THE NATIONAL HIGHWAY LIGHT VOTE PREDICTED MOVEMENT OF PEOPLE.

High Officials of the Washington-Atlanta Road Visit Oxford and Inaugurate Work

PATROLMEN FOR GRANVILLE COUNTY APPOINTED

Messrs. James and Winslow, of the Office of United States Public Roads, were in Oxford Tuesday looking over the National Highway. They are making the trip from Atlanta to Washington in a Ford car, having left Richmond early Monday morning.

Mr. James is Chief of the Washington-Atlanta National Highway, and Mr. Winslow has charge of the Richmond-Fayetteville division.

Mr. James stated that the object of the present trip is to appoint patrolmen and organize for work.

The National Highway crosses the river at Clarksville and enters Granville county, at a point near Soudan and continues through Stovall, Oxford, Providence and Stem.

The National Highway covers about 32 miles in Granville county, from a point on the North Carolina-Virginia State line to a point on the Granville-Durham county line.

It is stipulated that the National Government will put the road in good condition and maintain it at a cost to the county of $60 a mile. It is stated that there is no such a thing as a perfect road, but those in authority say that automobiles and horse drawn vehicles can travel the Washington-Atlanta Highway with comparatively ease in the very worse kind of weather.

We hail with pleasure the advent of the National Highway through Granville. It will assure to the county 32 miles of almost perfect road and will be the means of bringing the county into prominence. In a very short while we may expect to see a map of the National Highway with Oxford, Stovall, and Stem in large letters.

Mr. Robert Butler, of Stovall, has been appointed patrolman of the road from Oxford to the Virginia State line. The patrolman for the other end of the road has not been appointed as yet.

IN HONOR OF BRIDE-ELECT The pleasant and attractive Miss Nett Gregory was at home Thursday afternoon from 5:30 to 7 o'clock in honor of Miss Martha Ferebee. The spacious home was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and pond lilies and presented a scene of transcendent beauty and loveliness as more than 75 of our fair ladies were present. Mrs. A. A. Chapman, and Mrs. George W. Hobbs, of Rutherford, N. J., received the guests and ushered them into screened porch to the punch bowl, which was charmingly presided over by Mrs. Albright and Miss Annie Crews.

After being served to the delicious punch escorted into the parlor where the petite bride-elect and her bridesmaids, Misses Mary Webb, Annie Gregory, of Stovall, May White, Nett Gregory, and Josephine Brown, along with Mrs. M. C. Taylor, the dame of honor, received them. The entertaining games of Rooke and Bridge were played with much zest and admirable scores were made.

Choice cream and cake were served with a miniature cupid accompanying each plate, after which the guests departed fully convinced that Miss Nett Gregory was indeed a most charming hostess.

Dr. L. V. Henderson will leave Tuesday to attend the meeting of the Dental Association at Hendersonville and will return the next Monday.

The Polls Will Be Opened at One O'clock and Close at 7 O'clock P. M. Sharp

VERY LIKELY A SECOND PRIMARY WILL BE REQUIRED

The candidates and friends of candidates will gather at all the voting places in Granville county this Saturday to vote and work for those whom they believe will serve the best interests of the people. It is barely possible that the returns from the entire county will enable one to estimate with a degree of accuracy the strength of each candidate within the closing hour of the contest, surely by 10 o'clock at the latest.

While the people of Granville fully realize the importance of electing only good men, it requires a National, State and county election to get out a full vote.

Those who have been keeping close watch on the campaign predict that some of the old officers will be re-elected; others believe there will be a close contest for two of the offices, while others believe it will require a second primary to ascertain the choice of the people.

The corridor of the Court House, as on former occasions of the kind, will be the mecca of those who wish to know the result before they retire for the night.

UPLIFT AND PROGRESS The Public Ledger is your paper. There has never been a time when the Public Ledger was not "of the people, for the people and with the people," heart and soul. We have fought the battles of the people, honestly, earnestly and zealously. Some of our 20,000 readers may not have agreed with us on some subjects, but in the main we have striven to serve the very best interest of the people.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT Miss Josephine Brown entertained on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Martha Ferebee and Mr. Lee Taylor, her childhood friends, only the bridal party were present. After a spirited game of Rooke, supper was served in five courses. The place cards were wedding bells and the table was decorated with pink orchids and shaded candles.

