Doing Well.

The money that is now being spent in Stanly county by the Norfolk and Southern Railroad and the great Southern Alumnum Co., is being felt by all business. Money seems to be plentiful and everybody happy. The farmers are paying for all of their supplies and the mortgages that have been on most of the farms are getting to be a thing of the past, and the county is coming to the front faster in farming than along any other line.

Uncle Sam a Fine Cook.

A contemporary, is commenting on the multitudinous activities of Uncle Sam, remarks that he is a fine cook, as well as efficient in other lines. Through the Department of Agriculture he has published a number of cook-books, 12,000,000 of them having been distributed among the housewives of the nation. The latest is on how to cook mutton. It is stated that 2,235,000 copies of the bulletin on "The Economic Use of Meat in the House," were distributed and that Congress itself had 500,000 copies printed, in addition to those distributed by the department. "Of the bread-making pamphlet, nearly 500,000 have been distributed and of the cheese leaflets almost 300,000 have been sent out."

The Big Estate.

The estate of John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster, was officially appraised Friday a week ago, at close to $88,000,000 of which Vincent Astor receives $68,964,499, Mrs. Madalene Force Astor $7,678,896, Muaiel Astor $4,856,758, and John Jacob Astor, Jr., son by second marriage, $2,922,672. The estate is declared to be the largest ever appraised in this country.

Who is Rich?

A great bank account cannot make a man rich. The more a man hoards the more he wants. What makes a man truly rich? Not his bank book, but his soul. A man may have much money and thousands of acres of land, and yet have a poor heart. A man or a woman who starves the soul is never rich. Is the constant endeavor to get an extra thousand dollars, the striving, the worrying for it—is this being rich?

Real contentment is riches. The well-rounded mind, the even temper, the recollection of good deeds, the valiant soul—these are riches that outweigh all the pleasures that can be purchased with paltry dollars. The over rich person too seldom smiles.

Why Neglect Them?

Why should North Carolina her sources of wealth? Why should we neglect the cattle, sheep and stock industry which ought to bring millions of dollars into the State? says the Star. When we develop the money-getting resources of North Carolina we can turn the tide of wealth in this direction.

Why should either North Carolina or Georgia spend more than all the money they get for their cotton crops in order to feed themselves and their stock on Western products? According to Secretary Cooper, of Atlanta, Ga., Chamber of Commerce, lacks $37,000,000 annually of making enough money out of its cotton crop to pay for the food supplies brought into that State. Nothing more need be said to emphasize the fact that we are actually neglecting to develop our agricultural resources. With all these resources neglected and opportunities by the hundreds awaiting takers, this would be a great country for live people to come to.

County School Supervisor.

The office of County Supervisor of Schools is the new department to be annexed to the rural school life of North Carolina during the school year of 1913-1914.

Five counties in the State have already been authorized to employ a supervisor of county schools, which office is a distinct creation and apart from that of superintendent from county schools. The counties of Johnson, Sampson, Granville, McDowell, Northampton, Wilkes, and Albemarle—the three latter counties possibilities—have been designated by L. C. Brogdon, supervisor of rural elementary schools, as the counties in the State that will employ a supervisor during the next school year.

This departure in the rural school life, which will only be in its experimental stage the coming school term, is made possible by the Peabody Educational Fund, which contributes to each of the counties designated by Mr. Brogdon $250 toward the salary of the supervisor. The county boards of education are to contribute $550 towards the salary of the supervisor as it has been estimated that the office will employ lady supervisors at a salary of $800.

The duties, as only partially and generally outlined by Mr. Brogden, who will have general supervision of this department of rural school work, will be to personally supervise the work of not over ten rural schools in each county, and the ten schools or less are to be named by the county superintendent of each county. The office empowers the supervisor to note the work of the school room in each of the ten schools named by the county superintendent. The progress in each department is to be personally noted by the supervisor and in grades where interest seems to be lagging on the part of pupil or teacher, the supervisor is to give a brace. To seek a remedy for weak departments in each school; why interest is dead in languages or maybe mathematics; and the whyness thereof are to be the duties of the supervisor. The work of the county superintendent will be supplemented materially by the supervisor who will be a persistent eye-witness to the work of teacher and pupil in the school room.

The office of supervisor makes the specific provision that the supervisor of each county during the vacation months shall spend her time in clerical work in the office of the county superintendent.

Granville county was the initial county to annex the office of supervisor and the counties of Sampson, McDowell, and Johnston followed in close succession. The new creation in the rural school life was made possible by the Peabody Fund, and although the counties given the opportunity to experiment with a supervisor during the first year, is limited, the list of counties will in all probability be trebled the session following.

The Board of Education of Granville county has adopted the supervisor school system and selected one of our own excellent young ladies to get the benefit of the fine salary of $800, Miss Mary Shotwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Shotwell, of Oxford, who is well equipped for the position, as she has had considerable experience as a teacher and will do her part well.

Death of Aged Lady.

On Wednesday last Mrs. L. M. Gordon, a devout christian lady, fell asleep at her home near Tally Ho church. She was about seventy-three years of age, and joined Tally Ho church when she was fifteen years old. She is survived by four children, as follows: J. M. Ellington, of Oxford; L. G. Ellington, of Durham; Mrs. Ida G. Newlin and Mrs. Hettie McDonald, of Tally Ho section. A large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends gathered at Tally Ho church Thursday, where she was laid to rest.

Discrimination.

The business interests of Oxford and Granville county are deeply in earnest in the movement in progress to remove freight rate discriminations against North Carolina points. If there is a full co-operation among those working to this end, and so far a splendid spirit of co-operation is being manifested, there is no reason why the shippers of the State should not be victorious in this contest.
