inspection of the plant and the hygienic methods in which the work is carried on. A lady operator is present to see that the garments of their lady customers are properly mended, all buttons in place and garments immaculate before they leave the laundry building. No one could expect greater inducements to patronize home enterprise than is offered by Mr. Eakes. His work is a shade better and a shade cheaper than the imported work which has been coming to Oxford for a long time, to say nothing of the conveniencies the home enterprise furnishes the good people of Oxford, and if they should send their work elsewhere to have it done, without first giving Mr. Eakes a fair trial, they will stand in their own light.

The Public Ledger extends to Mr. Eakes and his family a cordial greetiing and trust that his affiliations will be both pleasant and profitable.

Experiment Station.

The experiment work in tobacco conducted by Mr. E. G. Moss on a portion of the County Home farm should Mrs. Harry Williams and son, John. receive greater attention from the are spending the week at Buffalo farmers of Granville county. It is not intended here to indulge in any fulsome flattery of Mr. Moss or to express any sterotyped commendation on the success achieved by him, for as Gov. Aycock once truthfully said in introducing a speaker, the man who needs this does not deserve it and the man who deserves it does not need it. It is not out of place, however, in view of the public nature of this experiment work to publish to the people of the county that Mr. Moss is held in the Miss Scotia Hobgood, of Kinston, is very highest regard by the government visiting her brother, Mr. Sam Hobgood officials under whom he works, both as to his personal ability and his expert knowelge. Mr. Moss is a native of Messrs. C. G. Sanford, of Knap of Granville county, a graduate of the State University, a specialist along scientific lines, not only a practical tobacco raiser but an expert in every phase of the plant's life. The State has few men in its employ who combine in such an eminent degree theoretical knowledge and practical common sense.

The writer is moved to make these statements not for any benefit it will be to the man in question. In all probability it will be distasteful to him, but is it done with the hope that it may in a measure help towards attracting the attention of the tobacco raisers of the county to the experiment work conducted in their midst and add some weight to the authority that should be attached to the head of this demontake no action that would impair the the road, paid a short visit to his sister stration. Experiments are being made that would be impossible to the average farmer, the results of which may add thousands of dollars to the county's income. As an illustration of what can be done, one of the best tobacco farmers of the county consented to have a small plot of ground prepared and cultivated under the direction of Mr. Moss. The farmer ter, Miss Susie Boyd Roberts, of Chase states that if all of the crop on his farm had been cultivated in the same way it would have added over $500 to its value. Multiply this by 100, 200, 500 and you will get some idea of the great increase that will be added to the income of the farmers by learning to use better methods in their farm operations.