The bride-to-be served the cake decorated with wedding rings and a miniature bride and groom. Souvenirs were petite hat boxes bearing labels of foreign countries filled with paints, heart shaped.

Miss Betsie Fallou greeted the guests upon their arrival.

DUTY OF THE OFFICER A law is a law, and it is the duty of the officer to enforce all laws. Don't violate the law unless you are willing to pay a fine. Don't get mad with an officer when he hauls you up for violating the law. The penalty for not doing his duty is enough to make an officer alert, and aside from this they are elected or appointed to enforce the laws, or to see that violators are indicted. Don't get mad with an officer for doing his duty.

Mrs. F. W. Hancock is spending some time at Hendersonville.

Mrs. Charles Fleming and fine children after a delightful visit to relatives in Oxford returned to their home in Wilson yesterday.

"SAINT JOHN'S DAY"

Rain or Shine, the Days of all Days of the Year, Will Be Fittingly Observed

A ROYAL RECEPTION AWAITS ALL WHO COME

The one big day of all the year in Oxford is St. John's Day, June 24th. Bright and early next Wednesday morning the people from all over Granville will lay aside their daily tasks and close their doors and come to Oxford. A half dozen passenger trains will pull in and swell the throng to thousands. They are thrice welcome each and every one of them to the dear old town.

The prime object of the gathering is to enjoy a good barbecue dinner on the Asylum grounds, listen to good speeches and music and to become in closer touch with the Orphan endeavor.

There are no secret chambers about the Oxford Orphan Asylum, and he who may can wonder about the grounds and buildings to his heart's content without fear of molestation even by the proverbial goat.

There was a time in the history of Granville, and in fact all other counties, when drinking men were seen at all large celebrations, but this is happily a thing of the past and the most ordinary man has a higher conception of St. John's Day.

We bid as many as can to lay aside the cares of the home and the farm next Wednesday and come to Oxford. A royal welcome is extended individually and collectively to each and every individual who cares to enter upon the joys of the blessed occasion. There is plenty of room in Oxford for fifteen thousand people, and preparations are under way to serve an elegant barbecue dinner on the Asylum grounds. The shoats are home grown, fat, plump, and the right size to insure an ideal cut of barbecue for the most fastidious.

If the day should be warm there will be plenty of ices to quench your thirst; if it should rain there is plenty of shelter to protect you. If you are of a sporty nature, you can see a good game of base ball at Horner Park. The day will be crowded full of interest. The merchants and all good people of Oxford bids you a most hearty welcome.

HAPPY JUNE WEDDING On Tuesday night at 11 o'clock the pleasant home of Mrs. J. F. Currin was the scene of a quiet but pretty marriage when her pretty granddaughter, Miss Thelma C. Averett, became the happy bride of Mr. Grover D. Gholson, one of Oxford's prominent business men, being manager of the large firm of Lyon-Winston Co. The nuptials took place in beautiful decorated parlor, witnessed by members of the family, Rev. G. T. Lumpkin performing the ceremony. The lovely bride was handsomely attired in a go-away gown with hat to match, carrying a bouquet of American beauty roses.

There were no waiters. Shortly after congratulations Mr. and Mrs. Gholson left in an automobile for Henderson and took the North bound train for a tour of the Northern cities and Niagara Falls. We join their many friends in extending congratulations.

INTERESTING TOURISTS On their return from Richmond Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Griffith and a party of ladies from Thomasville, arrived in Oxford Wednesday afternoon and spent an hour in driving about town. The tourists were enthusiastic over that portion of the National Highway they traveled between Richmond and Oxford and stated that Oxford was the prettiest little city they had seen anywhere in their travels.

A SCENE OF INDUSTRY Miss Lizzie Gooch, who has been spending some time in Albemarle, is at home for the summer. Miss Gooch visited the little town of Baiden, on Yaddin river, where a French syndicate is spending $50,000,000 on an aluminum plant. She says the town is laid off nicely and the churches, club houses, and dwellings for the officers and cottages for the workmen's families present an attractive appearance in the semi-mountainous hills overlooking a broad lake.

AT HOME TO FRIENDS Granville County's biggest, busiest and best store will be wide open for the reception of their friends and customers on St. John's Day. Usual attractive offerings in merchandise will be offered embracing a substantial reduction on coat suits, white goods, ladies neckwear, lawns and crepes and men's clothing. See the adv. of Landis & Easton elsewhere in this paper.
