DeKOVEN MALE QUARTET.

One Night Only.

THE DeKOVEN MALE QUARTETT ranks among the very few first class Male Quartets before the American Public today. So well has this organization become known in the last decade that few committees are unaware of its high standard or excellence. They are untiring in their efforts to please and we have no hesitancy in guaranteeing their every appearance. They make a specialty of singing the old songs of which we are all so fond and add to this an unusual variety of entertainment and classical music.

They render the best in the modern quarter music and in addition to this they offer a program of unusual variety consisting of musical sketches, water color paintings, impersonations and readings, also cornet and trombone selections. The DeKovens can fill a week of engagements and not repeat a number.

Prices 50 and 75c.

One Night Only Starts at 8:30.

Lost Two Mules Friday Night

One of the Mr. Boyds, of Oxford, had his team of three mules moving some one out towards Stovall and in going down a hill near Lewis the lead mule stumbled and fell and broke his neck. It was dark and the two mules behind had to be unhitched to get the wagon off the dead mule. The mule with the saddle walked off in the dark and was not found until next morning, when his lifeless body was found on the ground beneath the railroad trestle over the old Hicks pond. He must have taken the railroad near that point on his way to Oxford and walked off the trestle and broke his neck also. This proved quite a loss to Mr. Boyd.

A Pretty Marriage

Corinth Baptist church was the scene of a pretty wedding December 23, when Miss Lila Eakes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Eakes, was united in marriage to Fred A. Phipps. The church was beautifully decorated with ferns and smilax, arranged on each side of the altar were eighteen candles signifying the age of the bride.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Janie Pearl Rogers, of Creedmoor, played the wedding march, Misses Blanche Eakes and Inez Frazier came up the left aisle and Ailene Usry and Dulcie Tunstall came up the right aisle and opened the white gates making a way open to the altar, they were followed by the ushers, B. R. Pitta, R. M. Tunstall, Maurice Daniel and Mr. Currin. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Susie Critcher, of Oxford, dressed in crepe meteor with rhinestone trimming and carried roses and maiden hair fern. Then came the little ring bearer, Nellie Tunstall, niece of the bride.

The bride beautifully dressed in crepe de chine with pearl trimming and carrying white carnations and ferns, her veil arranged cap effect with bandeau of lillies of the valley, came next leaning on the arm of her father. The groom with his best man, Walter Phipps, his brother. The bride and groom met at the altar which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. The ceremony was performed by Dr. R. H. Marsh, the ring ceremony being used.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Phipps left on the Seaboard train for their honeymoon. The bride is very popular especially among her school mates at Oxford College, where she attended school. Her wide circle of friends regret to lose her. The groom is a very successful young business man.
